

CONTENTS.

xiii

The Manner in which they construct their Sweating Stoves,	161
The Methods in which they treat their Diseases,	ib.
An extraordinary Instance of the Judgment of an Indian Woman in a desperate Case,	163

CHAPTER XV.

The Manner in which they treat their Dead,	164
A Specimen of their Funeral Harangues,	ib.
Their Method of burying the Dead,	165
A singular Instance of parental Affection in a Naudowessie Woman,	166

CHAPTER XVI.

A concise Character of the Indians,	167
Their personal and mental Qualifications,	168
Their public Character as Members of a Community,	169

CHAPTER XVII.

Of their Language, Hieroglyphicks, &amp;c.	170
Of the Chipéway Tongue,	ib.
Descriptive Specimen of their Hieroglyphicks, &amp;c.	171
Vocabulary of the Chipéway Language,	172
————— Naudowessie Language,	176

CHAPTER XVIII.

Of the Beasts, Birds, Fishes, Reptiles, and Insects, which are found in the Interior Parts of North America,	179
---	-----

BEASTS.

The Tyger. The Bear,	179
The Wolf. The Fox,	180
Dogs. The Cat of the Mountain. The Buffalo,	ib.
The Deer. The Elk. The Moose,	181
The	The