Among those present were the Duchess of Devonshire, Lady Albany, Buckingham, Wellington, Buccleuch, Marchioness of Lansdowne, Viscountess of Jersey, Lord Morley, Lady Robert Cecil, Sir Gilbert Parker. HEROISM REWARDED
BY COMMON COUNCIL

At City Hall yesterday morning Mayor Hayes presented gold watches, suitably engraved, to Douglas T. Thompson and Martin B. Wilson, each of whom had at the risk of his own life saved the life of another.

Commissioner Bullock told the story of the rescue. On October 10, 1919, Mr. Thompson had rescued from the waters of the harbor a five year old lad, Berton McCabe. On March 7, 1920, Mr. Wilson had rescued the second steward of the steamer Bilbiter.

Each of the watches was engraved on the back with the initials of the recipient and inscribed: "Presented to (name of recipient) by the City of St. John for saving (name of rescued) from drowning in St. John harbor (date)."

Each of the recipients thanked the members of the council for the gift.

A New, Harmless Way to Banish Hairy Growth
(Beauty Topics)

By following this suggestion any woman can, in the privacy of her own home, remove every trace of hair or fuzz from her face. With powdered talc and water mix enough paste to cover the neck and throat, apply and in 3 or 5 minutes rub off and wash the skin. This method is unflattering, harmless and quick to results, but care should be employed to get the genuine talc.

SOME SPRING SALADS.

One of the means of dealing with the feeling of lassitude that comes to many people in the spring is to change the diet and have less of the heavy foods that were necessary in the cold weather. Salads are tempting to the flagging appetite, and any kind of green stuff that comes on the market should be taken advantage of in this way. Left-overs of lean meat, fish or vegetables can be served attractively as salads when it would be difficult to make them acceptable in other form. Fruit salads can always be made tempting.

Sardine Salad.
Boil three eggs hard and mash the yolks, seasoning them to taste. Mix with the sardines. Arrange in nests of lettuce leaves. Serve with mayonnaise and garnish with the egg whites cut in strips.

Apple Salad.
This is a delicious fruit salad. Pare four large juicy apples, and cut into thin slices. Add a cupful of crisp celery cut in small pieces, and a cup of walnut meats broken in pieces. Pour over a dressing made as follows: Put the juice of two small lemons in a saucepan, when it is hot add the yolks of two eggs beaten, a small piece of butter, and two tablespoons of sugar. Cook till thick, let stand till cool then add a cup of whipped cream. Serve in crisp lettuce leaves.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.
Grapefruit is excellent used instead of lemon in tea.
Whole fish can be cleaned by brushing with cornmeal.
Raffia makes a good covering for the rusty clothes hanger.
Orange will peel easily if allowed to stand in hot water for five minutes.
Be sure not to get too much butter on a pound cake or the cake will be heavy.

What About It, Girls?
(London Daily Express.)
Why not make every year a leap year? These are the days of sex equality, of women's complete emancipation. Surely it is time to overthrow the foolish idea that man only must propose marriage. It is very unpleasant to be rejected. It is indeed a blow to the heart and a grave injury to self-esteem. But you will become used to that as men will become used to that even tender on the offer of alternative brotherhood. And they shall be merry courtships which are liable at any moment to interruption by a proposal from either side.

NEW THEATRE
It is reported that a theatre will be built by F. G. Spencer on the property acquired by him on Charlotte street. It is said that plans include building on the vacant area and the remodeling of the Charlotte street stores.

AMUSEMENTS

CONCERT ENJOYED
AT THE INSTITUTE

Metagama Jazz Unable to Appear, and the Minnedosa Troupe Filled the Gap and Pleased Large Audience.

The Metagama jazz which had been announced for last night at the Seamen's Institute did not materialize. The liner had been pulled clear of the wharf and the boys were unable to get ashore. However, the popular Minnedosa Troupe consented to fill the gap after being told the circumstances by Mr. Brindley, of the Institute.

The boys from the Minnedosa gave a most delightful entertainment. They were eagerly heard and generally applauded by the large audience. Mr. White, the ship's purser, presided and refreshments were served by the ladies. The following took part in the concert:

W. Loring, H. Smith, R. J. Smith, P. Hurley, S. Jones, F. Roberts, J. Gummell, J. Walker, S. Hobson, G. Fletcher, F. Woods, C. Forshaw, and Little Miss Rita McMahon of the accompanying.

British Empire is as important to Great Britain as the United of the United States to that nation. But in Canada. It is high time to break away from the United States' leading strings.

Teachers are almost the only people now in the wages' class. The right to work is just as much of a right as the right to quit. Those were some of the striking remarks made during the address.

A fine tribute was made to the salaried man who for the five years of war clothed his family, kept things going, gave to patriotic causes, bought bonds and paid the ever rising prices asked by all manufacturers. If the middle classes unite they could keep the balance true.

The political situation in Canada, and the United Farmers' party came in for criticism as well as the methods of the Board of Control and prohibition, too, which Mr. Racey gave two points of view.

The Irish question was well handled, emphasis being laid on the fact that it is strictly John Bull's own affair and no one else should interfere. Applause was heard frequently, especially when the small salaries paid teachers were mentioned, and how no one else should interfere.

The splendid address ended with an appeal to Canadians to keep cheerful, having proved that also is strong and sound at heart and above all to work hard which is the cure for many evils.

The singing of the National Anthem closed the entertainment.

Tiny Actress Has Had Stage Career

F. Stuart Whyte Tells Standard of Future Plans—Little Red Riding Hood a Charming Child.

F. Stuart Whyte in talking with a Standard representative yesterday said that he expects to return to Canada with "Undersold" revised and with elaborate new costumes and effects. It is also planned to bring two musical comedies through Canada one of which may be "Our Miss Gibbs."

Speaking of contracts Mr. Whyte stated that in the option contracts to be made in a different way from now on. At present the rights of a play are sold for the United States and Canada and plays or operas cannot be re-booked for Canada. In all new productions it is considered probable that Canadian rights will be granted separately from rights for the United States.

The question: "Would you like to meet Little Red Riding Hood?" was eagerly answered in the affirmative by the reporter and between the scenes Miss Dorothy Mackay came forward in her characteristic costume. She is as sweet a child in real life as on the stage and has a very pretty manner in all moments when she is not acting. She has been on the stage ever since she was a child of three when she took the part of Cupid in a pantomime. Last year with May Strachan they played "The Babes in the Wood" at the King's Theatre, Edinburgh.

Little Dorothy will be with this company for two years and certainly has a great future before her. Members of the company say she is absolutely consistent in her work and a most lovable child.

Miss Zara Clifton called the attention of the reporter to the genuine laughter and enjoyment of the pupils in Old Mother Hubbard's school and said that many of those taking part in the production will spend the summer at school. Miss Clifton has been in the company for two years and certainly has a great future before her. Members of the company say she is absolutely consistent in her work and a most lovable child.

Several extra little bits of comedy were introduced yesterday afternoon as the matinee to amuse the children who were present in large numbers. The boys and girls from the West Side Protestant Orphan's Home were entertained at the performance by a friend and the boys of the Western Male Orphan Institution were the guests of F. Stuart Whyte, who is a personal friend of William Pearce, too.

SERVICES RECOGNIZED.

When Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Harvey were at the Opera House last week, members of the Soldiers' Wives League attended the performance in recognition of the kindness shown by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey when at St. John before. On this occasion the talented couple put their services at the disposal of the League in assisting in the entertainment of a large number of Soldiers' children for whom a Christmas treat had been arranged.

The company left for a short engagement in Halifax after which they play return dates in Montreal and Toronto's closing in June.

FINE ARTICLE
BY WALTER GOLDING

The last issue of the Canadian Moving Picture Digest published in Toronto contains an interesting article from the pen of Walter H. Golding of the Imperial Theatre, St. John, entitled, "What Place has the Picture Business in the Great Forward Movement all over Canada—If Any?" Mr. Golding deals with the subject from the standpoint of plain good citizenship and from the view point of the head of a family. He treats of the super feature, the comedy and the serial, asking some very pertinent questions.

ARABS WANT A COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE

Claim They Were Promised This as Reward of Fighting for Allies.

(Cross-Atlantic Cable.) London, April 20.—Haded Pasha, the Egyptian diplomatic representative of King Faisal, the recently proclaimed ruler of Syria, granted an interview today in which he made a special appeal to the United States on behalf of Arab nations.

Haded, who was a brigadier general under Allenby, speaks English fluently. He declared he will go to the United States shortly for the purpose of putting before the American people the Arab point of view regarding Syria and Mesopotamia. He said this was the first time he had attempted to explain publicly Arabia's viewpoint. His contention is that Arabs must not be regarded as a backward people, but as a people capable of their own government, that, on the contrary, they were fully abreast of modern culture and ardently desirous of being no longer a country into the forefront of civilization. A regular government had already been established in Syria, he said, and Faisal intended when his regime had been consolidated to seek recognition of the world powers and throw open the country to western European ideas.

"We will encourage trade and give facilities to all nations without restriction. We will completely banish all form of religious intolerance by extending complete tolerance to all creeds. We will build roads, railroads and bridges, foster agriculture, institute a merchant marine and complete this work by establishing great universities and schools everywhere."

Haded declared the Arabs had always given proof of their ability to keep the torch of learning alight and they only ceased when the Turks became dominant.

Haded on behalf of Faisal makes a special appeal to the States because at the moment when Arab allegiance to the Allies undermined the Turkish propaganda and on the publication of Bolsheviki of a secret treaty between England, and France for partition of the Arab nation into two zones, he made his famous declaration completely reassuring the Arabs.

Haded pointed out that Field Marshal Allenby himself had made the statement that it had not been for the help rendered by Faisal's army, success in the Palestine campaign might not have been so decisive.

"Here is your country, fight for it and it will be yours," were his words. Haded, "when we entered the war."

The Arabs certainly gave much service and sacrificed many lives on this understanding.

"After the war the British-French treaty came into operation, dividing the Arab country into two zones, leaving the Arabs only a strip of land and a small strip of territory without hinter-ground or access to the sea. In other words, we are being treated like a subject conquered nation."

Questioned as to the Jews in Palestine, he said:

"They are only eighteen per cent of the population. Furthermore the Arabs will assure full rights to the Jews for business and freedom of worship, and will place no restriction on the Jews' sacred places of all religions, Jew or Christian, or any other."

Haded said his countrymen were anxious that matters should be extended and the French and English be transferred from them. Trade would receive more encouragement and less interference than would be possible under a mandate, they believe. Haded will plead his country's cause in the States, because, he said, that country entered on "great idealistic motives."

INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL
FROM MOWRA FLOWERS

Believed This Indian Flower Will Produce Satisfactory Fluid for Motors.

Much attention has been given in recent years to the question of manufacturing alcohol within the Empire for use as motor spirit. In the current number of the Bulletin of the Imperial Institute the possibility of utilizing the mowra flowers of India for the purpose is discussed. These flowers possess thick, juicy petals, rich in sugar. They are used by the natives as a foodstuff and especially for the preparation of a beverage known as an alcoholic liquor called daru or mowra spirit. A single tree will yield as much as 200-300 lbs. of flowers in a year. The tree also produces a valuable oil seed, which is exported in fairly large quantities to Europe. During the war the flowers were used in India for the production of acetone, the yield being said to be ten times as much as that obtained by distilling wood, which is the usual source of this substance. The demand for acetone in India in peace times, however, is not great, and large quantities of the flowers would be available for the manufacture of alcohol, and would appear to be an exceptionally cheap source of this material as the yield is high compared with that from potatoes and other materials commonly used, about ninety gallons of 95 per cent. alcohol being obtainable from one ton of dried flowers. It has been estimated that in the Hyderabad State alone there are already sufficient mowra trees for the production of 300,000 gallons of proof spirit per annum, in addition to that necessary for the local liquor requirements.

It is suggested that the most profitable way of utilizing the flowers would probably be as a source of mixed motor spirit of the "nastalle" type for use in India. That motor spirit can be produced on manufacturing scale in India from mowra flowers has already been demonstrated and it is stated that running trials with the spirit proved satisfactory.
