BALLAD POETRY OF ENGLAND.

In his lecture on the Ballad Poetry of Scotland, Rev. J. R. Campbell, after a brief complimentary reference to some local writers of prose and verse, pointed out that poetry is the first language of nations, and defining the term ballad, proceeded to discuss the ballad in the Scottish ballad from the oldest fragments written by Canute who died in 1017 to the time of Burns. The subject was treated historically in periods, each period of Scottish history and every great crisis furnished material for the ballad and these were treated by the lecturer with excellent discrimination. Perhaps the most interesting part of the lecture was that which treated of the Jacobite ballads and the universal identity of the Highlanders to the happy case of Bonnie Prince Charlie in 1746.
