From Peace River.

W. H. Carson arrived from Peace river yesterday. He was fourteen days in travelling from Peace River crossing. He met between fifty and sixty teams loaded with freight for Lesser Slave Lake, between the Landing and Slave Lake, and twenty-five or thirty between the lake and Peace river. Mr. Carson operates a small steam flour mill at Peace River Crossing, and grinds the wheat of the settlement, which amounted last season to about 6,000 bushels. The sample was excellent, but the wheat is inclined to become starchy if not blue-stoned. There was a good crop of oats about some 4,000 bushels, and a little barley as well. Mr. Carson met W. Latimer on his way to Peace river to prospect and settle, and he also met J. Grant's teams near the Landing. Weather this winter has been much the same on Peace river as at Edmonton. The late cold snap was felt at Lesser Slave lake, where the thermometer went down to 42 below. Snow has been about the same depth at Peace river as at Edmonton, all winter, but it is somewhat deeper from the lake to the Landing than it is this side of the Landing—Edmonton Bulletin.

To Regulate Outdoor Advertising.

The abuses connected with public advertising by means of signs and posters placed with little or no regard to private rights or to their esthetic effect is beginning to arouse no little protest in this country, as it has for some time past abroad. The subject has just been taken up in a vigorous manner by the American Park and Outdoor Art Association through the president, Mr. Clinton Rogers Woodruff (North American Builder, Philadelphia). Mr. Woodruff issued a circular urging that cities and towns "to adopt ordinances imposing fines for advertising signs on billboards, graph, telephone and street car poles, trees, and tree boxes." The association has also prepared a bill for introduction into state legislatures, prohibiting advertising signs on public buildings and grounds except as received by law, and also prohibiting such advertising on private property without first obtaining the written consent of the owner of the property so used. The move is certainly a most commendable one.

American Shoes.

The importation of American shoes, largely due to the improved financial situation in this country, seems to have reached a turning point. One of the largest jobbing houses in the West stated this week that it had been compelled to drop three well known lines of American footwear through a lack of demand, and that the profits had to be cut to meet Canadian competition. This firm has been pushing one of these lines very strongly for the past three or four seasons, and now it claims it has secured a Canadian made shoe to replace the foreign article at a lower figure, giving quite as good satisfaction. Retailers who have been experimenting with American lines are finding that they too can make more money out of Canadian shoes, and many of them are insisting on Canadian makers having their names off the goods so that they may not be restricted in their sale. The total imports for 1902 amounted to less than $500,000, whereas it was predicted a year ago the volume would reach nearly a million dollars.—Canadian Shoe and Leather Journal.
