

- Colonization*, systematic (or South Australian system, or Wakefield system), principles of writers of this school, i. 249. Lectures XIII. XIV., ii. 35—89. Its success up to the present time, 86. Speculations as to its effects on the state of society in new communities, 273—280.
- Connecticut*, progress of settlement there, i. 258.
- Convicts*, effects of their labour in New South Wales, i. 121. Lect. XII. Numbers, ii. 4, 5, 26. Effects of their introduction in the progress of population, 6. In what sense their labour is dear, 7. Assignment of, 8. (See Assignment.)
- Coolies*, proposed emigration of, to the West Indies, i. 315.
- Cuba*, its prosperity at the present day, i. 83, 233. Causes, i. 34, 35. Accompanying moral and social evils, 36. Condition of slaves, 38. Trade with Spain, 39. Statistics, 95. Extent of land in cultivation, 299.
- Darwin (Mr.)*, his opinion respecting the diminution of native races, ii. 204.
- Demerara*. See Guiana.
- Democracy*, its spirit naturally prevalent in colonies, ii. 273, 289.
- Dutch*, their colonies, i. 54. East India Company, 55. Monopoly of the carrying trade possessed by them in the seventeenth century, 207. Its decline, 210.
- Edwards (Bryan)*, quoted, i. 80.
- Emancipation of slaves*, in British colonies, its economical effects, i. 86, 296. Three different methods of effecting it considered, i. 319—326. (See Negroes.)
- "Emancipists," ii. 11.
- Emigration*, effect of, on the population of the mother-country, Lect. V. ii. 303. In a natural state of things, can be no remedy for overpopulation unless continually repeated, i. 140. Has never been tried, in modern times, on any thing like a large scale, 141. Countries from which it has taken place extensively, the most populous, 143. The probable effect of extensive, on a manufacturing country, 146.; on an agricultural population, 147. Parochial, 148. From Ireland, 149. Best emigrants are those best able to find employment at home, 152.; ii. 299. Expense of, i. 153. Dangers attending wholesale schemes, ib.; ii. 295, 304. Raising fund for, by sale of waste lands, i. 155. Lectures XIII. XIV. XV. (See Land, Colonization.) Statistics, i. 158—161.; ii. 303. To the West Indies, great demand for, and schemes for supplying considered, i. 311—320. "Select," or of young couples, as proposed by Mr. Wakefield, considered, ii. 296.
- "Encomiendas," i. 4, 270.
- Establishments*, public, such as ecclesiastical and for education, in colonies, modes of providing for, considered, ii. 250—267.
- Expenditure*, public, of the mother-country on behalf of colonies, i. 236.; ii. 247. Of colonial revenues, ii. 250. Of the old British American colonies, contrasted with that of the modern, 284.