

sectoral and subsectoral issues such as improving the integration of investment planning, energy conservation and transport efficiency related to regulation and road user charges. Transport issues that involve macroeconomic policies affecting other sectors of the economy, such as relative fuel prices, are being handled within the context of the second SAL.