

TRURO.

[Progress is for sale in Truro by Mr. G. O. F. and D. H. Smith & Co. on Monday last. Nov. 21.—Miss Laura Farnsworth, who has been visiting Mrs. Jno. Robbins, left on Monday last for Halifax en route to her home in Truro, N. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Kempton Stewart, New Glasgow, were guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. James McDowell over Sunday last.

The event of much interest and discussion on Monday night. Despite the inclement weather, there was a goodly audience to witness the curtain rise on the Fairies' Drill, of which, Ophelia, blue, butterflies and grasshoppers. These all did most excellently from the Queen, Miss Ethel Walsh, to the tiniest of all, Miss Missie Little. A pretty feature of this drill was the quietude dance of Red Bird, beautifully done by Miss Missie Little, Hockley, Rosie Smith, Alice Gatchell, George Blair, and Nellie Dickson. The Court Minuet by some stately beaux and belles of Ye Auldene Tynes, in miniature, was most quaint, and executed with a marvellous precision, the little maids proving themselves most adept in all the intricate movements, and in graceful management, of very voluminous draperies, particularly noticeable were Miss Edith Smith and Miss Josephine Somerville, who executed with her fan, did much execution, with a pair of lovely eyes, as she disposed her elegant little person in the many dance. Miss Maggie McKinnay was especially good, as grave and stately a courtier, as any knight of ye auldene tyme. The Spanish dance and fandango was all in and movement. In this, Miss Hudson appeared as queen, with Mr. Hornby as cavalier. The Grecian tableaux, though lovely, had not attained to the perfection evidenced in some of those preceding. In this, Miss Rich, Miss McKay, Mrs. D. B. Cummings and Miss Jean Sutherland were especially good. All the work, in the several tableaux, is an evidence of great perseverance and most valiant on the parts of Miss Hudson and Miss Jones. The programme of Tuesday night promised to be of even greater interest than that of Monday, but as I was not there, can not now say anything about it.

Mrs. W. E. Hoffman gave two very pretty teas last week on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, at her charming home on Duke street. Among those present on Wednesday and Thursday were: Mrs. Jameson, Mrs. R. L. Craig, Mrs. I. W. Book, Mrs. F. A. Lawrence, Mrs. D. Y. Hanson, Mrs. Thos. Cumming, Mrs. J. F. Crowe, Miss Male Smith, Mrs. Rottie, The Misses Rottie, Mrs. Geo. Casson, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Geo. Henderson, Miss Smith, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Hockley, Miss White, Mrs. J. A. Hudson, Mrs. Hoffman. Mrs. Hoffman is a very graceful and affable hostess and was assisted in her duties by her sister Miss Birrell.

Mrs. Mitchell, who has been enjoying a prolonged visit among home friends left this morning, accompanied by her baby son, for her home in the North-West.

There were one or two charming petit soupers on Monday night after the "Kirmess," which were pleasant endings to a most pleasant evening.

The tea at "Roselawn" last Friday afternoon from four to six was a very large gathering, there was quite a sprinkling of men, managers, and presumably eligible, and apropos of this I have heard several complaints, as to the tone, and the impropriety, or unkindness of inviting any but the husbands, of the matrons, for men, at these five o'clocks. I wonder if my complaining one had been invited with Lady Jane's "Merriments discussed, in last Saturday's Recorder. The tea at "Roselawn" was a delightful one, and everyone seemed loath to leave Mrs. Campbell who assisted in her duties by her niece, the Misses Campbell.
