

governments meet in the immediate future to examine the implications of the project for the USA. The meeting could provide a useful forum for an exchange of information on the project, allow USA technicians to indicate and further explore areas of particular concern to the USA and help assure that the project will be in consonance with mutual obligations of both countries.