THE "LITTLE FATHER" OF ALL THE RUSSIAS IS ITS HEAD.

Its Richness, Its Many Adherents, and Its Pilgrimages - Moscow Its Jerusalem-In What Respects It Differs From the Church of Rome, Whence It Emanated

The pilgrimage of the Czar and his tourt to the distant Province of Tamboff to assist in the canoniza-tion of the hermit Prakhoff Moshnin has gone almost unnoted by the out-side world, whose eyes have been focused on Rome and the new Pope, but as the manifestation of the spirit of a great church it is scarcely less remarkable than the coronation of Pius X. The Czar is the Pope of the Greek Catholic Church, which the Greek Catholic Church, which nearly 200 years ago broke away from the Church of Rome and established itself in Constantinople. While Popes have continued to reign in Rome, Constantinople has passed into the hands of the Mohammedans and the capital of the Greek Church has been removed to the far porth, where only savages the far north, where only cavages and wild beasts existed in the days of the church's foundation.

But though the Greek Church has not the history of the Church of Rome, the Czar through his synod directs the spiritual affairs of 87,000,000 persons.

Moscow, the Jerusalem of Russia, has more pilgrims than Mecca, more shrines than Rome and more wor-shipers than the holy cities of India. Its church buildings are among the most magnificent in the world. The Church of Our Saviour in Moscow cost $19,000,000. Its great dome,

While the Czar governs his spiritual kingdom as well as his religious kingdom from St. Petersburg, Moscow is really the spiritual capital of Russia. In the very heart of the city, surrounded by a wall a little over a mile in length, lies the Kremlin, the Russian holy of holies. In it are eld palaces and churches filled with the most precious possessions. In one of them is a picture of the Virgin arrayed in a robe covered with diamonds, called the Iberian Mother, which is carried through the streets in a golden chariot at the streets in a golden chariot at the times of great religious celebrations and which has been the source of vast revenue to the church. Many other shrines of especial holiness have Madonnas which are the objects of particular veneration to the dreds of thousands of pilgrims vearly throng to Moscow with their offerings.

The pilgrims are largely peasants The pilgrims are largely peasants who travel in gangs of three or four, their baggage upon their backs and their shoes tied about their necks. You may see them at almost any time walking through the streets, crossing themselves before every church and occasionally stopping to mutter their prayers. At the shrines they are admitted one at a time to look upon the Madonna, which has a policeman on each side, after which they drop their money into the con-tribution box and pass quietly out into the open air.

There are other famous shrines in the country at which the pilgrims worship. At Kiev there are hundreds of thousands of visitors a vear. The recent pilgrimage to the monastery of Saroff was one of the greatest of late years. Besides the Czar's entourage there were 6,000 bishops and lesser clergy at the canonization ceremenies, to say nothing of the horde

If a Greek priest's wife dies, however, he cannot marry again, but is expected to complete his life in a monastery. There are two classes of clergy, the blacks and the whites. The blacks are monks and the whites priests. The bishops are always chosen from the monks, who enjoy a greater social prestige than the whites. The monks in monasteries spend their

The present head of the holy synoid, to which the Czar leaves practically everything pertaining to church government, is M. Pobodonotseff, who has been for fifty years one of the leaders of religious and intellectual life in Russia. He is a man of great chility, the son of a professor of Russian literature in the University of Moscow. He claims to be liferal and to allow liberty of conscience throughout Russia, but this is frequently denied, and His Holiness is charged with fanaticism.

The very earliest coinage that can properly be said to be "strictly Amescan" was ordered by the original Vircan" was ordered by the original Viz-ginia company in the year 1612, only twe years after the founding of Jamestown. These coins were minted at Somers islands, now known as the Bermudas. For a period of more than a quarter of a century after this, how ever, tobacco and beaver skins were reckoned as lawful currency. In 1645 the assembly of Virginia met and de-clared that it "had maturely weighted and considered how advantageous quoine (coin) would be to this colony, and how much better it would be than a sole dependency upon tobacco and pelts." After this they provided for the coinage of copper coins of the do-nominations of twopence, threepence, sixpence and ninepence, but this reso lution was never carried into effect. The first coinage in America proper was the series of coins "struck" at Bos ton under the order of the general court of Massachusetts passed May 27 1652, the coins being three, six and twelve pence denominations, "in forme flatt and stamped on one side with the letters 'N. E.' and on the other the value of the piece."

Laughter as a Moral Power. Is laughter immoral? That is a very important objection urged against comedy from generation to generation. It is not only not immoral, but it is the preservation of morals to cultivate by use a faculty for all sorts of laughter It is the hallucination of prevalent evil which drives men to despair. Now evil always seems to be prevalent when you scrutinize it, for scrutiny involves confined attention to what lies immediately under the lens in the focused light. Being wherever we see, we surmise—nay, affirm—it to be everywhere. But were it really everywhere you and I could not be here to express such an opinion. Clearly the thing to do then is to belittle the evil by fair means and foul, to undignify it and so rob it of its horrors that we shall not lose wits or heart. By laughing at the evil we get rid of the false impression of its omnipotence, we get a little courage, and our despair turns a somersault up into glory from the swinging trapeze of faith.

The Wise Fox.
The Lion, the Ass and the Fox went hunting together, and it was agreed that whatever was taken should be shared between them. They caught a large fat Stag, which the Lion ordered the Ass to divide. The Ass took a deal of pains to divide the Stag into three pieces, which should be as nearly equal as possible. The Lion, enraged with him for what he considered a want of proper respect to his quality, flew upon him and tore him to pieces. He then called on the Fox to divide. The Fox, nibbling off a small portion for him-self, left the rest for the Lion's share. The Lion, highly pleased with this mark of respect, asked the Fox where he had learned such politeness and good breeding. "To tell the truth, sire," replied the Fox, "I was taught it by the Ass that lies dead there."-Æsop.

A Perpetual Sacred Fire. In the peninsula of Abeheron, for-merly belonging to Persia, but now a part of Russia, there is a perpetual or, rather, what the natives call an eternal sacred fire which is known to have been burning continually for more than 2,000 years. It rises from an irregular orifice of about twelve feet in depth and 120 feet square. The flames, which are constant, rise to a height of from six to eight feet, unaccompanied by smoke or disagreeable smell, waving back and forth with the wind like a field of golden grain.

Nature's Protection For the Ear. The membrane lining the canal of the ear contains a great number of little glands which secrete a waxy substance having an intensely bitter taste. The rpose of this is to prevent trance of insects and to keep the ear clean, as the layer of wax dries in scales, which rapidly fall away, thus removing with them any particle of dust or other foreign matters which may have found entrance to the ear.

Where Pa Came In. "What has your ma named the baby, May?" asked a neighbor of the little girl playing in the yard next door.
"Henry Arthur Algernon Judkins," said the tot proudly.
"Why, I thought you were going to name him after your father?"

"Well, so we did—Judkins," was the convincing reply.

Taking Things.

"I always take things as they come said the pickpocket as he dexterously relieved the man ahead of him of a watch and purse.

"And I take men as I find them,' added the policeman, clutching him gently but firmly by the arm.

"Casey, the conthractor, is gittin' or very peaceable wid his wife these days," remarked Mr. Rafferty.
"Peaceable," answered Mr. Dolan. ", should say so. They're so peaceable they ain't even sociable."

A Costly Mistake.
Witherby—I made the mistake of my life this morning. I told my wife I didn't like her new gown.
Plankington—What, was she angry?
Witherby—Oh, no; it wasn't that. But she wants another. Great Expectations.

Caroline—Does Winifred expect many wedding presents?

Margaret—Oh, yes; but she has no idea she will receive as many as she

THE AMERICA'S CUP.

Canadian Account of the Win as Made in 1851. An interesting account of how the Americas Cup was won in 1851 is published by a Canadian contemporary: When the yacht Λmerica, it says, arrived in England in 1850-51 her owner, Stevens, published a chalher owner, Stevens, published a challenge to sail anything for £1,000 to £10,000, but he laid down so many stipulations that the challenge was not accepted. Then the Americans appeared to think they were being treated discourteously, and the Royal Yacht Squadron went out of its way to offer a cup, value £100, to be sailed for—open to all—without conditions or time allowance; course, round the Isla of Wight. Now this round the Isle of Wight. Now this is the cup that the Americans are pleased to call the Queen's Cup for some reason only known to them-selves. Possibly the hall mark on silver in England being a crown, the Yankees assumed that this must be Her Majesty's private totem. In 1851 five Queen's cups were given, not one bearing the slightest resem-blance to the Royal Yacht Squadron Cup. Aug. 22 was the eventful day. Cup. Aug. 22 was the eventful day. Fifteen yachts started, ranging from the barque Brilliant, 393 tons, to the cutter Aurora, 47 tons. Only five could be termed racers or ever won a prize. The five were the Freak, Volante, Arrow, Alarm and Aurora. The start was very peculiar. The fieet went one way—the Apperica another. "Bound the Isla America another, "Round the Isle of Wight," in yacht racing parlance, means round the Nab—and then right away. Round the Nab went the Britishers, but the Yankee, to the amusement of the spectators and the disgust of the officials, took no notice of the distant lightship, but headed straight for the corner of the headed straight for the corner of the island, scraped over Bembridge Ledge and then took a short line to Culver Cliff, thereby effecting a saving of from 11 to 13 miles. Off Bonchurch the Britishers caught up and the Freak and Volante got to windward of the America. Then a series of disasters occurred. The Arrow grounded off Ventnor, and the Alarm went to her assistance: off St. Lawwent to her assistance; off St. Lawwent to her assistance; off St. Law-rence the Freak fouled the Volants. Thus four of the five British racers were out of it. Passing the Needles the America was a long way ahead, but coming up the Solent the little Aurora gained rapidly and reached Cowes eight minutes behind the Am-erica. The Aurora sailed the course, the America had not and the Brite the America had not, and the Brit-ishers claimed the cup, but as the Squadron people had omitted to tell the Yankees that they must round the Nab, they saw no other way out of the difficulty but to hand the cup to the first yacht in. Mr. Charles Mair, the author of several volumes of verse, including "Tecumseh," and who for the past five years has been hiding his poetfe light under the bushel of department-al routine in the Immigration Office at Winnipeg, has been promoted to Lethbridge, and leaves shortly for that land of Mormons, coal mines and trigation ditches. In the United States, as has been said, they make their poets ambassadors, while we have a more economical method, we have a more economical method, and utilize their fine frenzy in describing to an intending settler the quality of the soil on Sec. 13, Township 6, Kange 10, or explaining to a Sheffield cutler what are the chances of obtaining work at his trade at Otaskwan, Alberta. One of the productions of Mr. Mair's which the West appreciates best is his "Open the Bay," and, though his hair is silvered, it is to be hoped Mr. Mair will live and flourish in the genial climate of Alberta long after his appeal has been heeded and his prophecy fulfilled, and Hudson Bay has become a highway for commerce. Mr. Mair is a genial, philosophic and optimistic soul, and he will be much missed by many friends in Winnipec. and utilize their fine frenzy in de-

Progress and Politoness.

Pregress and Politeness.

On two recent occasions, when school children were to the fore, attention was called by disinterested observers to their lack of courtesy, says The Globe.

The Governor-General, in addressing the children in the park on Empire Day, said: "With all the self-reliance that marks a new country like this, it would be well to remember the generous traditions and the courteous manners of the old country. There was sometimes a tendency to demonstrate self-reliance by a want of respect to fellow-men and to those in authority."

Mr. William Scott, Principal of the Normal School, speaking at the luncheon given by the directors of the Exhibition on "School Children's Day," contrasted the kind and court-sous ways of the boys and girls of Quebec with the rudeness, or at least bluntness, of those in Ontario. He had considerable experience in Quebec, and was inclined to think one reason for the difference is that the people there live in the past, while those of this Province are more democratic.
