Parliament recessembled to day. Fr vious to the assembling of the commons the Irish members held a meeting, at which they were chiefly occupied in arranging petitions referring to the imprisonment of Gray. Lord Mayor Dawson of Dublin had a hundred petitions to present in the house of commons.

Lord Churchill, conservative, contended that the present sitting was irregular. After the appropriation bill had received the royal assent Churchill moved for an aljournment of the house in order to protest

He made a long historical review and declared amidst loud cheers from the tories that the house of commons had ever been jealous against monarchial or ministerial

MR GLADSTONE'S DEFENCE.

Mr. Gladstone contended that the predeterts quoted by Lord Churchill were inapplicable. The house nad full power to take the present course. Lord Churchill had a small knowledge of parliament if he thought the government could be upset by a vote of want of confidence on any appropriation bill. He cited a precedent in 1820, when the house adjourned in July and reassembled in August and transacted business of various kinds. Thus, he said, Lord Churchill's assertion was entirely destroyed, amashed and pulverized. (Cheers and laughter.)

and laughter.)
NORTHCOTE'S ENQUIRY.
Sir Stafford Northcote commended Lord
Churchill's action. He asked Mr. Gladstone whether he would adhere to his financial view of the situation or make a state ment in reference to the war in Egypt.

The work.

The members then divided and Lord Churchill's motion was defeated by a vote of 209 to 142.

Mr. Gladstone stated regarding the first rule of procedure that the government would adhere to its main proposal and propose a second rule, that motion for adjournment could only be made by leave after questions were finished and the erders of the day commenced. A motion for granting leave should be put forthwith on more than forty members supporting it by rising ing leave should be put forthwith on more than forty members supporting it by rising in their places. He gave notice of a further addition by which a motion to bring in bills and bills that passed committee shall not be subject to the rule precluding any opposed being taken after 12 midnight. This will, he said, in a great measure frustrate the obstructive blocking of bills. Mr. Gladstine then moved the resolution giving precedence to the rules of procedure whenever set down.

Sir Stafford Northcote expressed regret at the cloture.

Mr. Barttlelot (conservative) declared that he would oppose the cloture by all the forms of the house. He called upon the opposition to do the same.

Mr. Ashmead Bartlett (conservative) was carried by 98 to 47.

THE GRAY CASE.

Mr. Gladstone called attention to the committal of Dwyer Gray. He was glad to see Mr. Gray in the house to-day. Precedents, he affirmed, were completely in favor of the appointment of a committee in Mr. Gray's case, and he moved the appointment of such a committee. The government contemplated submitting early next session a measure dealing with committals for contempt.

for contempt.

Mr. Parnell asked Mr. Gladstone to en Mr. Parnell asked Mr. Gladstone to enlarge the scope of the enquiry to be made in Mr. Gray's case, else the time occupied by the committee would be wasted. He contended the question to consider was the modification of the power of the judges.

Mr. Lewis (moderate conservative) endorsed Mr. Parnell's views.

Mr. James (attrney-general) explained that the motion for the appointment of a committee was a matter of privilege. The house could not go beyond the case that raised the point of privilege.

Mr. Gladstone's motion was carried.

EGYPTIAN AFFAIRS. Sir Stafford Northcote or quired when the papers relating to Egypt will be presented; what the government's intentions were as to the policy to be pursued towards that country, and whether it was proposed to charge to Egypt a large portion of the war.

of the war.

Mr. Gladstone said the papers would be presented at once. Regarding their policy, the government were less fettered now than they were six months ego, but they would hold out no expectation of laying down a definite scheme for the approval of the house during the limited time at its linear. The government's declarations the house during the limited time at its disposal. The government's declarations must be very reserved. If the opposition wished to attack the policy the government would arrange to bring forward the issue. The other matters could be discussed after the rules were disposed of. He did not know that it would be necessary to ask for more more this year.

THE EGYPTIAN ARMY. Mr. Gladstone gave notice that he will move a vote of thanks on Thursday to the British army in Egypt.
