

ENGINE, FUEL AND CONTROL

Slippery Track at Tillsonburg Made It Unmanageable and the Driver Jumped Off.

CARS DERAILED AND SMASHED

Three Men More or Less Injured—Locomotive Finally Taken in Hand and Quitted.

Tillsonburg, Jan. 28.—This morning, as a T. & E. Railway engine, with two cars loaded with lumber and one box car, was backing down the ill-sloping grade to the mill, the engine became unmanageable, and started down the grade. Engineer Richards reversed, but the rails were slippery and when he saw the engine could not be controlled, he jumped.

The train backed down to the mill at a good rate of speed, and into some being loaded with lumber. Mr. Meade, who was driving the engine, was seriously injured, and two other men, Markle and Kahan, were also hurt.

The runaway train hit into the mill, and the engine was finally taken in hand and quitted.

Three men more or less injured—Locomotive finally taken in hand and quitted.

OBJECTS TO THE GIFT.

Editor World: The usual damage of People's Jimmie, not being forthcoming to represent Toronto, and Mr. Carnegie's patience being exhausted, he has set upon the idea of giving a price to the city of Toronto, which will be a surprise to the citizens of Toronto. It is not surprising that certain men that have been mentioned in the scramble for a $500 position as alderman will be the first to loudly proclaim that the city should accept the gift of Carnegie's. This is also true of certain officials at the City Hall, who are "Stouthearted," "hands-shakers," "time-servers" and the like are always on hand to accept Carnegie's offer, a movement that in advance of the Council's likelihood to accept Carnegie's offer, a movement should be started at once by holding public meetings to protest against it. These meetings should be held in the City Hall, and the great majority of people in Toronto should be present. The only fair way to decide this question is to allow the public at large to vote individually upon the acceptance or rejection of the offer.

French Thrift Depopulates France.

Pall Mall Gazette.

One of the perpetual questions in France, but nevertheless highly important, is that of the depopulation of the country. It is well known that the population in France is practically stationary—an excess of births over deaths of six thousand, as against an excess of 138 and 114, respectively, in Germany and England. Germany is adding 4,000,000 to her population every five years, which means that, if one takes the military losses into account, she is regaining the more in that period than she lost in line against the enemy. Closely bound up in this question, as M. Haradin insists in an excellent article in the Matin, is the question of the depopulation of the French, which has been exaggerated into a positive evil by the legal and enforced system of the division of property. The fear of being unable to provide for the needs of the family, and the fact that the inheritance is divided among several children, has led to a general disinclination to marry, and the result is a steady decrease in the number of the population. The Font, Not the Altar.

Mrs. Langtry was discussing the other day the recent marriage of the octogenarian Marquis de Dangeville with a young Canadian girl. She said it reminded her of an incident in the life of her father.

Her father was a clergyman, and there came to him to be married one day a man of 70 and a girl of 18. The minister whispered when this ill-assorted couple came and stood before him.

"The font is at the other end of the church."

"What do you want with the font?"

"We are here to be married," said the old man.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," the clergyman rejoined, "I thought you had brought this young girl here to be christened."

Hamburg, Jan. 3.—People are discussing the sensational case of a Hamburg woman who is lying at the point of death after attempted suicide as the result of the indiscretion of a frank friend. The day before Christmas the woman's husband purchased a seal-ring garment at a fashionable Hamburg shop, ordering it to be delivered to his wife.

The saleswoman was acquainted upon him, happening to be a acquaintance of the wife, took it upon herself to inform the latter that her husband apparently loved another. Without stopping to investigate the matter, the unwedded wife took what she perhaps would prove a fatal dose of arsenic. It now appears that the husband purchased the garment for the wife of a business friend who had intrusted him with the purchase, because he was a good judge of taste.

The official surgeon has been called in following officers: Dr. Robert Lamb, vice-president, Alf. Chesney, financial secretary, Abraham Chesney, corresponding secretary, Thomas Lamb, treasurer, and Arthur Vigors. A motion was passed unanimously opposing the acceptance of the Carnegie offer, and the City Council will be notified accordingly.

Ordinary Corn Cures Are Dangerous

Dr. J. C. K. Knight, Toronto.

It is easy to correct the bad effect of wrong eating if one will give it a little thought. Scientific food is just as pleasant to the palate, and, in the case of Grape-Nuts, is more delicious than improper food, and it makes a world of difference in health and spirits.

"Some three months ago," writes Mr. E. L. Saunders of Boston, Mass., "I suffered terribly with indigestion, and all kinds of food distressed me; sometimes I had a feeling of suffocation about the heart, especially at night. My sleep was broken, and I lost flesh rapidly. I commenced using Grape-Nuts, and the relief from indigestion was almost immediate, and, in a short time, entirely disappeared; my heart resumed its normal condition. I attribute the cure entirely to Grape-Nuts."

A well-known lawyer of this city writes that he suffers from excessive nervousness and before entering the courtroom to try a case, was obliged to resort to stimulants. I urged him to try Grape-Nuts, which he did with almost marvellous results; he not only gained flesh, but the nervousness left, and his former strength and confidence returned.

I am convinced that Grape-Nuts gives strength to the body and vigor to the brain. It is worthy of the highest praise, and I will cheerfully answer all letters seeking information in regard to the food. Remember, Grape-Nuts Food is most emphatically not a medicated food in any sense of the term; it is made of whole grain, solely by scientific processes, and the only reason it helps cure people is that they quit improper food, and take a food in which the strong brain and nerve-building elements of Nature's grains are preserved, and presented to the digestive machinery in a form that can be quickly and surely digested.

That fit, look lifelike, are durable and add to usefulness the charm of beauty. We make that kind.

LORD ROSEBERY AS A FARMER.

What Agriculture Owing to England's Most Popular Statesman.

London, Jan. 21.—On the platform at a small railway station on the borders of the Russian empire there might have been seen standing, some time ago, a nature devotee box awaiting despatch to the continent. A closer inspection of the box would have revealed the fact that it was sent by the Earl of Rosebery from his farm at Dalmeny, from where farm seeds of all varieties are often despatched to different parts of the Continent.

Lord Rosebery is known to the public as a politician who was once Prime Minister, who has owned a Derby winner, and who has won considerable distinction in the world of letters; but it is not only his hard work, but his intelligent enterprise, that will keep British agriculture alive and flourishing in face of the force competition it has to encounter from abroad. And certainly no one in the country has done more to help the farmer than Lord Rosebery, who has owned a Derby winner, and who has won considerable distinction in the world of letters; but it is not only his hard work, but his intelligent enterprise, that will keep British agriculture alive and flourishing in face of the force competition it has to encounter from abroad.

Well Made.

Pure flour and pure yeast do not necessarily mean good bread. It may be spoiled in the making. Just grain at a cost that an inexperienced farmer would incur in growing inferior farm produce. And it is doubtful if even the most experienced agriculturist would learn something new by a visit to the Dalmeny experimental farm.

British agriculture has no greater benefactor in the country than Lord Rosebery, for he has shown that to grow at a cost that an inexperienced farmer would incur in growing inferior farm produce. And it is doubtful if even the most experienced agriculturist would learn something new by a visit to the Dalmeny experimental farm.
