

A good Shoe differs from its wearer in that it should always

How it gets there, has everything to do with the seumfort it brings to the foot. Putting soles on their uppers is hardly a spiritual work, but it's the big end of Shoe making.

There are three ways of doing it—by the use of pegs, Mackay stitching, and the Goodyear welt or hand sewn process (Slater are the control of the method).

Pegged or Mackay stitched shoes are known from the other make by their putting welts on the sole of the foot instead of having them put on the sole of the shoe.

They do this, because the pegs, or stitching, go clear through the sole, under the foot, where the full weight of the body, pressing upon the surrounding leather, raises hard lumps around every peg or stitch, and these in turn raise painful callosities, and corny spots on the foot.

on the foot.

The soles of the Slater Shoes, are sewn to the welt (or strip of leather which projects beyond the sides of the shoe), away from the foot, leaving a smooth and pliant surface sander the foot while retaining all the elasticity and springiness of the sole leather.

This is the Goodyear welted or hand made method, and these "best in the land" shoes are stamped on the soles at "$3.00 per pair." Other facts about feet you'll find in a little book "The Sick Man of Leatherhouse" Ask for a free copy from
