His retrement just now is practi-cally out of the question; for who but, he could explain to Parliament what the Public Works is doing, and the reasons why? And, like Sam Jones, let us say another thing, which enght to count in Ontario. No French Minister has there ever been, suce the Union time of forty-five years ago, who did as much as Sir Hector has done to make himself acquainted with the wants of Upper Canada in connection with his depart-ment, and to put himself in harmony with the progressive requirements of this province. the progressive requirements of this province. This is something not likely to be disputed, we should say.

We hesitate not to say that Sir Hector's retirement from his present important position would be a distinct loss and injury to the progress of public works not only in Ontario, but all over the Dominion. And, therefore, we hope to see him remain where he is for many day yet to come. He is now where he will do most good, for which reason let the runor mongers kindly allow him to stay there. "In the imminent Beadiy Breech."
