

I have suggested and that, in the meantime, member states would make every effort to meet the obligations of this and past years so that, in September, we do not need to be faced with a renewed financial crisis but an atmosphere of calm, so that we can take the sort of sound and long range decisions that the present situation in the United Nations requires.

