NEW YORK, Jan. 23. President Taft began in earnest a campaign for the fortification of the Panama Canal, Saturday night. His speech at a banquet given by the Pennsylvania Society, at New York, was devoted to this subject. In the Senate the President had been told that sentiment in favour of fortification was almost 2 to 1; while the House seems evenly divided, but not on partisan lines. The President declared there was absolutely no treaty obligation in the way to prevent fortifving the Canal. The United States had every reason to protect what was purely an American waterway. He vieled to no man his love for peace; and he hoped to submit to the Senate and he hoped to submit to the Senate Tablets.
