Dirge for a Soldier Close his eyes; his work is done! What to him is friend or forman, Rise of moon or set of sun, Hand of man, or kiss of woman? Lay him low, lay him low. In the clover or the snow What cares he? he cannot know, Lay him low!

As man may, he fought his fight,
Proved his truth by his endeavor;
Let him sleep in solemn night,
Sleep forever and forever. Lay him low, lay him low, In the clover or the snow What cares he? he cannot know; Lay him low !

Fold him in his country's stars, Roll the drum and fire the volley What to him are all our wars, What but death bemocking folly? Lay him low, lay him low, In the clover or the snow ! What cares he? he cannot know! Lay him low!

Leave him to God's watching eye, Trust him to the hand that made him Mortal love weeps idly by;

God alone has power to aid him. Lay him low, lay him low, In the clover or the snow! What cares he? he cannot know Lay him low!

Pity and Patience are the two keys which unlock the human heart. They who have been most successful laborers among the poor and vicious, have been the most forbearing. Said the celebrated St. Vincent de Paul.

"If it has pleased heaven to employ the most miserable men for the conversion of some souls, they have themselves confessed some souls, they have themselves confessed that it was by the patience and sympathy which he had for them. BY AN AERONAUT.—We are the only real aristocrats of to-day. We don't care much how we rise, so that our descent is all right!

A writer in a London periodical says:

Oream is a very delicious food, yet it is ally the fatty substance of the cow with a only the fatty substance of the cow with a peculiar flavor superadded. If our chemists can take the whole fat of the cow after slaughter, and add to it an artificial flavor, and thus convert it into an arificial cream, it will surely be a great gain. There is little doubt that a large amount of London butter is manufactured artificially, but the objection is, that it is a very bad and unpleasant imitation of natural butter. The present writer was riding behind an engine on a railway a short time back, when there stole on him a strong odour of red

"Why, guard! is the driver cooking his breakfast at the fire-box door?" "No, sir ! that is where it comes from pointing to a huge factory on the left of

"Oh! they pretend it's all 'flares;' but they put in old grease of any kind—old railway grease and bone-fat! "But why for Dutch butter?"

"Because they can't make it into butter here, as Dr. Letheby and Dr. Hassall would be down upon them. So they send the fat over to Holland ready melted, and make it Why is the letter L like into butter there, and send it back here, heart away? Ans.—Because it makes over when nobody can say anything against it. But, sir, I'm told they use arsenic in purifying the fat, and if they dont get it all out before they make butter of it, all the worse for the poor who eat it."

If the English manufacturers produce edible and nourishing fat from waste and other material, and Dutch chemists so flavor it that it tastes like butter, and the effect on digestion is the same, there is no apparent harm in the process. But it would be well, nevertheless, that it should pass through the crucible of English chemists before passing into the stomachs of the English poor.
