THE LOCAL MARKET

Live hogs showed the largest decline in months this morning, when every porker sold at the comparatively low price of $15.50 per cwt. According to price of hogs buyers the representative packing men of the States and Canada combined forces yesterday, the result being that a sheer drop of $2.50 was made this morning.

The price of dressed hogs will also decline, following the drop in live porkers, but an official quotation for the former meat could not be obtained. A particularly large offering of all varieties of produce was in good demand on a well-attended market this morning. Vegetables were very plentiful, particularly potatoes, cucumbers, corn and beans. Potatoes dropped 25c per bushel, because of the large abundance, bringing the price of tubers as low as it has been at any previous time during the last two weeks.

Growers predict a further reduction in the price of spuds before the end of the month, as practically all home-grown potatoes are ready for the market. A good offering of oats was shown on the market this morning, and values declined in consequence, a hundred-weight of oats selling at $1.75 to $1.85.

String beans were offered in great abundance, but the demand was exceptionally brisk, and the price increased to 7c and 10c per quart. Tomatoes were offered in plenty and the demand was good. They brought $1.25 per basket throughout the morning. Which is a slight decrease from the price of $1.50 per basket, but the weather will be a detriment to their growth and opening, should a sharp frost set in, the tomato crop would practically be ruined, as the greater part of it has not yet ripened sufficiently to be offered on the market.

The variety of fruit was not large, but certain offerings were in good demand. Thimble berries were for sale in great plenty and the price came down to 18c and 20c per box. The demand for thimbleberries was good, but the supply so far exceeded it that surplus was left after the close of the market.

Grain, Cattle—Wheat prices were fairly plentiful, but the price went up notwithstanding, and a pound of butter sold for 48c to 50c retail, and 45c to 48c wholesale.

A good offering of poultry was in $1.40 each, and spring chickens brought 90c to $1.50 per pair.
