LOCAL DEATH ROLL

MRS. DAVID RING
We are under the sad necessity of chronicling the death of Mrs. David Ring at Round Hill, just after midnight on Monday, the 29th day of August. After a severe attack of influenza last autumn at her husband's home at Haverhill, Mass., it was deemed advisable for her to return to her native land for the purpose of recruiting her health, so last December she journeyed to Round Hill accompanied by her little daughter Louise. At one time it seemed likely that she would recover, but unfortunately the great white plague claimed her as a victim, and ultimately she succumbed to this dread disease. She was a young woman of a cherry disposition, pleasant manner and with an optimistic outlook on life. Sixteen years ago she united with the Baptist Church, and endeavored to live up to her profession. The funeral service, which was conducted by the pastor of the Baptist Church, Annapolis Royal, was held on Wednesday, the 21st, which happened to be the eighth anniversary of her wedding day. Prayers were first offered at her parents' home, and then the relatives and friends proceeded to the Round Hill Baptist Church, where Mr. Gibson preached a sermon from a text taken from that chapter in "Hebrews" which gives us a list of the Saints, and the heroes of faith and the worthies of the old dispensation. The words of the text were: "He Being Dead Yet Speaketh." Much sympathy is extended to the husband and daughter, to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Simmons, and to her two brothers and two sisters who are left to mourn the loss of one who was taken from them at the comparatively early age of thirty years. The whole community unite in extending their sympathy to those over whom the dark cloud of bereavement has come.

MARY REBECCA MARSHALL
The funeral took place on Monday, September 5th, at Hamilton, Ont., of Mary Rebecca, wife of Geo. Newcomb Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb Marshall lived nearly all their lives in Annapolis County and over fifty years on the old homestead in Clarence West, "Maple Shade" farm, now occupied by Atherton Marshall, a son. About nine years ago they went to Hamilton, Ont., to live with Havelock, another son. They are well known in Bridgetown and vicinity.
Mrs. Marshall was born February 4th, 1835, being eighty-six years and seven months old. She was the last of a large family of whom she was also the eldest. She was a member of the Bridgetown Baptist Church until their removal to Hamilton, transferring to the Wentworth street Baptist Church of that city.
Mrs. Marshall leaves behind, a husband, six sons and one daughter, viz: Melbourne, of Stoughton, Mass.; Ford, of Hamilton, Ont.; Frank, of Halifax, N.S.; Atherton on the old homestead, Rev. (Dr.) A. N., of Ottawa, and Havelock, of Hamilton, Ont. The daughter being Mrs. John Wilkinson, of Port Nelson, Ont.
Mrs. Marshall was a remarkably devoted wife and mother and consistent Christian. She was especially beloved by all the members of her own family and by all who became acquainted with her. Her remains were interred in the Hamilton cemetery. She has gone to be with Jesus whom she loved.

She was a member of the Bridgetown Baptist Church, always led a consistent Christian life, and all through her illness, including two trips to a Halifax hospital for special treatment, she remained in cheerful spirits and was never known to complain, always expressing thankfulness to all who attended her. Besides her mother and her grief-stricken husband she leaves two brothers, Norman Hardy, of Annapolis Royal, and Ashton, of Brookfield; and two sisters, Mrs. L. A. Crooker, of Brookfield, and Mrs. C. E. Larabee, of Leominster, Mass. After a short service at the home Saturday morning by Rev. Clyde W. Robbins, the remains were conveyed to the east bound D.A.R. express, en route to Brookfield, Queen's county, for interment. The Canadian National train was held at Milton to make connections with the D.A.R. FIVE-TOED ROOSTER GETS INTOXICATED
White Plains, N.Y., Sept. 8.—Bill, a five-toed Chinese rooster belonging to Warden Hill, of the Westchester county jail, has been drunk twenty-four hours.
Bill hopped into jail five weeks ago, made it his legal residence and until yesterday, was as nice a bird as Mr. Volstead could have wished. But the warden emptied in the jail yard five kegs of confiscated liquor and Bill forgot himself. He lies under a bush sleeping off his debauch and fluttering his wings in feeble protest whenever water is offered him.

VICE AS PLENTIFUL IN COUNTRY AS CITIES
Vice is just as easy to find in the country as it is in the city, and it costs less. More girls have been ruined by a gallon of gasoline than by a quart of champagne. The driver ranks with the saloon as an agency for the corruption of morals, and the country lane provides a primrose path that rivals the bright lights of the metropolis.
