Icebreakers Escort Convoys

The recent cold snaps, snowfalls and harsh, gusty winds from the Baltic have not disrupted the rhythm of the transportation conveyor in the northwestern part of the country.

Icebreakers have done their part to ensure the timely interaction of inland waterways workers, railwaymen and motorists at the junction points of sea and land arteries. Yesterday they escorted this year's first winter convoy of dry-cargo ships to the seaports of Leningrad and Vyborg. Their path to open water (situated not far from Kronstadt, abeam of Seskar Island) is being cut by the icebreakers "Kapitan M. Izmailov" and "Ivan Kruzenshtern."
