24,000 SEALS!

Newfoundland Entered Port Last Midnight Hailing for the Above Trip of Prime Harps.

The s.s. Newfoundland, Capt. Jacob Kean, arrived here from the icefields at midnight with 24,000 prime young harps. From Capt. Kean we learn that after the ship left Westville on the morning of March 12th, in company with the wooden ships, she ran until off the Barracks of Foxe, when she burnt down. Continuing on the 18th at daylight she had hard work of it for about 6 days in trying to force through the floe, which was exceedingly heavy. On the afternoon of Friday, the 18th, the ship reached the patch from which the Florizel, Algerine, Eagle, Bellaventure and the others procured their seals. There were still many whitecoats about, and on Saturday, the 19th, the crew turned to with a will and by dark had killed and panned 11,000 seals. On Sunday, the 20th, the crew worked hard picking up the pans, hoisting the seals on board and stowing them in the hold. On Monday, March 21st, with the first flash of dawn, all were quickly over the side and did a fine day's work, accounting for 9,000 pelts by nightfall. Something over 3,000 each day for the 22nd and 23rd were added to the ship's fare and she commenced to sit low in the water. On Thursday, March 24th, something over 2,000 were cleaned up, and the patch seemed to be pretty well "all in" owing mostly to the fact that several ships had come in from the eastward and had secured their quota on the 21st and 22nd. The vessel had been picking up pans from the 25th March until Thursday last, the 31st, but after that date it was found difficult to reach the pans, and most of the seals were hauled on board. On the morning of Friday last the last seals were put on board. The ship was well filled below the hatches, several pounds of seals were placed on deck, and then the captain decided to bear up for home, the ship then being about 60 miles E.N.E. of the Funks. She had fine weather coming south, and Capt. Kean reports that yesterday morning he saw the Beothic and Eagle away to the eastward, forcing through the ice, and believes they were following the hoods. Thursday evening last the Adventure was seen bound east and looking light, she was evidently making for the old fat. The Neptune was not seen since March 19th, nor was any report heard from her, so that it is thought she must have struck the hoods and may yet have a big trip of fat. The young seals have now taken to the water and the only chance for the wooden steamers is to get a round turn on the hoods. The prospects for some of them are not bright, however. This is Capt. Jacob Kean's fourth year in command, and he has been a very successful skipper. In the Virginia Lake he loaded her twice, but last year lost her in heavy rattling ice. We congratulate Capt. Kean on his well merited success. The following ships are reported by Capt. Kean, and their fares are:

Eagle	29,000
Aurora	9,000
Ranger	4,000
Adventure	3,000
Bloodhound	3,000
Erik	3,000
Diana	3,000
Seals in port	141,000
	151,000
Total	292,000

Should the Neptune secure the estimated 15,000 old and the Labrador and Kite 5,000 each, this would give an aggregate of 317,000. Vessels like the Bonaventure, Beothic, Aurora, Adventure and Eagle should at least add 20,000 additional to the catch, so that at the very least 340,000 seals should be the aggregate for the spring of 1910.

Love is Business.

If a man loves a woman, that's his business. If a woman loves a man, that's her business. To get your goods from us, that's your business. Why do we sell so cheap? That's our business. Marine Notes.

The schr. John Harvey, 23 days out from Cadiz, arrived at Belleoram Saturday salt laden; all well. The s.s. Rosalind sailed for Halifax and New York at 6.30 p.m. Saturday. The cruiser Fiona is now getting a new mainmast with other repairs. Her engines will be overhauled later and when finished she will be in good trim for her season's work.

Do You Know Your Ailment

Or is it a complication which can be reached only by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

There is only one medicine that can prove thoroughly satisfactory in complicated ailments of the liver and kidneys, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They begin by regulating the bowels and awakening the action of the liver, thereby effecting a thorough cleansing of the excretory system. By thus removing the poisons from the system they lighten the work of the kidneys and gradually restore them to health. Nobody who once learns of the definite and certain action of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in regulating and invigorating the kidneys, liver and bowels, is willing to take chances by experimenting with other medicines.

Such ailments as biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion, liver complaint and kidney disease yield readily to this treatment.

Cochrane St. Church.

On Thursday evening, at the above church, there will be held a Recital, in which the Easter music will have a large part. One vocal number is a Meditation by Dr. B. Agutter, in which the well-known hymn, "On the Resurrection Morning," is used. The Anthem is, "Lo, the Tomb is Empty," by Broome, the solos being taken by Miss Vincent (soprano), and Miss Herder (contralto). Some who heard this piece on Easter Sunday thought that it surpassed any that this choir has done. Dr. Macpherson has kindly consented to sing an Easter solo, and we feel sure the congregation will have a real treat in this. There are four organ numbers, and the beauty and variety of the stops in the magnificent organ in the church will be brought out. The admission is free to all, and ushers will welcome and provide you with seats.

Pansy Theatre.

The special attraction to this week's theatre-goers will be the Vaudeville show at the Pansy Theatre, Mechanics Hall. The special engagement of Archer and Forrester's new Comedy, Novelty and Biograph Co., commences this afternoon and night. Mr. Archer, Manager of the Company, will perform marvellous feats of skill, including wire walking, and other novelty acts. See Foxy, the highest diving dog in the world, descend from the top window of the Mechanics' Hall. Moore and Butt the famous singers, dancers and sketch artists will also give some clever exhibitions. The principal feature is the thrilling and sensational moving pictures, that were never shown in St. John's before, but were brought by the Company directly for the purpose. Another attraction is the exceptionally good singing to be heard, which is a very rare treat to St. John's theatre-goers. This is one of the cheapest shows of its kind in the city. Bennett's full brass band will furnish the music. There will be three changes this week and two performances every night. Matinee for children 5 cents; adults 10 cents. Evening 10 cents to any part of the Hall.

A Good Suggestion.

The suggestion has been made, and we think it a good one, that both the Captains Kean now landing seals here should send some flippers to the old sealers who are now residents of the Poor House. We believe there are several old timers there, and certainly Mr. Prudeaux would see that they were cooked for them. Such a kindly action would be appreciated.—Com.

Injured on the Newfoundland.

A man named Short, of Bonavista, one of the crew of the Newfoundland, shortly after the ship left for the icefields fell into the hold, striking a distance of about 15 feet on the deck below and sustaining severe injuries to his chest. It was thought at first his collar bone was broken, but such was not the case. He was laid off for several days but is now all right.

One Man Political Meetings.

Orators and Others Who Have Faced an Audience of One.

It is reported that during the late election a Socialist speaker delivered an oration to a one-man audience at a street corner in a town in the North of England. When he mounted a wagon for the purpose of making a speech he expected to soon gather a crowd, but just before he commenced a Unionist speaker set up in opposition a few yards away and the people flocked in his direction. The Socialist was left with only one supporter, and yet we are told the speaker delivered a capital speech.

One-man meetings are not uncommon. Mr. Paveett held forth in the House of Commons to the Speaker only on the evening of February 16th, 1871. The occasion was the grant of £20,000 to Princess Louise on her marriage, and men of all shades of opinion withdrew from St. Stephen's in order to mark their disapproval of the course adopted by the blind statesman. In the division that followed the hon. member found himself alone in the "Nog's" lobby.

Obtaining the Ratepayers' Sanction. Some years ago a meeting was held in the Birmingham Town Hall in order to obtain the ratepayers' sanction for the promotion of a Parliamentary Bill for the city dealing with financial matters. The Lord Mayor and the members of the council appeared on the platform, but only one rate-payer turned up, and he was the organizer of the Liberal Unionist Association. Nevertheless, the Mayor explained the provisions and aims of the proposed Bill to the "audience," and asked for questions from "any rate-payer present."

Archibald Forbes, the famous war correspondent, while on a lecturing tour stayed at Levan, a small town in Fifehire, where he was "booked" for one night. When Forbes arrived at the hall he was non-plussed to find that it was empty. After waiting some minutes past the advertised time for delivering the lecture, one man put in an appearance, and he proved to be a commercial traveller who was staying over night in the place. No one else came, so Forbes strode down to the front of the platform and said to the "audience," "Will you have a drink or will you have the lecture?" "A drink," promptly replied the "audience." "And," said the war correspondent afterwards, "he got one; in fact, he got several."

Irving's Audience.

The late Sir Henry Irving had even a worse experience. Years before he became famous he announced that he would give a reading at Llanthgo, and most elaborate preparations were made for taking money. The hall was opened at eight o'clock on the appointed night, but there was no sign of a rash. The time slipped by and still the audience failed to put in an appearance. At last Irving walked upon the stage and pulled up the curtain.

"Half-past eight," he exclaimed, "and not a single soul in the place; not even a small dog!"

He beat a hasty retreat, and returned to Edinburgh.

A Command Performance.

A sailor paid Stephen Kemble £20 for a theatrical performance for his special behoof. He insisted that no one but himself should be admitted to the theatre, and on Kemble asking what play he would like he replied:—"Let me have the old boy with the fore-castle, built like a Dutch lugger, and lurching like a Spanish galleon in a heavy sea. Give me Sir John Falstaff."

The famous Odeon, in Paris, had an audience one only at a time when cholera was raging in the city. The man who made up the audience demanded to have the play acted, and it was acted accordingly. When the play was over he rose and thanked the actors and actresses for their excellent representation, and expressed his entire satisfaction with all—Tit-Bits.

The return of the belt to the normal waist line has given a renewed impetus to the blouse. It is again in evidence and distinctive in style. Many of these charming separate blouses are in colored chiffon, elaborately trimmed with gold and silver embroideries or with lace studded with imitation stones, to match the tone of the accompanying skirt.
