

The chairs, which this evening represents to some extent the seating accommodation, were also provided for our use by the kindness of the same Church. I have no doubt this liberality on their part is fully appreciated. It has relieved my mind of a considerable burden, and I think it has relieved other burdens besides.

The claims of the French Evangelization Society of our Church has been from time to time brought before the notice of the teachers by means of circulars issued by the Board. There is a great demand for admittance to the Pointe aux Trembles Schools, but there are no funds to meet the expense. Having been relieved from these other expenses, I submit to you, what has been submitted to me as having come from a wealthy member of this community, that the people of Petite Cote subscribe amongst themselves sufficient to pay for the education of at least one pupil in that excellent institution.

We have also before closing to record the loss our School has sustained in the removal from the district of two of our most valued and trusty friends, gone in company—in short married; an event so uncommon in this district as to be well worthy of all the notice we can give regarding it. The young couple have our heartfelt wishes for their long life and unclouded happiness.
