Use Every Influence to Induce the Catholic Membere to Vote

Against the Bill and Up-New York, July 19.-The Sun's Lon don correspondent says: Widespread comment has been excited by the in-terference of Cardinal • Vaughan on behalf of the Pope, to prevent the passage of the Deceased Wife's Sister Bill. The Cardinal wrote a letter to the members of the House of Lords before the third reading, in which he said: "The bill purports to abolish as part of the civil law the matrimoniar impediment of the first degree of affinity in the collateral line. This is to propose a law in direct opposition to a canon law of the church. No Catholic, therefore, can vote for it. The Holy Father directs me to use every influence to induce the Catholic members in both Houses of Parliament to take up the defence of a canon law of the church and to vote against this bill, which attempts to violate it. "It is well known that some members have voted for the bill year by year on the ground that it would give civil recognition to the dispensation which the Holy Father occasionally grants for very grave and special reasons. The intention was laudable, but the Holy See regards it as no sufficient systems. The intention was laudable, but the Holy See regards it as no sufficient ground for changing the marriage law. Seattle, Wash., July 19.—Charles A. Edwards, son of C. A. Edwards, United States Commissioner in Alaska, and well known in journalistic circles as the former editor of The Spokane Sunday Sun, has been arrested on the charge of complicity in a swindle by which the Great Northern Railway has been defrauded of a large sum of money. Edwards plan was to sell tickets at greatly reduced rates and in collusion with the train crews smuggle his passengers through in baggage cars. A number of conductors also habitually neglected to punch tickets which they turned over to Edwards and his associates to be resold at cheap rates. A bunch of counterfeit tickets was found among Edwards effects and it is believed that he operated a printing office from which hundreds of bogus tickets were turned out.

An Act to consolidate the Acts respecting the solemnization of marriage becomes law on August 1st. There are some new clauses in this Act, one of which is that requiring the making of affidavits by both contracting parties. Heretofore the groom was the only person necessary to the legal issuance of a license, but after August 1st the affidavit of the bride must be taken and presented with that of the groom before a license or certificate can be issued.

Canada's most prominent rady temperance worker, died on Saturday at her residence, 19 Metcalfe-street. Mrs. Youmans had almost reached the allotted span of life, having been born Jan 3, 1827, and being consequently in her 76th year.

The little village of Baltimore, some few mines north of Cobourg, in the county of Northumberland, has the honor of being her birthplace. She was of mixed parentage, her father being Irish and her mother an American of French extraction. Her father, John, Creighton, was one of the early pioneers of this country. Letitla began her school life at the age of 4, being sent to an old log schoolhouse under the tuition of a Yankee schoolmaster. Here she learned those temperance principles which she had ever since advocated and signed the pledge. At great personal sacrifice her father removed her to a ladies' school opened in Cobourg by Prof. Van Norman. At the age of 20 she creditably graduated, and began teaching in her own school section. Here, as at Pleton Ladies' Academy, where she afterwards taught, she strove in every way to inculcate those principles to which she devoted her long and useful life. She married in 1850 form Youmans, an ardent supporter in her work.

In 1874 she first became interested in concerted temperance action, assisting in the organization of the W.C.T.

U. in the United States. Returning, she began her work in this country by petitioning the Picton Town Council against the issuing of shop licenses. Bhe addressed the Council Board, but the petition was thrown out. Undismayed, she continued the work, addressing large audiences at Montreal, Cobourg, Port Hope and in Toronto, where she came to live. Here she spoke under the auspices of the Temperance Reformation Society, in churches, public halls, at the Central Prison and at the Haven. She also addressed large meetings at Cincinnati and, assisted to form Unions at Hamilton, Dundas, Brantford, London and other places.

Mrs. Youmans campaigned energet:

liton, Dundas, Brantford, London and other places.

Mrs. Youmans campaigned energetically for the Dunkin-Act in Port Hope, and Cobourg, and was also active in the Scott Act agitation a few years, later. In 1883 she went to the Old Country as a delegate from the Canadian W.C.T.U., toured the Pacific coast in 1885, and in both places her reception was most cordial and the impressions she left very favorable.

In 1885 she was stricken with inflammatory rheumatism, and was a sufferer from that disease up till her death.

Toronto. July 20.

J. Edward Ryan, the 18-year-old son of John J. Ryan, the Coborne-street commession merchant, was drowned in the mean the railway bridge at 3.30 yesterday afternoon.

Ryan was an athletic young man and was a member of the Don Rowing Club. He was ambitious to become an oarsman, and when he visited the club house yesterday he donned a rowing suit and got into a single shell. He had only been in such a boat once before and he was advised not to go out without an escort. He laughingly disregarded the warnings and had not made more than about three strokes of the oars when the boat upset. He uttered a cry as he sank into the water, which at that spot is 36 feet deep.

Pat J. Woodley, 167 Ontario-street, the well-known oarsman of the Dons, was among the men at the club house who saw the boat upset. Seeing that Ryan was unable to swim, Mr. Woodley plunged in to try and save him. Frank McCurry also went in after him Woodley reached the drowning mans side and caught hold of him. New York, July 19.-Mr. Isaac New York, July 19,—21. Issue to Ford in his cable to The Tribune from London says: The most surprising thing in Lord Sallabury's unexpected speech of surprises is his desire to consult English public opinion on a diplomatic question. He seidom makes any concession to the democratic spirit any concession to the democratic spirit of his own country, and is a diplomatist any concession to the democratic spirit of his own country, and is a diplomatist of the old school, who prefers the innermost dark closet to a glass house, where everyone can see what is going on. He now abruptly declares that he wishes to know the trend of public opinion, and derive guidance from it respecting the future conduct of negotiations with the United States. His attitude is so novel that every journal is instinctively on its guard, and discusses with caution and circumspection the diplomatic correspondence printed this morning. No positive opinion is expressed by any responsible journal, and the magnitude of the interests involved and the practical difficulty of solving the complex question of a permanent arbitration scheme are generally recognized. Lord Salisbury has evidently fretted under the imputation that he was not moving with sufficient rapidity in the direction of reconciling the two branches of the Anglo-Saxon family. He now justifies himself by taking the nation into his confidence and showing plainly that arbitration is not a simple sum moment's notice. The press, speaking for the nation, frankly admits that ample time must be allowed for reflection, and that premature judgments and the predict of the avoided.

Lord Salisbury's speech was remarkable for its moderation and conciliatory tone, and this reflects the spirit the Scott Act agitation a few years later. In 1883 she went to the Old Country as a delegate from the Canadian W.C.T.U., toured the Pacific coast in 1886, and in both places her reception was most cordial and the impressions she left very favorable. In 1888 she was stricken with inflammatory rheumatism, and was a sufferer from that disease up till her death.

She was on intimate terms with Lady Henry Somerset and Frances Willard, and has for years been President of the W.C.T.U. of Ontario.

Referring to the deceased, Miss Willard wrote: "By her great gifts as a speaker, her remarkable energy and effective work, she did more than any other woman to make the W.C.T.U. a force in Canada. Clear and losical in her appeals, Mrs. Youmans was enver so effective as on her favorite theme of home protection." Her addresses, founded on the books of Esther and Nehemiah, are among the most forcible appeals ever uttered for the prohibitory law."

The remains will be taken to-day to the first terms of the control of the work of the most forcible appeals ever uttered for the prohibitory law." an end, but some of the most brulian lawn parties and dances have been reserved for the closing fortnight.

Nothing short of a royal wedding can bring the Queen to London. Her first visit this year will be a short one. She will arrive at Buckingham Palace on Tuesday evening, give a big dinner party to the royal family and return to Windsor early next evening, as soon as her granddaughter is married. She will stay 24 hours, remaining for the wedding breakfast, but not witnessing the departure for Appleton, where the honeymoon will be passed. There will be two wedding breakfasts at the palace; one for the immediate relatives, the other for the remaining royal guests. As the attendance of the latter from the Continent will be small, the Queen's duties as ohlef entertainer will not be arduous. The real managers of the ceremony are the Lord Chamberlain, the Lord Steward and the Master of the Horse. These court officials arrange the wedding procession, order the luncheon and direct the movement of the carriages. The Princes of Wales has little to do except give away his daughter, the Princes Maud, to Prince Charles of Denmark. The preparations for the wedding have not kept him away from the Newmarket races this week, and when the royal hurly-burly is over next week, he will have two days' racing at Sandown Park.

The marriage is a popular one and seemaglo interest everybody, the brider should be succeeded and the procession of state carriages from Marborough House to Buckingham Palace will be gayly decorated, and the procession of state carriages from Marborough House to Buckingham Palace will be witnessed by thousands of spectators. The wedding march will be from the House to Buckingham Palace will be performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by two Bishops, a sub-dean and canon

In comparison with previous royal widdings, this one will be quelt and private, with the glass-panelled state coaches as the chief attraction for the spectators in the streats. The Crown Prince and Princess of Demmark arrived at Buckingham Palace to-day, and, were preceded by the Princes from Greece and other poyal guests.

London, July 19.—The Daily News will to-morrow publish an interview with the Right Hon. James Bryce, M.P., the well-known author of "The M.P., the well-known author of "The American Commonwealth," on the subject of Anglo-American arbitration. Mr. Bryce's views on the question are optimistic. He says that the despatches exchanged by Lord Salisbury and Secretary of State Olney show that each side is sincerely desirous of an agreement that will be salisfactory to both. Lord Salisbury, he holds, is over-cautious and has raised needless difficulties. Mr. Bryce further said that he is in favor or submitting territorial disputes to the decision of an arbitration court. He approves the proposal for the appointment of a Joint commission to settle the Anglo-Venezueian boundary dispute.
