C.N.R. CRACK LINER WITH "PRISON FLEET"

The crack Canadian Northern liner Royal Edward is now in the service of the British admiralty, with the main prison fleet at Southend, England. The commandant, Col. de Cordes, delegates as much authority as possible to the prisoners, who are made up of all classes—businessmen, noblemen, and from the entirely destitute to the millionaires. The Royal Edward to a very large extent, is run by the prisoners themselves, represented by a committee composed of Baron Netelbald, Baron Horst and Richard Heckman.

Much of the work on board ship, such as cleaning, serving tables, making beds and washing clothes, is done by the prisoners themselves. At their request they have been allowed to take over the cooking and the bakery, and draw rations daily from the supply depot. The arrangement works admirably as there is a number of first-class cooks, bakers, waiters and former hotelkeepers on board among the German prisoners.

The service is much better than might be expected under the circumstances. If the Royal Edward were carrying passengers she could not possibly be more epic and span than she is.

Canadians Foresee Market In Russia When War Is Over
Germany's Crippled Markets Will Be Canada's Opportunity.

Those who attended the board of trade meeting in the council chambers of the city council at the city hall Friday night had the pleasure of listening to a very instructive address by F. C. Armstrong, who is an organizer of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, on foreign trade and its possibilities, especially with Russia, at the close of the war.
The war, Mr. Armstrong declared, had swept away German industries, their capital and not only that, but the personnel. He states that one regiment of 2,000 men composed of engineers from one of the large German concerns, had less than 300 men alive at the end of a month.
The whole of the technical leadership of Germany will be gone in this war," said Mr. Armstrong. "It is a loss that Germany cannot make good for many years to come. Her great overseas trade will be gone, severely crippled. For a number of years half of the great purchasing markets of the world will be closed to Germany."
This was Canada's opportunity, said Mr. Armstrong, and he outlined a plan of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, whereby offices would be opened in foreign countries, especially Russia, to keep in close touch with her needs, and to learn the probable market for Canadian goods. Mr. Armstrong stated that Russia would be closely linked to Great Britain, and that pressure could probably be brought to bear by the foreign office on the Russian Government to buy goods made in Canada, in preference to those made in other countries. The capitalization of such a concern would be in the neighborhood of $100,000, and the office would be of unusual importance and value to the Canadian manufacturer.
At the conclusion of Mr. Armstrong's address there was some discussion over the matter, and it was generally agreed that the plan was being greatly in favor of the idea. Chris Fitzgerald, of the Cook-Fitzgerald Shoe Company, moved a vote of thanks, which was seconded by T. P. McCormick, of the McCormick Manufacturing Company.

The communication from the Ottawa Board of Trade re the holding of an exhibition of goods not made in Canada, in order that Canadian manufacturers could get a line on what there was an opening for, was heartily approved, as was also the petition that the London and Western Motor League are sending to the government to bear interchange of auto licenses with the United States.

Mr. Chris Fitzgerald gave an interesting account of the visit of the Western Fair delegates to Ottawa regarding the building of the grandstand that was destroyed by fire earlier in the winter.

Industrial School Now Overcrowded Need New Building
School Teachers Girls Home-Making; Practical Training for the Boys.

The report of the provincial inspector, Dr. McFarlane, on the work of the Industrial Art School, was presented to the advisory industrial committee at its meeting last evening in the Alexandra Schools. The report spoke in the highest terms of the school.
"The school continues to do excellent work," says the inspector. "The special day course offered for girls who have passed the entrance examination is specially adapted to those who do not propose to enter business or prepare themselves for the University or professional examinations. Such a course can be made to give a thorough training in all the activities connected with home-making, and, at the same time, and shows the essential of a good education. It will be beneficial when a very much larger number of girls of the city."
"The day classes for boys provides a training which will be of decided advantage to all boys entering the industries. Considering the importance of these industries in London, and the large number of boys finding employment in them, it is desirable that the attendance should be largely increased."
"The workshops in the basement, with the possible exception of the forge shop, are too small. The classes in these workshops are overcrowded when I inspected the school. The room used for the plumbing class and for the class in electricity is especially unsuitable. It is a small interior room with out direct lighting. Classroom accommodation or the day school is provided in a building that was abandoned as a public school on account of its unsuitability for that purpose."
"If the Government grants are to be continued in this school some assurance should be given that steps will be taken in the near future to provide more suitable accommodations."
The Minister of Education has asked for a report from the board of education as to what steps are being taken towards supplying satisfactory accommodations for the school, and he has promised to return the report to him before the end of March.

PETITION TO CLOSE BARS DURING WAR
Askin Street Church Has 300 Names in Two Weeks—England Needs Grain.

More than 300 names have been signed to a petition started two weeks ago by the Temperance and Moral Reform Association of the Askin Street Methodist Church, asking the Provincial Legislature to close all bars and shops selling liquor, as a war measure, during the present war.
In line with the work of the petitioners, Rev. W. H. Harvey, pastor of the Askin Street Church, at a recent meeting, introduced the following resolutions, which were unanimously carried by a large audience.
"While hundreds of thousands of people in Belgium, Poland, Galicia and Syria, are on the verge of starvation and many have already actually died for want of food, and while the problem of the unemployed is becoming daily more grave in this country, the folly of destroying millions of bushels of grain and potatoes to make intoxicating liquors without food value, becomes more and more apparent.
"Food supplies should be a large factor in determining the outcome of this war. Canada ought to succor the Mother Country to the limit of her resources in food supplies."
It was resolved that the Government be asked to suspend the manufacture of all intoxicants and to cut off all licenses until after the war.
The speaker called upon all patriotic citizens to abstain entirely from the use of alcoholic liquors and to lend their influence to the movement begun by the church.

PAARDEBURG CELEBRATED IN THE LOCAL ARMORIES
Men Thoroughly Enjoyed Themselves—Great Enthusiasm.

The anniversary of the battle of Paardeburg, at which the Canadian troops so magnificently distinguished themselves, was celebrated last night by the sergeants of the London garrison at a smoking-concert, held in the sergeants' mess of the 7th Fusiliers. The proceedings were quite informal, and the various items on the program could not have been described as classic in the sense that a high-class concert singer would use the term, but the enthusiasm was unbounded, and the men thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

which fact, apart from all other considerations, was sufficient to make the occasion deserving of the description "eminently successful."
The musical numbers were almost without exception either of the comic or patriotic persuasion, and the latter especially were popular, the audience joining in the choruses with such good will that passers-by must have wondered what all the noise was about. Of course, "Tipperary" was sung, and equally, of course, it was the hit of the evening.
The mess-room was decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting, Union

Jacks, naturally, predominating. The hosts, the Garrison Sergeants' Association had "gone the limit" in providing for the enjoyment and comfort of their guests. Corned pipes and tobacco were provided for those who wished to smoke, and a goodly supply of "cats"—and drinks—also was on hand.
Unfortunately, a number of the sergeants invited were unable to be present, being on duty. All those who were able to attend did attend, and altogether the evening was one of the most successful in the history of the Garrison Sergeants' Association.
