The man Harry Morris from the Aberdeen mill, who was arrested on the charge of stealing a coat from the Jewett's hotel, was again before the police magistrate Monday, and Edmunds failing to appear to prosecute, the case against Morris was dismissed. Col. Marsh also handed him back the overcoat which Morris claims came honestly into his possession in the first instance.

R. F. Macleith of Halifax, who umpired the football game at St. John's stadium, was at the Queen over Sunday and left Monday for Dartmouth to get Mr. McNair, the Presbyterian catechist there to go to Halifax for the football games this week, Dalhousie vs. the Wanderers.

The St. John school question has been settled for the present. The Grammar school boys will remain where they are until the new high school building is erected. This was the determination come to by the school trustees. This means, says the Sun, the dismissal of at least one of the four teachers now on the Grammar school staff.

St. Dunstan's Fair netted a handsome sum—additional prize winners.

The fair in St. Dunstan's hall closed Saturday evening after a very successful week. The different games were carried on during the evening. On the large bagatelle Mrs. M. S. Ryan won the first prize—counters and pins, and a diamond. W. A. Carroll came second, winning a mantle drape. On the parlor bagatelle there were also two prizes, Val. Magee carried off the first one—a handsome table cover, and W. A. Carroll the second, a very pretty table cloth.

Mr. James Farrell auctioned off the articles on the fancy and supper tables after which the winners of the different prizes were announced.

Sergt. Duncan drew the very handsome crayon picture of F. McDewitt, the lucky number being 47.

The proceeds of the fair are for the Orphanage, and will reach in the vicinity of $500.

CROSSLEY AND HUNTER

Continue Their Services in the Baptist and Methodist Churches.

The Men's Meeting Sunday.

A crowded house again greeted Messrs. Crossley and Hunter at the Baptist church Friday night, and the service, as usual, was full of enthusiasm, and at the close more than fifty persons were present at the enquiry room seeking salvation.

One gentleman who was among the first to arise, came all the way from St. John to attend the meeting. He is a doctor, and has not been inside of a church for thirty years, but last night he stood up and acknowledged that he at last has come to the Saviour.

This night the meeting opened by singing of the choir, and Mr. Crossley sang "My Mother's Hymn" and "The Song of Trust." Rev. J. D. Freeman prayed, and Mr. Hunter took for the subject of his address the 32d Psalm, "Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered." When God covers up one's sins what business have we to uncover them. There is but one way of having one's sins covered, and that is by

The Blood of Jesus Christ.

You say, but my sins cannot be covered they are so many, I care not how dark my soul is, I will be a good man, if I only have anything on my mind, it would be a good thing to confess to a true minister of God, or to some friend in whom you have confidence. I do not say that you are to confess all the mean things you have done, but I would be glad to see some of your husbands would be with you, if you did that; but one thing you must do, confess it to God and forsake it. A man in a western city said to me, "I have sinned something; what am I to do, confess it?" Not to me, I replied, but to God.

Pay Back What You Have Taken Dishonestly.

"Thou art my hiding-place." Mr. Hunter made a number of practical suggestions, giving a beautiful illustration of God as a hiding-place, from his own experience. One day his little girl Mabel, walking in the park, saw a man who she thought was a thief, and she hid herself behind a tree. He saw her, and she hid herself behind a tree. He saw her, and she hid herself behind a tree. He saw her, and she hid herself behind a tree.

Run Into the Living Arms of Christ and there will be safe.

As he read in the 34th psalm, verse 7, "The Lord is my strength and my hiding-place, and he will deliver me from all mine enemies." Mr. Hunter said if you are passing down Wellington street, St. Thomas, and look at the glass above the door at No. 113, you will see written in large letters, "Run into the living arms of Christ, and there will be safe." Think of such a joyful run surrounding our homes; who can harm us with God's hosts around us. How is the devil going to get through God's hosts to touch you. Stand in this circle and you are safe as if you were in a citadel. Mr. Hunter gave an impressive illustration of this.

Among a Band of Hostile Indians.

News went through the camp that no fire or light must be struck through the camp, lest the Indians should come down and destroy them. The lady who was accustomed to reading some passage of Scripture every night before retiring, said, "I must have some promise to pillow my head upon." Opening her Bible, she read the following words, "The angel of the Lord encampeth around them that fear him, and delivereth them," and she laid herself down and slept in peace, feeling that she was secure in God's hands. When she awoke, she found that she was in the middle of the street, you fellows who are in the middle of the street, you fellows who are in the middle of the street, you fellows who are in the middle of the street.

He'll be a Mighty Dirty One.

He had been disgusted in this beautiful little city with the condition of the street corners with tobacco juice squirted all over the place. Why should you go into the middle of the street, you fellows who are in the middle of the street, you fellows who are in the middle of the street, you fellows who are in the middle of the street.
