

At present, the Royal Canadian Navy has only 16 vessels in operation, consisting of six destroyers, five minesweepers and other small vessels.

MINESWEEPERS

Country	Vessel Name	Type
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper

MINESWEEPERS

Country	Vessel Name	Type
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper
U.S.A.	Albatross	Minesweeper

- 1 Motor Vessel (East Coast) (H.M.C.S. Eskimau)
  - 1 Training Schooner (at Halifax) (H.M.C.S. Ventnor)
  - 1 Auxiliary Ketch for training of R.C.N.V. (at Montreal)
- H.M.C.S. Glenora
- 2 Gun vessels (in reserve at Halifax) (H.M.C.S. Labrador and H.M.C.S. Yarn)

The Royal Canadian Navy now operates some 500 vessels of the following types: destroyers, cruisers, auxiliary cruisers, minesweepers, patrol vessels and small craft fitted for the many duties of modern sea warfare.

Although primarily a navy of small craft destined for coastal protection, the R.C.N. is building up a destroyer fleet which will be normally commensurate to the offensive power of the