The construction of the branch line to Beecher Bay, thus giving connection with the American railway system, the opening of the Comox coal fields, the building of extensive saw-mills at Esquimalt, and the establishmet of other industries will tend to rapidly enhance the value of our trade. That we are a wealthy community is an established fact, that we possess shrewd and energetic business men is true, that there are greater substantial improvements being made this year than in any preceeding is also a fact. There are many lines of business that will be opened up in the course of the immediate future in fishing and manufacturing. In the light of the figures quoted below, and looking ahead at the assured prosperity that is soon to be realized, where is the ground for regarding with any degree of trepidation the progress of any other section of the prevince. In their advancement Victoria will share, and by utilizing the means that are within our grasp for advancing our own interests, we need have no fear that we shall retrograde into a summer resort or a fishing village, as some of our competitors are silly enough at times to predict.

VICTORIA CITIZEN'S DUTIES.

An Eloquent Discourse in St. Andrew's Churc

—The City's Advantages—The Need of Energy on the Part of its People

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Courtney Street, last evening, Rev. P. McF. McLeod delivered an eloquent and impressive sermon upon the responsi-bilities of Victoria's citizens, their duty to themselves and their children, and th means to be adopted to reap the full benefit of the manifold advantages Providence has placed at their disposal. The rev. gentleman took his text from Ezekiel, chap. 48, verse 35, "And the name of the from that day shall be. The Lord is He said it is in the cities of the world we are to look for the greatest evicongregates together in large numbers we find him accomplishing his greatest feats and meeting his greatest defeats. An old proverb says God made the country and man made the towns; but if we looked at and meeting his greatest defeats. An old proverb says God made the country and man made the towns; but if we looked at the matter in the right way we would be forced to admit that it was God built the cities, and it was He who had regard for the true welfare of the people, as without His assistance man's efforts would all be in vain. Here, in Victoria, Almighty God had done great things for us as a people. We should in justice speak of our city as a place of surpassing beauty; feasting our eyes on the glorious scenery with which we are surrounded we see on all sides evidence of God's handiwork. The which we are surrounded we see on all sides evidence of God's handiwork. The mountains, forests, streams, rivers, valleys, glades, sylvan nocks, all speak of God's goodness, and should always make us think well of our city and the unsurpassing beauty of its situation. The revented leading of the statement of the use of God's goodness, and compared it to other places, instancing Toronto, where thelpeat is at present so oppressive that the churches have to be dismissed earlier than usual. Our geographical position was also cause for congratulation; the province was the key to the eastern world, and is now the easiest and most direct route to China and Japan. These were but a few of the things God has done for us, and what has man done in comparison? He (Mr. McLeod) had visited many cities and countries but had never seen a place with so many natural advantages where the people have done so little for themselves. He referred to the many unsughtly and dangerous tumble-down shanties and broken and dilapidated fences around the city, even private residences in some places being allowed to go to ruin for want

Distribution of Indian Tribes.

Some of the few exceptions to the general rule of distribution are exceedingly interesting and throw a light upon the unwritten and even forgotten history of some of the tribes. For instance: A little colony of the great Siouan family is found in Virginia. How it became separated, crossed the mountains and maintained itself in the midst of another family speaking an entirely different language suggests a yery interesting topic for the study of the ethnologist.

Again, all the northwestern part of the continent was occupied by the Athabascan family, very peaceable Indians. But the Apaches and Navajos of New Mexico and Arisona belong to the same family, and are among the most warlike on the continent. To their surroundings and the necessity of wresting their new home from its previous occupants and holding it, as well as to the inhospitable character of the country, may not their change of character be attributed! Another little tribe of the Athabascans is found in California. One of the most degraded families of Indians of North America is the Shoshonean, of which the Diggers are a heauch. The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Empire says: The marine department has been trying to secure a service able steam yeasel as a revenue cutter in British Columbia waters, but the tenders sent in do not indicate a vessel of the class required. Under the circumstances Capt.

McElhenny, the agent of the department, now in Glasgow, has been requested to see if he can procure in Scotland a suitable vessel. The cutter is to be about 75 feet long, breadth 14 feet, and depth 7 feet, capable of steaming seven knots an hour. If Capt. McElhenny is successful the cutter will be brought out in sections in the new steamer now building for the P. E. I. service.
