THE FORWARD MOVEMENT

The Moncton board of trade has subscribed $1,000 to establish a commercial orchard. Following the action by the St. John board, this will give a further impetus to the development of the orchard industry throughout the province. People are beginning to "talk apples," to some purpose.

There are other cheerful signs. The Woodstock board of trade wants the town and country council to erect a road back to aid in advertising Carleton county, and securing a good class of immigrants. The Fredericton board of trade asks for similar action in York county. The St. John board of trade and town council have set out upon a campaign of their own for a like purpose.

Other examples might be cited to show how thoroughly the province is waking up to a sense of its opportunities for growth and development. While there may fairly be a friendly rivalry between localities in the race of progress, there should also be the most hearty co-operation. Joint action must be taken to formulate general plans, and to urge upon the provincial government the fullest recognition of its share in the general forward movement. Having before it the example of towns and counties, the government cannot do otherwise than take an active part, and the provincial congress to be held in St. John should bring together representatives of all parts of the province, to discuss plans and outline a general course of government action. With federal and provincial aid in a general scheme the various districts can the more successfully carry out their own plans of local development.

The North Shore Leader says: "The advantages of Newcastle and the Miramichi will be shown to capitalists through the medium of an attractive brochure. This was the decision arrived at by the Newcastle Board of Trade on Tuesday evening. A great deal of optimism was shown throughout the session which was one of the largest ever held by the board."

TECHNICAL SCHOOLS

The citizens of Ottawa realize the value of technical education, and will make increased provision for it in connection with the public school system of the city. The Journal says that it is likely the sum of $30,000 will be spent for the near future by the public school board to erect an addition to the building now used as a technical school. The new structure will be three stories high, will have a gymnasium, lecture room and twelve class rooms, will have the latest appliances for a technical course, and will accommodate five or six hundred pupils.

While reading of what is done in other cities to provide technical instruction for children, one is reminded that St. John makes no such provision. Beyond an occasional sporadic expression of belief that technical instruction should be given, there is no evidence that the citizens realize its value. Perhaps this is to some extent due to the fact that the city has incurred considerable expense in providing an excellent series of school buildings. And yet, a city might have splendid school buildings, and fail to give its children the kind of education most desirable. We are approaching the time when due provision must be made in St. John for technical instruction. There was talk of night schools, but they have not been opened. In order to equip very many of the children of today for a successful career it is necessary to give them technical instruction.

The combines are safe. There will be nothing to trouble them this year. The Borden government is thinking of other matters.

The last week has developed further strength in the position of real estate in St. John, and brought further proof that outside investors are looking this way.

The Conservatives of South Renfrew have broken faith with the Liberals and will oppose the election of Hon. George F. Graham. Mr. Graham does not want any more critics in the house.

There is a marked evidence of the spread of the spirit of optimism in New Brunswick in the tone and contents of the daily and weekly newspapers of the province. The Times sheds in its New Brunswick exchanges a tone quite different from that of a few years ago. This is a very healthy and hopeful sign.

An Ottawa despatch to the Telegraph says it is probable the $1,000,000 for St. John harbor will be divided between the west side dredging and wharf building and the beginning of work at Courtenay Bay, and that it is expected the contract for the Courtenay Bay works will soon be signed. An authoritative announcement to this effect would give great satisfaction to all parties in this city.

The Fredericton board of trade will urge the city council to advertise the city as a good location for factories, a desirable place of residence, and a city that has a very bright outlook. That's business.

The Simms factory and the big paper mill will be of enormous benefit to Fairville. What is the present situation concerning the new bridge, on which Hon. Mr. Maxwell expects work to be begun early in the spring?

The city and municipal councils should take a hand in this matter of street railway extension. Whatever difficulties are in the way of that extension should be removed, or the responsibility so fixed that every citizen may know where the blame lies.

A Montreal paper announces that Sir Rodolphe Forget has promised fifty thousand dollars to Notre Dame Hospital. If the same amount is collected from other friends of the institution, and a hundred thousand dollars in ninety subscriptions of five thousand dollars each are secured, Montreal has many liberal supporters of its public institutions.

"The minister of labor," said Hon. Mr. Ouchterlony in parliament yesterday, "has no intention of bringing down legislation this session concerning combines or anything else." Before the new government got into power there was great and urgent need of reform in all departments, and of a progressive policy. Now that the ministerial salaries and patronage are secure, the need of reform is no longer recognized.

We are told by the Standard that Mr. Hazen asked Mr. Emmerson fore and aft yesterday. Not long ago he reduced Dr. Pugsley to splinters. What a terror Mr. Hazen has become since he went to Ottawa. Nobody who knew him at Fredericton would ever have believed him capable of such slaughter. Obviously enough, both Dr. Pugsley and Mr. Emmerson are quite cheerful over the situation. Perhaps they do not know when they are demolished by this new political giant.

Improvement in Strike Situation

The strike record of the Canadian labor department shows that there were only eight trade disputes in existence during December, being six less than in November and two less than in December, 1910. About ten firms and slightly more than 1400 employees were involved. The loss in working days amounted approximately to 40,000. The new disputes of the month were of only slight importance. There were only four disputes unsettled at the close of the year.

GOOD NIGHT

(By J. M. Atwood)

The bird has sought its nest,
The weary worker seeks his rest—
For finished is his daily round,
The shadows of the night close down,
The lights shine out from every home—
The children now no longer roam.

For now 'tis time to sleep,
The stars gleam through the ether blue,
And make me think of love and you,
Our eyelids feel the sleepy strain,
And night is welcomed once again—
With happy dreams for treasure trove—
For now 'tis time to sleep.

Good night, Old World, you've used me well,
Now Night has come with magic spell,
I thank Thee for the rest to be,
When sleep shall set my spirit free,
That through the portals of the night,
I safely pass to morning light—
For now 'tis time to sleep.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

PAT'S REPLY.

The other day a gentleman had occasion to go on board one of the American liners at Southampton to see the first mate, a stranger to him. Upon stepping over the gangway the first mate met him, and said, "Say, I'm an Irishman, by the way."

"Say," said the gentleman, "are you the mate?" "No," said Pat, "I'm the man that cooks the mate."

AN HONEST HIGHLANDER

'Twas the grouse shooting season. An English gentleman in the North of Scotland took a notion to attend the service at the village kirk. On arriving at the door he was met by a big honest Highlander. "Can I go in?" asked the visitor. "Well, ay," replied the native, "if I'd be gey gied tae gie ye a seat, but the empty yans are a' full."
