BUILDING VESSELS AT JEMSEG. A GENEROUS OFFER. WAR LETTER. London, April 19, 4.10 a. m.—Heavy rains impede the movements of the Brit-ish columns. The blockade of Wepener continues, although relief is near. Large quantities of stores are being moved south-ward from Bloemfontein, which is a re-versal of the course of freight for the last six weeks. These shipments are made necessary by the operations in the south-east of the Free State. There are two thousand sick in the field hospitals, most of the cases being of dysentery and enteric fever. you all the same. We are in Bloemfontein and it is a very nice place with about 20, 000 people and a lot of them are English. They seem to be very nice and pleasant to talk with, but the Dutch are very sour and don't want to see us sol-diers at all, but they never say a word to anyone unless they are spoken to. We have had a very hard march across coun-try, and Lord Roberts says it is the sec-ond best march ever made by troops. We crossed the Modder River February 18. He said it would take eight hours and we crossed it in three. He is very much pleas-ed with the way in which our regiment acted under fire and on the march, and he says they are as good a regiment that nearly a month. Much complaint is made over the condi-tion of the floating bridge at Upper Jem-seg ferry. For some time it has been broken away from its moorings and lying on the east side. This makes travelling up river very difficult as the only means of getting to the interval is by the use of a scow, which art this season is unsatisfac-tory.

indiscretions in weakness and suffering. The tortured sufferer may bear no tell-tale marks of ruin upon his face to be-tray his lost manhood. He goes to his grave a human wreck, and never tells of hus sufferings for fear of shame. Such mental anguish at times drives him to the verge of desperation, and he is easy prey for these vultures in human form-quack doctors—who hold out alluring hopes of cure only to disappoint, and after robbing him of his money, plunge him into absolute despair. No one can appreciate these horrors of lost manhood except he who has suffered them. No one can help such sufferers except he who knows a cure and has him-self been restored to full manhood. A notable cure of lost manhood in an ex-treme case was effected in the person of George B. Wright, a music dealer and well known citizen of Marshall, Mich. Mr. Wright for years suffered the agony of lost vital power. He saw his physical powers go from him as the result of insidi-ous disease, until he was reduced to a condition of senility, and the best doctors in the country gave him up to die.

It "George," she said, the first day after their arrival, "if the neighbors find out wa are from St. Louis they will call us barbarians." "We shall fool them," he responded, firmly. "I shall litter the backyard with empty baked beans cans." "What effect will that have?" "They will think we are from Boston."

There is no question but what in his individual case the results were just as described, and it seems quite probable that any man who believes himself to be weak may profit by sending for this free weak may proht by sending for this free prescription. Many people wonder how he can afford to send this prescription free, but it costs him little to do so, and he feels a philanthropic interest in giving weak men an opportunity to cure them-A request to G.
