EAT FOR HEALTH'S SAKE.
AFTER completing her studies in first aid Mrs. Mann of Anytown decided that she would study foods for health's sake.
There were three youngsters in Mrs. Mann's family and a large part of the family income was spent for food.
Thus if she could find the most economical and wholesome foods for health she would be doing her husband and her family a real service, Mrs. Mann thought.
Colds, headaches, backaches, nervous exhaustion, irritability, and that "all in" feeling, are more often caused by improper diet than any other one thing, Mrs. Mann's doctor had told her.
"Many folks depend upon medicine to cure them of these ills," he said. "Medicine is good, but it is much better to prevent illness by taking care of the body than to cure after the illness has taken hold," he added.

"An ounce of prevention is a pound of cure. Let your motto be: 'Eat for Health's Sake.'"

A CAKE HINT.
Cake should never be placed under any cover until they are absolutely cold.

KEEP IN CLOSED TUN.
Biscuits, gingerbreads and cookies will keep perfectly crisp if you keep them in a closed tin.

Adventures of the Twins

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.
THE MAGIC SQUEAKS.

"Yes," said Mrs. Bear. "I want to buy a pair of shoes for my son Buster to wear to the party, with nice loud squeaks in them."
She didn't say that all the meadow-people and woods-people and everybody that was going to Mrs. Bunny's surprise party had only invited Buster on condition that he wear very squeaky shoes and leave the rest of his family at home.
But it was a fact. That is what they had said—for they had decided that the little fat bear boy could do no sneaking, and that he must wear shoes that would make a noise as loud as a bell.
Mister Peg Leg looked at the Twins in a worried tone of voice. "I mean in a worried manner. Squeaky shoes! He hadn't such a thing. They were as much out of fashion as buggy whips.
But suddenly he heard a sound out in the woods and he began to grin like a Jack-o'-Lantern. "Yes, oh yes indeed, ma'am," said he quickly. "I certainly have a fine pair of squeaky shoes. The very finest pair of shoes outside of a squeak factory."
Nancy and Nick looked at each other in surprise. They knew very well that them away up into the toes of the second shoes where they wouldn't get squeezed too much.

The second pair were just right. "Now walk in them," said Mrs. Bear proudly.
So Buster walked across the room and at every step the crickets chirped out. "Ouch-ouch—ouch—ouch!" Although they weren't really hurt a bit. Only scared.
"If you take them off they will stop squeaking," said Mister Peg Leg. "So keep them on till you come home from the party."
"I will," promised Buster Bear.
So he went to the party and had a good time and Peg Leg got enough money to buy a new pig leg.

STRAWS MAY HELP.

Keep a supply of soda fountain straws in your cupboard. Often when children dislike to drink milk they may be induced to take it if they get it through a straw like a fancier drink.

LARGE HAT FOR SUMMER.
The very large hat of horsehair braid in pasted colors, with a large rose of a slightly darker shade on the under brim, is to be very smart for mid-summer.

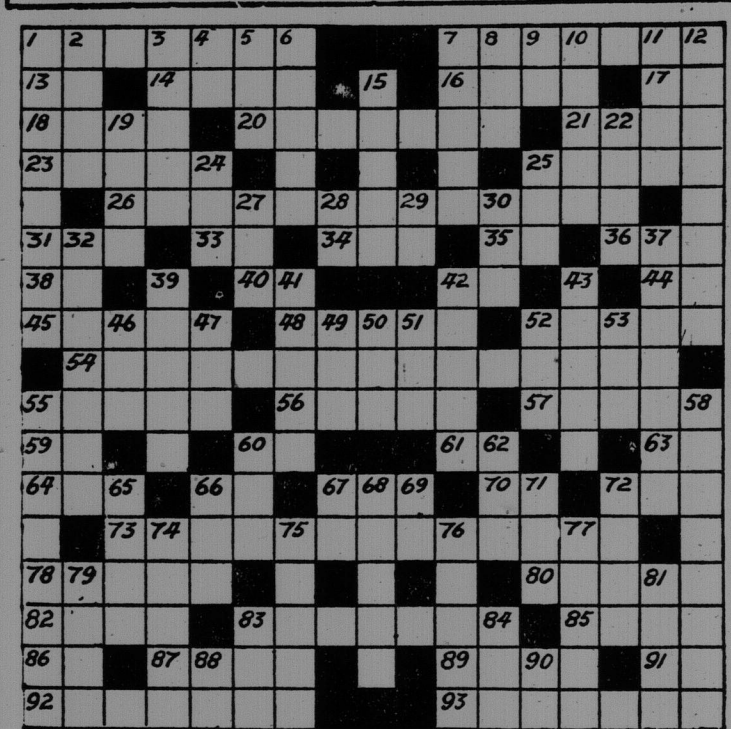

BAKE SQUASH.
Bake winter squash in the shell instead of trying to stew it.

New Style For Unbobbed

MILLINERS seem to give consideration to the bobbed head exclusively, but hairdressers occasionally have a thought for the woman with long hair. This is one of the most charming new styles, with the hair wound over the head in a very loose braid. And here's a tip. These braids are detachable and may be worn by the bobbed-haired miss herself when she wishes to have a certain pictorial quality that is impossible with short hair. It is particularly liked as a style for evening.

The Bread
For Bean Night

Shut your eyes over one bite of Robinson Brown Bread and try to remember if you've ever tasted the like. You never did.
That golden Brown richness lives up to its looks. It has body, it has lightness, it has the full Graham flavor. How you love to chew it! You find yourself chewing Robinson Brown Bread more than any other—you just hate to stop.

With Saturday night Beans it seems made to order. During Lent especially many have it every day. And the doctors declare it's fine for the digestive system—the Graham Flour and Bran have a lot to do with that, while the molasses holds vital minerals and heaps of energy.
Just have your grocer give you

Heading Off a Touch.
Sponger—"I suppose, old man, you've laid something aside for a rainy day."
Smart—"Yes, but it's for my rainy day, not yours."

Size Helped Reputation.
"George Washington, they say, never lied."
"Maybe not. Anyhow, George was such a good fighter I'll bet nobody had the nerve to tell him he did."

A Lady of Experience.
"I can't see," he said, "why we may not be platonic lovers."
"I can," she replied. "The last platonic lover I had borrowed most of the insurance my husband left me."

Deceiving.
Tourist—"What a fashionable restaurant that must be—look at the beautiful automobiles standing in front of it."
Guide—"Not at all, madam. That's a restaurant for chauffeurs."

Parious Place for Chickens.
Two negroes were discussing deep matters and one said, "Some folks tell us dat after we die we done turn into animals."
"Dat so?" returned the other. "Ef you had yo' way what would you rather turn into a dog or a chicken?"
"Well, I dunno. Dat all depends."
"On whether or not you lived in de same neighborhood?"
