DOMINION COLLIERIES

SOCIETY REORGANIZES

Halifax, July 8.—A meeting of representatives of the relief societies in the collieries and officials of the Dominion Coal Company, took place at Glace Bay yesterday and the societies were formally reorganized under the name of the "Dominion Coal Company Employees' Relief Society."

Mr. J. Butler, general manager, presided at the meeting, which was held at the company's general office. Officers were appointed for the year and other business transacted.

Mr. Butler remarked that this was an occasion when the workmen and the company met on common ground, and he felt that the present occasion was the beginning of a new era in the relations of the company and the men which could not but result in the general good of all concerned.

Division No. 1, A. O. H., has decided to run an excursion to Sydney (C. B.), during the Liberator's convention there early in August.

Special Notice

Banking does not cure children of bed-wetting. The only constitutional cure is this trouble. Mrs. J. J. Williams, 28 Windsor, Ont., will not free her mother her successful home treatment with full instructions. For the money, just write her to-day if your children are in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help. This treatment also cures adults aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

The young man—"Gracie, what is it your father sees in me to object to, darling?"

The young woman (wiping away a tear)—"He doesn't see anything in me, Algeon, that's why he objects."

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By RUTH CAMERON

"BABYLOGY" is the newest subject to be introduced into the public schools.

Philadelphia is the mother of this innovation.

Medical instructors, assisted by trained nurses, are showing the girls how to dress a baby, how to prepare its food and bottle, and how to bathe it.

Three cheers for Philadelphia. I believe it is usually customary to make fun of her, but this time she certainly doesn't deserve it.

Can you think of anything more thoroughly sane than that idea?

I do not think that should be allowed to crowd out the teaching of specific subjects that have a definite bearing on the children's lives, as much as it has in past years.

It seems to me that the very best way the poorer classes can be taught to make the most of what they have, and be put into a position to have more, is by giving their children industrial and home-making courses in the public schools rather than by settlement work and philanthropy.

These things have their place of course, but they merely water the branches, while the school training goes straight to the root.

I think this course in babylogy ought to be instituted in the schools of every large city of the land and I think it ought to be supplemented by many more scientific home-making courses.

In Boston a group of young society girls, made up of the graduates from a domestic science school, have formed themselves into a club called the "Boston Homemaking Club." Their purpose is to translate what they have learned into its simplest terms and "pass it on" by means of settlement work and the education of people whom they feel need it so much.

One course is in food values. Could anything be sadder than to see the people money ignorantly buying the least nutritious foods as they usually do.

The death roll of those in the slums, the primary cause of whose death is simply improper nourishment, is enormous. If these things were how much better off would the people be? Not only would the death roll be enormously reduced, but the industrial value of others who, although they do not actually die, are arrayed on the verge of usefulness because of improper nourishment, would be vastly increased.

Think how much industrial training along these lines would do to help the next generation. No, that does not solve today's problem, but in addition to the task of beautifying the ugly spots of today, I think we have also the duty of planting shade trees for the next generation.

Another is in tasteless house furnishing. The girls hope to show how a home may be attractively furnished by thoughtfully and tastefully expending no larger sum than the settlement work requires to "furnish complete" in all the horrors of stuffed furniture and gilded framed chronos.

I wish that all these courses and several more along the same lines might be instituted in the public schools of every city in the land.

Don't you think that the advisability and the possibility of putting some such new blood into the curriculum of the schools of this city might be a good thing to discuss in your club?

DAILY HINTS FOR THE COOK

PLANKED STEAK.

Nearly all steaking boards are now fitted out with steel rods or bars to hold the steak in place and grooves for the conservation of the gravy. Before using, heat the board very hot, lay the steak on and fasten into place. Brush over with olive oil or melted butter, dust with salt and pepper, and lay the plank in the broiler chamber of a gas range for at least 15 minutes. Some cooks prefer to lightly broil one side of a steak before fastening to the plank. While the steak is cooking press fresh boiled potatoes through a ricer, season with salt and pepper, add a little butter and hot cream and beat until very light. Have ready some onions boiled in milk, some of which of boiled cauliflower, celery or other vegetables prepared. When the steak is nearly done take the plank from the oven, put the potatoes into a pastry bag and force through the tube rose fashion at regular intervals along the edge of the steak on the board. Between the potato roses make little mounds of cauliflower, mushrooms, mounds of spinach or onions. Return to the oven and allow them to brown delicately. Garnish with cream and the steak to the table on the plank, setting it on a large platter.

STRAWBERRY PIE.

Line a deep pie with a rich bladed dough one-half inch thick and bake; then spread while hot with butter and fill heaping full with ripe, whole strawberries, well sugared. Whip to a froth the whites of three eggs and spread on top. Put in the oven and bake until the cream is cooking brown. This can be served on the table and is attractive and delicious.

STRAWBERRY TAROCCA PUDDING.

One cup of tarooca, 1 quart of boiling water. Cook until soft, stirring often. Drain, add 1/2 cup of sugar, 1/2 cup of strawberries, 1/2 cup of cream. Serve cold with cream.

THE HISTORY OF H. P. LITTLE ONES ALL

On the Centennial grounds the ladies of the committee were present and the exercises included the "Good Morning" songs in a charming and in kindergarten work. The members of the committee present were Miss Mabel Peters, the convenor; Dr. Margaret Parks, and Mrs. D. P. Chisholm.

A large crowd of children gathered in Richmond street in front of the play ground, eagerly waiting for the opening and the throughs have been continuous since. The longest attendance was on Tuesday last, when there were more than 300 present.

Much to Amuse

Here there are the swings, swing chairs, basket ball, croquet, chess, the chess, and bin and blocks. There is the kindergarten occupation tent where Miss Bertha Turner is in charge. Here are taught raft work, crocheting and sewing. It is hoped to have an organization of boys and girls to act as helpers. They will be picked from the older ones and will wear badges and will have charge of the swings and other amusements to the end that every one shall have the benefit of the amusements.

There will also be a flower day every Tuesday, when Miss Edna Astin will be in charge and the plan is to give each child a bouquet as he or she leaves the grounds for the day. In the convention donations of flowers would be gratefully received by those in charge of the grounds. It is also planned to have flag drills. The hours on these grounds are from 10 to 12 and from 2 to 5.30.

The grounds have been visited by many of the parents and not a few strangers. With reference to the ages of the children it is stated that they ranged from infants in baby carriages to boys and girls fifteen or seventeen years old. The tiny ones can nicely put in a day in the sand bins with shovel and tin pail, while the older ones can take to the other amusements.

In Fitchburg, Mass., a city but little smaller than St. John, they opened formally five play grounds on the first of the month. There, George S. Maxwell, who is physical instructor in the New Glasgow Y. M. C. A., in the winter months is the supervisor of play grounds and he has eight assistants, five young men and three young women.

A SUSTAINING DIET

These are the evening news, when, as somebody has said, men are up by the sunstroke as if the Day of Fire had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are wholly sustained, and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of the Sarasopis is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic—say, a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.

The habit of biting the lips, especially the habit of biting off detached portions of the skin is ruinous to their beauty, in color and texture, and may even cause troublesome and sometimes incurable eruptions.

It is easier to make an enemy than it is to shake him.

CAMP WAS GOOD ONE THIS YEAR

duty. A great many men were cared for by the lads of both No. 8 and No. 9 Field Ambulance Corps in their hospitals, the lads and lads being numerous and varied. It was with regret that the men of Nos. 8 and 9 were called upon to aid in the care of one of their comrades in the infantry, who went to his last sleep, a feature of the 1910 camp long to be remembered on account of its sad and its tragic nature. This sorrowful incident—the drowning of private Fred Lovejoy of the 6th regiment—was an event which plunged the encampment into grief and was the most regrettable feature of the days spent under canvas.

Good Order Prevailed

It is exceedingly gratifying that in such a large encampment of soldiers from all parts of New Brunswick, there was extremely little indeed, it is questionable if there was any—disorderly conduct amongst them, and that, although more than a score of recruits were placed in the guard tent for a time, the offences were not at all serious, being no more than slight violations of dress orders. There was very little liquor on the grounds during the camping season, and only a few men under its influence were seen. Another praiseworthy feature was the absence of refuse and garbage from about the encampment, due to the careful supervision of the sanitary conditions in the field, which were attended to with excellent systematic order. Garbage barrels and incinerators were in different corners of the big campus, and were filled and emptied several times daily. In this way the grounds were kept in a clean condition, which assisted materially in the prevention of disease.

Weather Men Usually Kindly

Up to yesterday no complaints could be made against the treatment of the weather men to the soldiers, as clear fine weather prevailed throughout the camp until the most important day, Friday, arrived and was ushered in with a steady downpour of rain which continued for the remainder of the day. The rain was a keen disappointment when the rain began to fall. With the exception of field day, it is generally stated that the camp of 1910 was eminently successful in every detail, and in all branches of the service. Many innovations were introduced this year, in addition to the systematic sanitary orders. The establishment of a post office by the government proved very successful and was capably attended to by Joseph Crowley and Chas. Magee. Enormous quantities of mail were sent from and received at camp every day, and these two officials were kept busy in sorting, distributing, collecting and in other ways seeing that the men's letters were delivered correctly and promptly.

The work of catering to the wants of the defenders of our country, was left in the hands of the Army Service Corps and in their new shed situated near the succession to the Earl of Minto was officially announced on June 10, has been elevated to the peerage.

NEW VICEROY IS RAISED TO PEERAGE

London, July 8.—Sir Charles Havelock, whose appointment as Viceroy of India in the succession to the Earl of Minto was officially announced on June 10, has been elevated to the peerage.

HATTIE LOBLANC'S SISTER A BRIDE

Gloucester, July 7.—Irene La Blane, sister of Hattie La Blane, who is held in the East Cambridge jail awaiting trial for the murder of Clarence P. Glover, was united in marriage on Wednesday night to Joseph Langley, of this city. The bride is eighteen years of age.

The license for the ceremony, the marriage being a surprise to all but intimate friends, was taken out at City Hall. The bride's age was given as eighteen and the groom's as twenty-three. With her sister Hattie since the arrest of her sister Hattie, Irene La Blane has been doing washing ironing and housework to earn money to assist the accused girl.

We none of us eat as much fruit as we should and if grapes and apples were always substituted for heavy puddings, pies and French pastries most of the beauty culturists would have to retire from business. While drinking these juices, of course, so much water could not and need not be taken.

There is no idle rich in this big country of ours—no "leisure class"—no dawdlers. It is asked of every man "what are you doing?"

Life has a meaning. Men are up and dressed betimes—and shaved.

The Gillette Safety Razor is a symbol of the age—it is the most democratic thing in the world.

The rich man is not shaved in bed by his valet, as he was a generation ago. He uses a GILLETTE and shaves himself in three minutes.

The man who wants to be a rich man, knows the value of appearances.

He uses the GILLETTE and goes to work feeling his best and looking his best. Buy a GILLETTE and get the Gillette face.
