

CHAP. XVII.

Fort Walla-Walla. — Salmon the Staff of Life. — Burrows for the Winter. — Ride to see a Cataract. — Splendid Fall of Water. — Desert of burning Sand. — A jealous Spouse. — Respect to a dead Chief — Page 271

CHAP. XVIII.

The Stream dried up. — American Presbyterian Mission. — A perfect Savage. — Scorched to Death by the Sun. — Disastrous Expedition. — The Messenger of Woe. — The "Yellow Serpent." — A Father of Sorrow. — A Grave-side Address. — The Living and the Dead. — The lost Cup. — Taken for a Scoocoom. — A dreadful Disappointment 278

CHAP. XIX.

The Horrors of Thirst. — The Lake of Pelicans. — A queer Bedfellow. — Steering by the Sun. — Sweet Water at Last. — Rather a hardy Horse. — Losing each Other. — Wonderful natural Walls. — The Grand Coulet. — A Great Treat. — The River Columbia. — Indians again 293

CHAP. XX.

A Dangerous Path. — Incredible Sagacity. — Levying Black Mail. — Fort Colville. — Hiding-Places of the Indians. — Indian Baptism. — The Kettle Falls. — Tilting at the Ring. — Chief of the Waters. — Dead Salmon by Thousands. — Dislike to Salt Meat. — A Widow's Consolation. — A Wife for the Woods 303

CHAP. XXI.

Dreadful Tidings. — Horrible Tragedy. — A Devoted Husband. — A Joyful Surprise. — Perilous Pass. — Walk on Shore. — The Rapid of the Dead. — The Detected Cannibal. — A