WHY HE SOLD HIS BLANKET.

An Incident in the Life of Mr. Ernest

Mr. Edmund Bi Le Roy, inspector Cauda Permanent & Western Canada Mortgage Corporation, related an interesting incident in the life of Mr. Ernest Seton-Thompson, the famous writer on animal life, a day or two ago. It appears that some years ago young Seton, as he was then called, spent his summer vacations in the woods, where he studied the characteristics of animal line. This year he was in the neighborhood of Coboconk, where Mr. Le Roy was then keeping a store. One day a wildlooking, unkempt young man came into the store and purchased supplies. He said his name was Seton and that he was hunting for bird skins. When he had been around the neighborhood about a month Mr. Le Roy asked him one day where he "Oh," replied the eccentric young fellow, 'I go asleep wherever I happen to be when I am tired. I just roll myself up in my blanket." Mr. Le Roy remarked at the time to friends near that this young man would be heard from some day. Later in the summer young Seton walked into Mr. Le Roy's store and told him that he was dead broke and that he wanted to go to Toronto. Mr. Le Roy offered to loan him the amount of his fare, but Seton said, "No, I will sell you my rubber blanket for $3." Mr. Le Roy bought the blanket and it was such a good one that he still has it in his possession. Leter still, when Mr. Ernest Seton-Thompson became famous as the result of his work it struck Mr. Le Roy one day that perhaps that young fellow Seton might be the now-famous artist and author. He penned a pote to the author, sending it to his New York address, asking him if he was not the man who had sold him the rubber blanket. A few days ago Mr. Le Roy received the following reply from the brilliant author, who was then stopping at the Auditorium,

Chicago: My dear sir,-Yes, I am the man who sold you the rubber blanket 1885. I am yours very sincerely, Ernest Seton-Thompson. The author's totem follows the sig-

Graveyard of the Ocean to Be Made Green

The trees recently planted on Sable Island consisted of 81,600 in all, and filled eighteen large cases. These trees were selected by Dr. Saunders when in Europe last year, from a large tree nursery in mandy. Before making the selection visited the sea shores of Brittany, and carefully studied the results of tree planting there, which was begun sixty years ago on the drifting sands of the sea coast. The trees purchased for experimental test on Sable Island included a large number of those which have succeeded so well in France, to which were added a number of other sorts which from Canadian experience. Were ught to be likely ful for this purpose. Of the specimens chosen, 68,000 were evergreens, consisting of pines, spruces and juniand the remaining 13,000 were made up of different hardy deciduous

As soon as the forest trees were unpacked and healed in, sites were selected for the planting, and this work was begun. One of the sites chosen was apparently a pure partly covered with sand-binding grass. This was the top of a promin ent cliff, where the trees would be partly protected from the winds, and seen from many different points. At this place several thousand trees were planted. Three other sites for tree planting were selected near the house of the superintendent, the planting of all of which was completed before Dr. Saunders' party left. A large garden belonging to the central station was partly filled with over 2,000 specimens, among which are included a number of varieties of small fruits sent from the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa.

Major-General Dartnell, K.C.B. Major-General Dartnell, who has received a K. C. B. for his services in South Africa, was born in London, Ont., 1838. He is the son of the late Dr. Geo. Russell Dartnell, Deputy Inspector-General of Army Hospitals and formerly surgeon of the 1st Royals. General Dartnell entered the army as ensign in the 86th Regiment in 1855 and was sub-sequently Adjutant of the force, serving with it in the Central India force during the mutiny. He was present at the storm and capture of Chundaree, and led the only successful attack on the fortress of Jhansi, was severely wounded and mentioned despatches, and received a brevet majority. Subsequently he served in the Bhootan expedition as A. D. C. Major-General Tombs. General Dartnell retired from the army in 1864, and in 1874 became Major commanding the Natal Volunteers and Mounted Police forces, a posi-tion he has held ever since. In 1879 he led the left flanking force of Lord Chelmford's column from Isan-ahlwna in the Zulu war, and is mentioned by name in Mr. Rider Hag-gard's novel, "The Witch's Head." In 1881 he received the decoration of a C. M. G. General Dartnell has most recently been in command of a column operating in the Eastern Transvaal under General French, his services 'having been 'loaned' to the Imperial authorities by the Natal Government.

The Frog Visitation.

Early in the thirties there came also a visitation of frogs in Canada. The frogs came down with showers, falling from a clear sky. They descended in thousands. But this was not all. The continual raining, with the blazing sun and decaying frogs gave us a West India climate in this The air was poisoned with decaying matter, and their pes-tilence stalked through the land. Almost every home was visited by the cholera, and the victims were numbered by hundreds,

DOCTORS IN CONSULTATION Trying Position of a Man Traveling on a Borrowed Pass. "Traveling on another fellow's pass is sometimes a dangerous thing," said a well known man. "Not long ago I had occasion to go out of town and borrowed a pass from a friend of mine who is a physician in addition to being one of those favored by the railroad for political reasons. The conductor took up the pass, with the others, for overnight, as is the custom, and I thought everything was all right. But about 3 o'clock in the morning I was aroused from a sound slumber in my berth by some one shak-ing me. I looked up, startled. It was the conductor. " 'Sorry to disturb you, doctor,' he said, 'but there's a man in the car very sick.

Won't you take a look at him?'
"'Here's a pretty fix,' thought I. 'But I'll have to make the bluff good or forfeit the pass.' So I got up, slipped in my clothes and looked at the patient. He was breathing heavily. I felt his pulse, solemnly measured it by my watch and then said, as though I knew just what-ailed him, 'Is there any one here who has a flask?' I had half a dozen offers in a minute. 'Give him two teaspoonfuls of whisky every ten minutes, said I, and bathe his head with ice water. I knew that prescription wouldn't hurt him, anyway. After the first dose the patient rallied, and I was just congratulating myself when the conductor came up with another passenger.

"'Here's a fellow physician, doctor,'
he said. 'Perhaps a consultation will be

"I shook hands with the newcomer trembling in my boots. 'What have you given him, doctor?' he asked sharply. I told him. 'Excellent,' he said. The patient got better, and the next morning when we had alighted at Pittsburg, the joke being too good to keep, I made a clean breast of it to the physician. He laughed. 'So you're not a doctor at all, eh?' he said. Then he laughed again and looked about him cautiously. 'Say, old man,' he said in a whisper, 'that's a good one. Neither am I.'"—Philadelphia

The young lovers sat beside the water-The rapids and the nearby whiripool had a strange attraction for the romantic young girl. Lamentable Forgetfulness. As the steamer pitched and rolled in the waves the traveler heard through the thin partition a wailing voice in the next stateroom exclaim:

"Oh, mamma, it's coming on again vorse than ever!" Then he heard a sleepy voice in reply: "Marie, why don't you follow the di-rections you told me about before we came on board?" "Because I've forgotten whether I ought to breathe in as the vessel rises and let the breath go out as it moves downward or whether it ought to be the other way, and, oh, oh, I wish I was dead!"-Chicago Tribune.

ODD THINGS IN PENCILS.

For Use on Glass and Some For "Black lead pencils," said the station er, "are of course the kind most common ly used, but colored lead pencils are. in the aggregate, sold in large numbers, and they are made in very great variety. "Artists' lead pencils are made in mor than 50, in perhaps as many as 100, colors. In these pencils, with the lead in wood, the wood is finished of a color approximating as nearly as may be that of the lead. A tray of samples of such pencils thus presents a very striking appearance, making more than a rainbow of

"There are made also colored leads for use in pencils for movable leads. These artists' pencils of one sort and another are used not alone by artists, but by architects, engineers, designers, draftsmen and others having occasion to use fine colored pencils.

"Then there is a great variety of color ed pencils for general use, for checking and marking and so on, in office and store and library and factory, some of these being sometimes used on textile fabrics as well as on paper and wood. "There are colored pencils, these also being made in various colors, that are especially designed for the use of lumber-men, as there are also pencils with leads of various colors made especially for the "No doubt the common ides of a lead pencil is of something with which we mark on paper, though the use of pencils for marking on wood is familiar enough, as, in a more limited way, is their use for marking on fabrics, and so on. But there are various uses to which pencils are put that must be less familiar, if not indeed quit unknown, to many.

"There are, for example, pencils especially made for marking on glass, porceleather and other things upon which an ordinary pencil would not mark at all. The leads of these pencils are of course made of a material especially prepared for the purpose. With such pencils marking is done easily on any of these hard, polished surfaces, and the marks may be as easily rubbed off.

"These pencils are in use in drug stores and hardware, glass and crockery stores, and so on. They are made with white and black leads and with leads in a variety of colors, the colored pencils being the more generally used, and the colors most commonly used being red and blue and yellow.

"Another odd sort of pencil is one made for the use of surgeons for marking on the skin in surgical operations and for anatomical purposes. These are also colored pencils, and they are made in a variety of colors.

"In fact, simple a thing as the lead pencil might seem to be, it is really some-thing that is made in almost endless variety. But for all that the pencil manufacturer gets every now and then from somebody a demand for new pencils for

His Name For Plymouth Rock. One of the best definitions of Plymouth rock is that uttered by a Catholic priest in Boston many years ago.

The managers of a meeting to celebrate the landing of the pilgrims on Plymouth rock thought it would be a good joke to invite the most prominent Catholic priest in Boston to be present. An invitation was sent and to their great surprise was courteously accepted. At the supper table the priest was called upon for a speech. He excused himself from making one, but, saying that he was a disciple of Father Mathew, he would ask them to fill their glasses with water and he would give them a toast. All rising, Father Ryan said, "Plymouth rock, the Blarney stone of America."

Stomach Catarrh

Thos. Howarde, of Montreal, cured of a severe case of fifteen years' standing.

Thos. Howarde, of Montreal, suffered from stomach catarrh and dyspepsia for fifteen years. He had tried so many remedies without being benefited that he believed he would never be well. Below we give the result after taking Powley's Liquified Ozone. His way of telling it is best:

Gentlemen,—Having suffered from catarrh of the stomach and acute dyspepsia for fifteen years and tried many remedies with very little benefit, I decided to try Ozone, and for three days after using it I jound little or no besefit, but the fourth day I felt decidedly better, and after using one bottle can honestly say that I feel more comfortable than I have felt for many years. I am satisfied from the benefit already received that it will cure me entirely. (Signed) THOS. HOWARDE, 706 Dorchester St., Montreal, P.Q.

We believe, and we know that you would too, if you had the evidence every day as we do, that there is no other preparation extant that can approach Ozone in curing stomach and summer disorder. It rectifies the membraneous lining of the stomach, makes digestion complete and heals the inflammation of the intestinal tract.
