Sunday School Lesson.

LESSON IX.—AUGUST 22, 1880.

ABRAHAM'S INTERCESSION.—Gen.
18: 16-33.

TIME.—B. C. 1897. 15 years after events of last lesson.

PLACE.—Hebron, about 20 miles south of Jerusalem.

INTRODUCTION.

In Abram's ninety-ninth year (B. C.
1898), Jehovah, appearing to him, renewed the covenant with him in the new character of "father of many nations." In sign thereof he changed his name from AB-RAHAM (exalted father) to AB-RAHAM (father of a multitude). Abraham from this time is presented to us in a higher character than before. The more open and familiar intercourse which he enjoys with Jehovah marks him as peculiarly "the friend of God."

EXPLANATORY.

And the men rose up. The strangers whom Abraham entertained. He whom the patriarch had instinctively recognized as their chief soon disclosed himself as the Lord himself, JEHOVAH; and the others are in the event seen to be angels.
Abraham went with them. The custom of the East required Abraham to escort his guests a little on their way.

And the Lord said. The name of "Jehovah" (Lord) is used often, as quite the same with "angel of Jehovah" (angel of the Lord). The angel of the Lord is therefore the God-man Mediator, who, even before he became man in the person of Jesus, was in all ages the light of the world. Should I hide from Abraham, &c.
All the principles of the divine Providence in its relations to the sins of men appear here; his forbearance and patience, his constant notice, the deciding test, and the strictness and righteousness of the judgment; and hence Abraham is told here, that these same principles might operate upon the minds of the people of God in all ages.

Seeing that Abraham, &c. God then disclosed to Abraham what he was about to do to Sodom and Gomorrah, because Jehovah had chosen him to be the father of the people of God, in order that, by instructing his descendants in the fear of God, he might lead them in the paths of righteousness, so that they might become partakers of the promised salvation, and not be overtaken by judgment. The destruction of Sodom and the surrounding cities was to be a permanent memorial, to keep the fate of the ungodly constantly before the mind of Israel.

Family religion is God's method for propagating his church. He therefore makes the covenant and its seals of a household nature; and thus the church has always been extended by means of a pious posterity. That. Although the promises to Abraham and his seed, and through them to the world, were absolute, yet Abraham's conduct forms an essential part of the plan. We cannot fail to perceive in this language, in what high esteem family religion is held by God, and should be held by us. That he will commend. No harsh and austere enforcement is here contemplated, but the law of the house is to be religious; not leaving the children to the false principle of making their own choice or of doing as they please in religious things. His household.
Not only his children, but his servants and dependents. That which he hath spoken of him. Faithful parents may hope, even against hope, for the covenant blessing on their children; for our trust is not in them, but in God.

The cry of Sodom. It is applicable to every sin as expressive of "the moral demand which it makes for punishment;" for every sin has a voice of condemnation against the sinner, and its crying intimates the fixed, necessary and righteous connection (Gen 4: 10) which is established between transgression and punishment.

I will go down now. It implies that he would look into the whole case; that he would be slow before he came to the resolution to inflict vengeance to the utter-most; that he would institute a careful inquiry to see whether what he knew to be bad was incurably bad.

And Abraham drew near. And here commences the most remarkable instance of human intercession to be met with in the whole compass of revelation; one in which the tender and sympathizing benevolence of Abraham on the one hand, and the astonishing clemency and forbearance of Jehovah on the other, are portrayed in colors such as the pencil of inspiration alone could present. Will thou also destroy the righteous with the wicked? See Num 16: 19-22. Ps 11: 4-7. Judgments do often come upon a whole community for the sins of a portion, because the separation cannot always be made here, and the final adjustment remains for the great day of account.

There be fifty righteous. God often spares a community for the sake of a few good men in it. And here the principle is conceded by the Lord. At first the suppliant patriarch names fifty as the number who may save Sodom from destruction. He could hope there might be found so many as this. Will thou also destroy and not spare the place? Abraham goes on from step to step; Jehovah grants him step by step, without once going before his requests. He thus draws out from Abraham the measure and intensity of his priestly spirit; while Abraham, on his side, ever wins a clearer insight as to the judgment of God upon Sodom, and as to the condition of Sodom itself.

If I find fifty... I will spare all the place.
How little do the men of this world know the extent of even their worldly obligations to the righteous! How often has not the Lord spared great cities from plagues; pestilence, famines—from earthquake, fire and sword—for the sake of the little sanctuary he has therein, among those to whom his name is dear! They may be passed unregarded by, in the market and in the street; but they are the salt, they are the leaven, that keeps the mass from corruption. It is for them that a blessing rests upon the place where iniquity abounds; and it is for their sake that the curse and the ruin are averted from it. In the belief that the duty and privilege of intercession is too much neglected among Christians, we do earnestly recommend this case of Abraham's intercession for Sodom to the consideration of the reader. A number in any nation or city, who stand in the gap by their inter-cessions and exertions, are a stronger defence than armies, navies, or fortifications.

Dust and ashes. In his origin dust, and ashes at the end.

Peradventure there shall lack five of the fifty righteous, &c. Should forty-five good men suffer for want of five more?

A third time, he said: a third time an answer is granted. Let not the Lord be angry. He would fain wrestle in prayer, but would not oppose the divine will. He said. A fourth time the answer is obtained. Behold, now. A thing to be greatly wondered at. And he said. An answer for the fifth time. This once. He would not go beyond this. His human pity had struggled with his sense of right, but it could not go farther. He said. A sixth answer. Ten's sake. So few "should indeed save that great city."

Went his way. As he had declared (ver 21), to go down to Sodom as one of the three who had come to Abraham. (1) God granted Abraham's prayer so far as he ventured to extend it. We know not what would have been the answer, had he gone farther. He may have had some intimation that he should proceed no further (Jer 7: 16; 11: 14), or by the covenant angel going his way. And yet God went even farther than his promise, and saved Lot's family, which contained, doubtless, all the righteous who were there. Thus he granted Abraham's prayer.

ALARMING.

Dr. Cuyler says that "Dr. J. Addison Alexander preached his superb discourse on 'The Faithful Saying' until he wore out the manuscript." This statement, thus set afloat, will drift into all the papers in the land. We can view with nothing less than positive alarm the effect of such a fact on the barrels of old sermons that will be turned up. Many a man will say, "Dr. Alexander preached his sermons until he used up the manuscript, and so will I." Dr. Cuyler does not tell us how many times Dr. Alexander wrote and re-wrote that sermon, how many weeks and months were spent on it, how it was sifted, re-arranged and turned, before the discourse was in a state to preach until the manuscript was worn out.
Nor does Dr. Cuyler stop to tell us that what Dr. Alexander could do, many other men could not do. Every graduate from a theological seminary is not a Dr. Alexander. It is not safe for a man to try to wear out his manuscripts until he can make sermons the average of which shall be equal to that on "The Faithful Saying."

A young Methodist brother said to us, some time ago, "Adam Clarke never wrote a sermon, and I never will." Adam Clarke had brains enough for half the Methodist denomination. The young brother had not brains enough for one-half an average Methodist preacher. The difference in the brains makes all the difference in what is to come from them. Dr. Wayland might have done what Dr. Alexander did. But other men might fail if they tried the experiment.

We know of a ministry of two or three years spoiled once by trying to use old sermons, and the preacher has been praying ever since for the Lord to give him two or three extra years of life to make up for the lost ones. One argument used why a pastor should sometimes change from one field to another is, that he may re-preach his old sermons. Ghostly work!
Melancholy business! A Satanic device!
It would be wise for a young man entering the ministry to resolve religiously not to preach (except when on exchange) a sermon the second time without re-writing it.
If a man has been settled in sixteen different places, it ought to be proof that he has written his sermons sixteen different times, or not used them in those places. And yet it is hard to make a young man just beginning to preach to see that there is any difference between himself and Dr. Alexander. Dr. Storrs, at fifty-five, threw away his manuscripts and became a first-class extemporaneous preacher. It would not be safe for other men to imagine that they can do what Dr. Storrs has done.—Boston Watchman.

Many sing "From Greenland's icy mountains" without thinking very much of Greenland. Yet here for sixty-two years the Moravian Brethren have been nobly at work, and their small annual meetings never fail to interest. Last year the good little ship Harmony, of which all friends of Moravian Brethren have heard, made her shortest voyage on record, having left the Thames on June 21, and entering the harbor of Hopedale July 21.
Only the day before the mail steamer from St. John, which runs during the summer for persons engaged in cod-fishing off Labrador, failed to penetrate the ice. At the close of 1878, 70,646 members of the church had been gathered from the heathen.

THE BEST.—Of all the family medicines in use there is none to equal GRAHAM'S PAIN ERADICA-TOR. It is the most gentle in its action, and the most effectual in use. It does not contain Opium, Ether, or Chloroform to destroy the sensibility and injure the nerves, nor any Cayenne Pepper, Potash, or Ammonia to burn or blister, as found in so many others that depend on causing so much smart that the sufferer does not feel the original pain. The Pain Eradicator is a purely vegetable Soothing, Healing, Balsamic Magnetic Oil that effectually reduces inflammation and allays irritation of the nerves. Its superiority is evident from the fact it has effectually cured hundreds of cases of Rheumatism, many of whom had suffered for more than twenty years previous to using it; a thing not accomplished by any other medicine. It is equally good for other forms of aches and pains.

Still, while most grinders profess to

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observation of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne: 66 West Thirty-sixth street, New York, Sept. 2, 1876.
GENTS—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases of all ages. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M.D.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HY-POPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. October 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SEXTON, M.D. Baltimore.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
December 10th, 1878. Very truly Yrs. J. SIMONAUD, M.D. New Orleans, La.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE—Gentlemen—In September 1877, my health began to fail, and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grow worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion, before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following results: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street, who asks, what cured you and I answer SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoken aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle, and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says that it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION, and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose, and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already ried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am yours R. W. HAMILTON, M.D.
