

SCREAMED WITH PAIN

Nearly Died With Kidney Trouble Until "Fruit-a-tives" Gave Welcome Relief and Completely Cured the Disease

CHARLES CALVEART, Esq.

St. Thomas, Ont., April 1st, 1913

"In 1911, I was laid up with Kidney Trouble and not able to get out of my chair. The pain was excruciating and my screams could be heard in the street. I tried many different remedies without any results and I was steadily growing weaker. One day, a friend from Ottawa came in to see me and when he found me in such poor health, said he would send me a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," which he did and I commenced taking them. They did me good from the start and in a very short time I was up and around. "Fruit-a-tives" completely cured me and I have enjoyed the best of health ever since.

I would not have any other remedy for Kidney Trouble and would strongly advise anyone suffering from this trouble to cure themselves with "Fruit-a-tives."

It is simply wonderful, the relief that "Fruit-a-tives" gives in Kidney and Bladder Troubles. In the great majority of cases of "acid uric" pain in the back, "kidney cramps" and Rheumatism, the kidneys are not actually diseased. They are merely overworked. That is, they are doing more than their share of the work of ridding the system of waste matter. In most cases of Kidney and Bladder Trouble, there is also Constipation and faulty Skin Action. "Fruit-a-tives" relieves the Kidney Trouble by correcting the action of the Bowels and Skin. This marvellous fruit medicine acts directly on the liver and kidneys and skin, and is the only medicine in the world that does act on all three of these great eliminating organs. "Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Kidney Trouble when caused by poor skin action, constipation and acid indigestion. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c., at all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

touched the fringe of his life, and it would take hours to tell of his after career. It was wonderful, appalling, to think that one man could accomplish so much. From a poor peasant boy he reached almost the highest position in the realm. He published 74 books, magazines and pamphlets; he crossed swords with kings and statesmen; he was imprisoned for giving expression to his views; he fought the battles of the poor and downtrodden, and in his day was maligned and persecuted. But when he died all the world, friends and foes, acknowledged his greatness. The London Times pronounced him the most extraordinary Englishman of his age, and called him "The last of the Saxons." The Morning Chronicle declared that he was the most powerful writer that England ever produced, and the Standard acknowledged that he was the first political writer of his age, wholly without a rival since the days of Swift. Of him Elliott, the poet, wrote:

"Yes, let the wild flowers wed his grave,
That bees may murmur near,
When 'er his last home bend the brave,
And say, 'A MAN lies here.'"

"For Britons honor Cobett's name,
Though rashly oft he spoke;
And none can scorn, and few will blame,
The low-laid heart of oak."

And what shall I more say? For time fails in which to tell of his greatness. He was a planet, which in its impetuous rush touched for a time a rugged hill in this city by the sea. Fort Howe is to become transformed. It has witnessed many changes in the march of years. It saw the stirring events surrounding old Fort L'Anse-au-Loup, and the struggle for the grip of empire; it watched the Loyalists land upon these shores and behind a city grow strong and prosperous at its feet. It will behold greater changes in the years to come, for St. John is destined to become the Liverpool of Canada, the city where the Old and the New Worlds meet. Crowned and crested with the glory of flowers, trees and avenues, Fort Howe will smile her benediction upon the City of the Loyalists. But amid all the historic interests of this old hill none will appeal more to the hearts of future generations than its association with the famous William Cobett, and the beautiful maiden of the washbasin.

Mr. Justice Landry then spoke a few words in favor of the desired object, and in appreciation of the efforts of the club. Mayor Frink also spoke, and assured those present that the city would cooperate in every way to ensure the success of the undertaking.

During the evening a small but select orchestra of ladies played selections and Mrs. L. M. Curren sang very acceptably. Views of Fort Howe and its surroundings, as they were and are, were thrown upon the screen and capably explained by W. H. Golding. On the stage were scenic views appropriate to the occasion. The National Anthem was then sung and the audience dispersed after a very pleasant evening.

Rev. Dr. Raymond.

Rev. Dr. Raymond, who was the next speaker, said that unlike those who had previously spoken he had not been invited to reduce his words to manuscript, owing to a multitude of interruptions at a particularly busy season.

In the opening part of his address Dr. Raymond paid a warm tribute to the splendid work accomplished by Mrs. Smith, president of the Women's Canadian Club, in the advancement of all the enterprises for the good of the unfortunate and for the well being of the community at large. Like the late Hon. John Boyd, lieutenant-governor of this province, she had given of her time and talent freely and without stint. She now enjoys the satisfaction of knowing that through her sympathetic labors many thousands of dollars have been raised for the promotion of benevolent and charitable objects. He trusted that through her efforts and of those associ-before the review came off, and Cobett's flagrant breaches of trust that affected the public purse. As chief of access to all the books, and having made voluminous extracts he exposed the culprits upon his return to England. The full account of this would take too long to relate so it must be read elsewhere. Cobett's fame spread throughout the province. He had to visit public officers, one he had just threatened and sent away, rubbing the affected parts, and another receiving his punishment, while others are standing near with terror depicted upon their faces trying to study the manual. Then when the review did take place Cobett lamented that he had to stand upon the flank of the Grenadier company, with its worried shoulder-knot, and his high, coarse, hairy cap, confounded in the ranks among other men, while those who were commanding him to move his hands or his feet, thus or thus, were in fact uttering words which he had taught them, and were in everything except authority, his inferiors. Cobett later got more than even with the officers. While here he found that they were committing ated with her, the proposed memorial to St. John's first heroine, Lady LaTour, would first be a accomplished fact. Also that the height that crowns our city, the site of old Fort Howe, may be reserved as a park and recreation ground for young and old. New cities have so many parks and recreation grounds that it would be the greatest pity in the world if this beautiful, historic place should fall into the hands of speculators, and eventually be over-run with tenement houses.

The speaker fully endorsed Mr. Belding's suggestion that some memorial to the regiment whose names are worthy of the name of Lady LaTour, should be placed upon the summit that overlooks the scene in which they lived and moved in centuries past.

Dr. Raymond then briefly referred to the circumstances attending the erection of Fort Howe by Studholme in 1777, and related many incidents connected with the garrison life. He referred particularly to the period when the 54th Regiment was stationed there. Among those in the regiment whose names are worthy of note are Lord Edward Fitzgerald, Major of the Regiment, Captain William Balfour, Sergeant William Cobett, and Mark Needham. Lord Edward Fitzgerald's remarkable history and tragic end were narrated. Captain Balfour commanded the guard of honor that welcomed Colonel Thomas Carleton on his arrival in November, 1784. A quarter of a century later Balfour had risen to the rank of major general, and at the time of his death in 1811 was adjutant-general of the government of the province. Mark Needham was a soldier who had been born in the regiment, in which his father had served before him, and was killed in battle near the close of the Revolutionary war. Needham himself attained the rank of quartermaster. His son, the Hon. W. H. Murray, was mayor of the city, and afterwards prominent as a member of the legislature.

Dr. Raymond referred to other regiments that successively were in garrison at Fort Howe. These included the 1st New Brunswick Regiment, raised within the province; the 104th Regiment, which gained distinction in the war of 1812; the 8th or King's Regiment, and several others. Of these the 104th was recruited mainly from the British prisons. Floggings were so frequent at Fort Howe that the 104th was sometimes termed the 109 and worst. The commander said that they were everything that was bad except bad soldiers. There were some fine officers in the corps, and whenever opportunity offered the soldiers fought like demons. Two deserters from this regiment, upon being held up by a resident of Musquash named Barnabus Tilton, shot the poor farmer and escaped to the borders where they were apprehended. On their return they were court-martialed, sentenced to death and hanged on Gallows Hill, the rock ridge that overlooks the railway station. The last British regiment in garrison at Fort Howe was the 74th, commanded by the Hon. Sir R. Le Poer Trench. This was also the first regiment in the new barracks erected at Lower Cove, about the year 1822. The last we hear of the old garrison buildings on Fort Howe is the sale of the materials of which they were built—windows, doors, timbers, brick, etc., by public auction in March, 1823. The battery of guns, however, still remained in position. The old guns during the first half century of St. John's history, often caused the surrounding heights to reverberate. They spoke on every anniversary on state occasions. They welcomed to our shores the spring, summer and autumn fleets of the Royal Navy. In 1783 they welcomed our first governor on the 21st of November, 1784. On the 22nd of August, 1785, they welcomed the popular governor, Sir Howard Douglas in 1828.

POSITIVE HAIR GROWER FOUND AT LAST

Greatest discovery of the age SAGEINE—grows hair in thirty days. Costs nothing if it falls. Men and women whose hair is falling, who are growing bald and gray, whose heads are itchy and itchy from dandruff—even those who have been bald for years—have now the opportunity of having lots of hair. SAGEINE is Professor Le-Fountain's great discovery of how all can have glorious hair. Mr. H. P. Young, of 342 Baring Street, Buffalo, writes that SAGEINE has grown a handsome head of hair for him after he had been bald for three years. We have hundreds of letters with just such wonderful proof. If you are troubled with baldness or permanently gray hair, or lifeless-stringy or matted hair without lustre; if you have dandruff or itchy scalp, try a bottle of SAGEINE at risk. One bottle will convince. And it costs but 50c for a large treatment in a fine shaker bottle so that it is easily applied. SAGEINE is dainty as you like it. It makes handsome hair for men and women and brings out a natural rich wave. Chas. R. Wasson, sole agent. Other stores don't have SAGEINE.

At the close of Archbishop Raymond's address, T. H. Estabrook proposed the following resolution: Resolved, That this public meeting of citizens, under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club, expresses its most hearty approval of the proposal to rescue the historic site of Fort Howe from its present state of neglect, and convert it into a public park.

At comparatively small expense this bold, historic mountain of rock can be made one of the most picturesque and inspiring spots of any of the many historic places in Canada. Fort Howe as it is today will soon be submerged in the commercial growth of our city, and the important part it played in the early history of our country will be forgotten and forgotten; but Fort Howe, preserved, beautified, cared for, and surrounded, as we hope, by a tower commemorating the brave Lady LaTour and overlooking the scene of her heroic defence of Fort LaTour, will be a place of historic interest and pleasure for untold generations to come.

As the property belongs to the crown it seems to come naturally under the care of the dominion parks branch of the Department of the Interior, which has been charged by the federal government with the duty of reclaiming and preserving the important historic places of our country, and as the history of Fort Howe is so important to the Dominion of Canada, it is suggested that the matter be referred to the committee having the matter in charge that they send copies of the addresses and a report of

A neighbor told my husband about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup so I decided to try a bottle. When it was finished it had done me so much good I took another which completely cured me. I can very, very strongly recommend it.

BROKE OUT ON HEAD, NECK AND SHOULDERS

In Little Blisters, Scratching Caused It To Spread. Hands Had To Be Tied, Cried Day and Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Eastfield, N. B.—"The trouble started when my baby was four months old. Her head, neck and shoulders were a mass of sores. They broke out as first in little blisters, only watery, which the child scratched and caused to spread and form a mass of sores. Her hands had to be tied to keep her from scratching the sores. The sores caused her to lie and bawl and to be cross and peevish. She was distressed for the time she had it. She cried day and night from the irritation. Neighbors said she would never be cured.

"She was given some medicine to take lawfully but without success. Then a friend told me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did. I washed the child with Cuticura Soap, dried well, then applied the Cuticura Ointment every day and in a week's time the burning sensation left, the child scratched no more, and what she was eleven months old she was completely cured."
