

ROSS'S BULLET SPEED BY HATE

He Was Jealous of Syracuse's Hold Upon the Affections of Minnie Jones.

Detective Killen captured Would-be Murderer at Welsford Station Yesterday.

Rossi was brought before Magistrate Kitchie yesterday afternoon, but was not required to plead. He was remanded until further notice, and it is altogether likely that he will not appear in court again until it has been decided upon whether his victim in the hospital will recover or die.

As far as the crime is concerned there is nothing of a mysterious nature connected with it and not the slightest doubt exists but that Rossi is the guilty man. Although the prosecution will not attempt to bring forth much evidence, what there is of a convincing nature, and it is thought probable that should Syracuse die from the effects of the wounds which he received this Ross will plead guilty, and throw himself upon the mercy of the court.

The watch taken from his person, and which has since been identified as belonging to Rossi, is a blood-stained handkerchief, identified as belonging to the prisoner, points conclusively to Rossi as the perpetrator of the crime, and will be the strongest evidence used by the prosecution.

Rossi is Calm. Rossi does not seem to be the least perturbed over the situation or worried about his impending fate. That he realizes that Syracuse may die, there is no doubt, but it is doubtful whether he understands Canadian law sufficiently to fully realize his position, and the penalty of such a crime.

Although his act of shooting his friend, who gave him work and protection, in a new land, is horrible beyond belief, and in the eyes of some, extreme and but little sympathy is extended to him, yet throughout the whole sad tragedy, there is an undercurrent of strong human interest, that cannot but fail to awaken a feeling of pity for both the prisoner and his victim.

Saddened Relatives at Home. That both men have people living in their native Italy there is every reason to believe. A registration report found in the bedroom where Syracuse was shot, a pathetic note, the contents of a letter with money sent to his home in Messina, while Rossi is said to have written to his mother on Friday, telling of his love for the Jones girl, and of his intent to slay Syracuse. The condition of the man in the hospital early this morning was much the same as when he was admitted to the institution. He was still unconscious and no hope is held out for his recovery.

John Wickham of North Street, the father of Annie Wickham, who was said to have spoken to Rossi on Mill Street early Sunday morning, informed that he would yesterday that his daughter, who is fourteen years of age, was at home at the time mentioned and spent the day with her family in Seaside Park.

WEDDINGS.

Welch-Lewis. On Saturday night, at 9:30 o'clock a quiet and pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, 242 Prince William street, when Miss Carrie B. Lewis of Freeport, N. S., and Howard Welch of Westport, N. S., were united in marriage by Rev. F. H. Wentworth. The couple were unattended. The bride was becomingly gowned and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Hall-Brine. At St. John's (Stone) church last evening Alexander Basil Hall of Nelson, B. C., was married to Miss Laura Amelia Brine of Truro, N. S. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. A. Kühring, the rector. Mr. Hall is a nephew of Mrs. C. H. Fairweather of this city, and came to St. John to meet his bride. F. R. Fairweather supported the groom and Miss Alice Fairweather was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will remain in St. John until Saturday when they will leave for Vancouver.

Rev. A. B. Cohoe's First Sermon.

"Rev. A. B. Cohoe, the new minister of the First Baptist church," says the Halifax Herald, "preached his inaugural sermon yesterday, and unusually large congregations were present. Mr. Cohoe is a young man, apparently several years under forty. He has a studious, sympathetic face, and a musical, soft voice, and though it is distinct and clear, yet there were times when the preacher's tones dropped so low that in the back part of the church, one had to listen to hear everything that was said. Mr. Cohoe's temperament is emotional and he is eloquent and forceful. The text taken by Mr. Cohoe yesterday morning was from Colossians 1:17—'And in Him all things abide.' After giving a summary the Herald describes the sermon as thoughtful and suggestive. While it showed difficulties it pointed a way out of them."

The Exhibition Advertising.

There was a novel exhibition in the office of the Exhibition Association yesterday afternoon, the least a spectacle than that of Manager Good, Secretary Porter and Walter Golding, with their sleeves rolled up, busily packing trunks with advertising matter. On Wednesday the teams which have been engaged to distribute the advertising matter, which includes lithograph hangers, pamphlets, hand bills and prize lists, will start on their rounds of the Maritime Provinces. They will be kept on the road for a month. One team will start out from Eastport, Maine, and work towards St. John. The association expects to spend about $5000 on its advertising campaign.

NO PARLIAMENT FOR CHINESE

Imperial Decree Contains Formal Refusal of Request of Deputation — Decision Will Not Be Disputed.

Pekin, June 27.—An imperial decree issued yesterday refused the popular and insistent demand recently made for the immediate convocation of a national parliament.

The urgent petition which was presented by delegates to the provincial assemblies and was supported by organizations of merchants throughout the country, was considered at the first meeting of the council of the empire held during the regency of Prince Chun. Under the terms of the government's decision is now made known.

It appears that the regent proposes to adhere to his original programme, which provides for a general legislative assembly to be summoned nine years after the first meeting of the provincial assemblies which were constituted by a decree of the throne made on May 9 last.

Concurrent with summons of the national assemblies will be made of 96 members representing all classes, and the people were instructed to prepare for a constitution and parliament.

The delegates, however, wished the immediate establishment of a general, popular legislative body and in this ambition they were encouraged by many members of the assembly who refused to pay the stamp tax hoping in this way to influence Prince Chun. The agitation crystallized early in June when the delegates met in the capital, and memorializing the throne, declared their intention of remaining in Peking until their demands were granted.

Eight of the number were pledged to suicide in the event that a refusal was met with.

The delegates included several from the Chinese colonies in the Philippines, Australia and elsewhere, and as they were believed to represent the revolutionary element among Chinese living in foreign lands, they were closely watched by the palace spies. The leaders of the movement, however, made known that they did not propose to employ drastic measures like an anti-dynastic revolution result from the introduction into China of the armies of foreign powers.

BANDITS ROB EVERY PASSENGER ON TRAIN

Three Masked Men Stopped Oregon Express With Sleepers, And Got Away With Valuables Of 300 People.

Ogden, Utah, June 27.—Three masked bandits held up the second section of Oregon Short Line train No. 1 for Northbound which left Ogden at 1:30 o'clock this morning at Second street in the northern part of this city. All of the passengers in the train were relieved of their valuables and the express messenger was compelled to deliver the contents of the safe.

The exact amount the robbers obtained had not been reported. Two passengers and two trainmen were injured.

The robbers stopped the train by placing railroad torpedoes on the track. When the engineer brought the train to a stop the head brakeman went forward to ascertain the cause of the delay, and one of the bandits crawled in and commanded the messenger to open the safe. After rifling the safe the robbers turned their attention to the coaches. As they started for the coaches near brakeman N. B. Franklin in his car was on his way forward. The bandits commanded him to halt but he disregarded the order and two shots were fired at him. He then stopped and one of the bandits knocked him down. Franklin rolled into a ditch where he feigned unconsciousness. After seeing that he was not watched he jumped up and ran three blocks to the home of Deputy Sheriff John Hutchins. A foreigner hurried to the scene arriving just as the train pulled out.

The train robbers went through each coach with a deliberation and calmness that showed they were no novices at the game. When Conductor H. L. Williams led the train he was stopped by one of the robbers and ordered back into a coach.

THE YALE IN COLLISION.

Other Countries Aid President of Mexico in Jailing Enemies to deport as an "alien anarchist," in October, 1909, Delara was an anarchist. Moreover, having resided more than three years in this country he was not subject to deportation on any ground. But undoubtedly he would have been deported had not the American people protested in a most vigorous way. In this case the American people protested loudly because Delara was so well known.

RICARDO FLORES MAGON, President of Mexican Liberal party. He has been under arrest most of the time since 1909 in the southwestern part of the United States. He is now serving a term, treated like the meanest convict, in the penitentiary at Florence, Ariz., merely because he is against Diaz.

MANUEL SARBABIA. He was kidnapped by American officials and hustled into Mexico territory. This work was so coarse that Mexico had to return him to American soil.

OSCAR LAWLOR (at top) As United States district attorney at Los Angeles, he admitted that Mexican refugees were held "incommunicado" in jail "at the request of the Mexican government."

LAURO ACUIRRE (below) Mexican editor whose paper was repeatedly suppressed in El Paso, Tex., only because he opposed Diaz's re-election.

HOW TO SAY "DIAZ." Porfirio Diaz, the self-elected and continuous performing presidential despot of Mexico, will be in the limelight for some time, and it is just as well to know how to pronounce his name. It is not Diaz, as the average reader would hurriedly pronounce it. Say it this way: Doe-shee-ah—long e—and end it with a hissing s.

In order to accommodate President Diaz of Mexico, the United States government has set aside our dearest American principle—that of protecting political refugees who seek safety in this country.

During the past three years the police powers of the United States, as well as of some states and cities along our border, have been placed unreservedly in the service of Diaz for the purpose of destroying his enemies who have come here to escape him. In this service have engaged the American regular army, the officers of the American secret service, of the American immigration department, and United States marshals. In this campaign American detectives and hired attorneys have been permitted to assume powers such as should be exercised only by the constituted authorities. In the course of this campaign laws have been stretched out of semblance to their former selves, either by our officials themselves or through their connivance.

Twice in 1908 and once in 1909 regulars of the American regular army were ordered to the border to arrest or drive back into the hands of pursuing soldiers Mexican political refugees who were fleeing for safety to our country. Many of these were arrested, and others were driven back, and, as a result, were killed.

For a good many years the American people have been proud that they harbored such patriots as Schurz, Kos-

GOSSIP FROM THE RINGSIDE

Opinion Expressed that the Jeffries-Johnson Battle Will be Last Great Contest

Johnson Made Good Impression in Bout With Kaufman --- Jeff Goes Fishing Again.

Renov, Nev., June 27.—"Well, this is the last big fight. Pugilism as it has flourished many decades will be a lost art in the United States and that means in the world, when the Jeffries-Johnson fight is over."

Such is the prediction of the whole fighting world, apparently. It is shared by fighters, trainers and sporting writers as they loiter about the hotels of Reno and the quarters of the principals, patiently awaiting Monday and the decision in the arena that day.

It was a day of reminiscences and tales of other fights and other fighters. Thousands of spectators, the Jeffries' work-out early in the day was a surprise. Hardly had one of the usual crowd of spectators reached Moana in time to witness it. From then until Johnson bawled through the ring in the late afternoon, a restless ten rounds with his sparring partners late in the afternoon, there was nothing to do but talk.

Johnson in the Ring. When Johnson, clad in his usual ring costume of blue and black, stepped into the ring in the late afternoon, the roped square was flanked by a big gathering of visitors.

Al Kaufman was called after a few minutes of medicine ball work, but the four rounds that followed were devoid of stirring moments. Kaufman puffed like a broken race horse. He was forced to do all the leading, Johnson merely blocking his blows and sending back no exchanges. The altitude in northern California considerably, and Johnson's easy breathing and perfect condition are sharply noticeable beside his sparring partner's gasping work.

Monahan came next and Johnson went after him with playful force in the first of their four rounds. Blood dripped from Monahan's nose and lips in less than a minute. Johnson shot in two straight lefts with flashing speed and with definite precision. The crowd, however, was more interested with Monahan and the crowd about the ring as they sparred with each other.

Two rounds with Dave Mills followed and this concluded the day's work.

Johnson's breath was unharmed when it was all over and the peripatetic was gathering on his whole body in a natural way. The actual boxing was apparent more in a concession to the curiosity of the crowd than anything else. It was just play for Jack, and he showed that he was entirely satisfied with his skill in this department by every move he made.

John L. Sullivan watched Johnson work. He stood on a rock far back of the crowd at the ring side. The playful side of the exhibition evidently did not appeal strongly to the old warrior, for he mumbled something about "seeing the real business next Monday."

If present intentions are carried out at Jeffries' camp, Thursday will be the last of the former champion's training. When he pulls the six ounce gloves from his hands on that day, after his parting tussle with the shadows, the "hope of the white race" will have completed his training for his encounter with Johnson.

Jeffries' encounter of three rounds each with Berger, Choyinski and Bob Armstrong and two with Corbett early today were his first boxing bouts since coming to Reno. The bout with Berger was interesting. Jeffries slashed at his manager with an assortment of blows and in the second round he landed a right hook that bent the St. Francisian and robbed him of his wind.

Armstrong was dropped to his knees during an onslaught by Jeffries. The big sparring partner was just breaking from a clinch when a right body punch took the fight out of him and ended hostilities for several seconds.

Armstrong had a hard time taking care of himself for the rest of the rounds. When the rounds were over, Jeffries went to breakfast. He spent the rest of the day loitering about the grounds of his cottage and early in the afternoon went fishing.

Two United States war ships will arrive on Friday morning next to assist in celebrating the glorious fourth. Thousands of excursionists are expected from different parts of Maine and the Canadian Islands.

Eastport's Canadian neighbors across the harbor at Welchpool, Campbell Island, will open the big time.

Friday, July 1st, Dominion Day, will be suitably observed on Campbell and during the night a grand ball will be given in the Owen Hotel at Welchpool in honor of the officers from the U. S. warships. On Tuesday at Eastport the programme includes baseball and other sports, salutes by the warships and a mammoth military parade.

Coroner At Oldtown Views Bodies Of David Downes And His Slain Wife And Mother-In-Law

Bangor, Me., June 27.—Coroner Rackliffe, of Oldtown, on Monday visited the scene of the Springfield tragedy, and after viewing the remains of David Downes and his two victims, Mrs. Elizabeth Downes, wife of David and her mother, Mrs. Iva Woodland, decided that an inquest was not necessary. The funeral services will be held on Tuesday, Mrs. Downes will be buried in a separate place.

Later accounts of the tragedy vary somewhat in interesting details from the first story. The shooting did not occur in the home of the Downes family, but at the house of Mrs. Downes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Iva Woodland, across the road.

Mrs. Downes had spent Saturday night with her parents, and was still in the house when at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, her husband appeared in rather an ugly mood, and demanded to see his wife. Mrs. Woodard refused him admittance, and when he insisted, seized an axe, and stood brandishing the weapon in the doorway, whereupon Downes raised his rifle and shot the woman dead in her tracks.

Hearing the altercation, followed by a shot and the fall of her mother's body, Mrs. Downes appeared in the doorway and after a few words she too, fell before Downes' rifle.

Woodard and Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, neighbors, who were in the house at the time, fled through the back door, and Downes retreated to the road, where with rifle ready, he gazed about as if seeking another victim, presumably Mr. Woodard. No one being in sight, Downes after a brief pause returned to the bloody doorway, stepped over the bodies of his wife and Mrs. Woodard, and placing the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth, fired, his corpse falling across the others.

It is said that Downes and his wife had been living apart for five weeks and that he blamed Mrs. Woodard for their estrangement.
