Road On Wharncliffe West Can Now Stand Some Repairing.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 gallons of ity water went to waste this morning when for over an hour one of the city fire hydrants poured a steady stream of water across the Wharncliffe road, much to the delight of a large crowd of small boys.

The cause of the flood of water which resulted and which extended along the Wharncliffe road from its junction with the Sarnia road to the point at which the C. P. R. bridge crosses, was the breaking of the spindle which shuts off the water in the hydrant at the corner Beaufort street and the Wharncliffe oad, when the man in charge of a street sprinkling outfit, after filling his tried to turn the water off. At 10 cents per thousand gallons the

NEW HOSPITAL FOR INCURABLES.

The Pitiful, Permanently Afflicted

Poor, bed-ridden people, who will never rise from their beds again, weighed down with sufferings of years, nothing in this life but more suffering before them-these are the permanently afflicted.

The Women's Christian Association in their Home for Incurables care for these poor unfortunates, supply them with sufficient nursing and what few comforts

So many of this type of sufferers are there in London that it has become necessary to move the Incurable Home to much larger quarters.

Part of your donation to the United Welfare Fund will go toward the upkeep of the hospital for incurables. The Women's Christian Association is one of the fourteen organizations making public appeal in the one big drive of the United Welfare Fund Association
