There are now over seventy candidates in the popularity contest race and because of this great number hereafter only names of contestants with over two hundred votes will be published.

Mrs. M. V. Kincaid retains her lead which she has held ever since the very start of the contest and Miss Marion Moore is now in second place with a lead of 475 votes over Miss Stella Crane. Other candidates who are advancing rapidly are Miss Margaret Firth, Miss Olive Turner, Miss Dorothy Elsbary and Miss Dot Stick.

Her Ancient Office

To a girl of twenty-three belongs the distinction of being the first woman notary public of the British Empire. She is Miss Anna Amphlett, of Colwyn Bay. Her father is also a notary public, as is her brother.

The office of notary public is older than that of solicitor; it dates back to the pre-Reformation days, when practically all the learned professions were in the hands of the Church. The Archbishop of Canterbury, through his master of the families, admits a candidate to the office.

An interesting point is that, according to custom, Miss Amphlett can now claim to have her word considered as good as that of any two other people!

"Conny" Highest Priced Hockeyist

UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE 8-YEAR CONTRACT AT $7,500 PER YEAR.

The Ottawa Citizen says that Lionel Conacher, former Argonaut football star, now with Pittsburgh, is said to be the best paid player in professional hockey. "Conny" is understood to have a three-year contract at $7,500 per season. Billy Burch recently signed up with New York at $4,500 for three years and Joe Simpson had to be guaranteed $4,000 before he would attach his name to a New York contract.

The article further states that "the Montreal Maroons are said to have recently offered to pay $20,000 for Howie Morenz of the Canadiens and $15,000 for Babe Dye of St. Patrick's. New York were offered $25,000 for Billy Burch and $15,000 for Charlie Langlois. It will thus be seen, says the Citizen, that hockey, with Happy Day, getting $6,000, Lionel Conacher $7,500, Billy Burch $4,500, Joe Simpson $4,000 and Sprague Cleghorn $3,500.

Smugglers of 1925.

Unmasking the Customs Dodger.

(By SYDNEY A. MOSLEY.)

With the recent import duty on silk smuggling has been intensified. You would be surprised not only at the tricks people resort to in order to cheat the Customs, but at the sort of people who have joined the smuggling brigade.

There are roughly two distinct classes of smugglers—professional and holiday-making. The latter usually try to get through the Customs a pair of two of silk stockings, a big box of chocolates, and presents of various kinds. It is not uncommon for women to wear two, three, and sometimes four pairs of silk stockings. One was discovered at over the other week with three pairs, two of which were torn and utterly ruined in the process.

Another trick that has become common is the use of a hollow heel, in which cocaine is usually hidden.

At the Customs, say at Dover or Victoria, "searchers" are in readiness, but are rarely called upon. The searchers are only brought into action when the suspicion of the Customs officers have been roused. Suppose, for instance, you stoutly affirm that you have nothing to declare, and after opening a trunk the officer finds lace, silk, and scent. He will probably hand you over to a searcher, who will carefully search your clothes and your person. In many instances suspected smugglers have had to undergo the ordeal of undressing!

In the writer's presence a hunchback was found with tobacco, perfume, and diamonds where the hump was supposed to be. Another man had secreted raw cocaine between his toes.

A woman opened her portmanteau and revealed an open bottle of eau-de-cologne. She was passed. As she walked through the gate leading to the train another officer asked her why she limped.

"An accident," she replied. Her smile did not convince the officer that she was speaking the truth. A searcher was put on. She was found to be wearing five silk blouses, while ten pairs of stockings were wound round her legs. No wonder she limped. In the coat she was carrying were found fifty pounds worth of articles on which duty should have been paid. A clumsy smuggler!

A case of cigarettes on which duty was openly offered had passed the Customs when a new Customs officer—a young fellow—called the man back and, opening the silk paper, took one of the cigarettes. They were "blinds," three-quarters of each cigarette being filled with dope.

Her Dog Accomplish.

Tail hats are out of fashion, and the man who tried to pass the Customs with the inside of one carefully insid with fine silk was another clumsy amateur.

There is no doubt, however, that every day the Customs are cheated out of a considerable sum by professional smugglers. Hollowed walking sticks, boxes of chocolates with the bottom layer a dummy, and "cigars" are favorite devices.

But I think the most ingenious trick was reported to by a woman who was a regular passenger to and from the Continent. She was always accompanied by a small dog, which she carried and fondly as lovingly as if it were a child. One day the dog gave the show away by "coughing up" several valuable diamonds.

She had trained the dog to retain valuable stones until, by placing two fingers half-way down the animal's throat, the dog returned the hidden gems! "The faithful animal smuggler did his duty well for a long time—until that unexpected embarrassing moment. The trick was never tried again.

So popular has the jumper style become that it has been adapted for formal ensemble and evening gowns.

Over a foundation of flesh chiffon is worn a frock of black chiffon embroidered in silver beads and pearls.

Corns

Lift Off—No Pain!

Don't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" in any aching corn, callus or "hardkin" on bottom of feet. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

GLANDS.

The age of Magic's come again, at least some people say. And they work their spells with scalpels, not with wands; But list to my experience before you "ape" the style. And allow a man to "monkey" with your glands.

I was thirty-two exactly, when they took my glands away. And a monkey's made me feel like twenty-three. But the next thing that I knew, I was in the London Zoo. The glands had made a monkey out of me.

Our Dumb Animals

REPORT FROM CHIEF AGENT S.P. A. WEEK ENDING NOV. 14.

Attended to the landing of twenty-seven head of cattle from the Hethpool. The cattle were all in fairly good condition and carried between decks. Attended to two sales of cattle at the Abattoir Co. Received a report about cattle being out all night. Went around the suburbs at night time and spoke to the owners about the matter. One lady in the East End was "annoyed" because I spoke to her about having her animal out at night. It seems impossible to please these people. Humanely put to death three dogs. It has been quite a busy week with the traffic to the different wharves. The teamsters on the whole do very well. A gentleman from Scotland remarked to me that he has seen a marked improvement in the horse traffic since he came to the country a few years ago. I would like to thank the police for the way they strive to regulate the traffic and avoid accidents.

I received a phone message from Mr. C. Holtum, Bond St., of a man on Henry Street ill-using a horse. I went to the place and found the man. The horse had a half ton of coal. The man had a whip in his hand. He took the horse by the bridle and the horse bit his hand. The animal refused to pull the load. I told him to get another horse and he did so. I did not summon him as he has had serious trouble lately. He promised better behaviour in the future. I wish to thank Mr. Holtum for giving the information. Received a report from a resident of Pleasant Street that eleven hens had been destroyed by dogs. Am investigating the matter. Again I warn all coal horse drivers about sitting on their loads.
