Fools blame me hurling hatred at my head and mouthing threats and flinging litter scorn, but wise men know me for the man I am, no evil tyant trampling under foot the public weal, no ezar above the mob; ather a common mortal seizing power from those who will not had it for their own.

I have a magic tlisman of might which makes the people grovel at my feet. Ihave no mystic secret to divulge, for, if I rule, I rule by men's onsent. I rule because the people will not rule, because they wil not watch nor guard their own, but leave their liberties to such s I.

Thus, while they till are blind, I reap reward; I build my edifice of Graft and Faud; I wield the sceptre of despotic Greed and fill my pockets wih a glut of gold. There's all my powerand when the Sleeper vakes, stretching his limbs and throwing off his bonds, when tht vast Public seeks his own again and reaches mighty hands ward my throne, I shall go toppling down in one great crash, my louse of Graft will fall upon my head and I shall cease forever tobe "Boss."

Fools blame me, bt the wise men know the truth, that I am strong because the peole doze and that I cannot flourish if they
