

counted as its adherents. Not that it is suffering, apparently, from the efforts of missionaries of the Gospel, it is suffering rather from internal disease, presage, let us hope, of speedy, as it certainly is of ultimate, decline.

Apropos of missionaries, I had opportunity of seeing some of the grand and hopeful work being done in this centre of Moslem fanaticism. Miss Whately bears a name that is famous in her father's right, and not less so in her own; and it was a great joy to see her well-known school, and to chat with her afterwards upon the progress and prospects of her noble work. For years she has toiled in Cairo, scores and scores of girls trained in her schools have gone out, under strong Christian influence, into the

TOMBS OF THE KHALIPHS.