The mail steamer Lake Winnipeg, Capt. Evans, arrived at Liverpool at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. She made the run from Halifax to Moville in nine days, a remarkably good passage. It is evident the Winnipeg is as good a ship as ever she was. The Allan-Thomson steamers Platea, Capt. Allen, and Cheronea, Capt. Marsters, from this port, have arrived at London. The Cheronea left here a week after the other vessel departed, and considerable anxiety was felt regarding the latter. Twenty-two days were consumed in making the passage by the Platea. She was kept back by the continued strong easterly winds. The Furness steamer Damara, from London for this port, passed Deal yes-

Annual Meeting League at Ottawa Thursday.

Leading Members of Government and Opposition in Attendance.

Col. Denneson Wishes the Country to Take Up the Scheme of Naval Defence.

OTTAWA, March 10.—Colonel Denisin, president of the British Empired that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach had league, is highly delighted with the success of the annual meeting held. success of the annual meeting held this morning. He was flanked with five members of the government and as many members of the former government. Sir Louis Davies, Hon. Mr.

The strategies of the annual meeting held with professor Russell, seconding the resolution, agreed with Sir Charles about Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, but considered that Sir Charles and Col. Denison were not far asunder in their Tarte, Messrs. Fitzpatrick, Dobell and Mulock were there, as well as Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir John Carling, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Senator Ferguson, Hon. Mr. Casgrain and other leading conservatives. The whole number of senators and members was about seventy. Principal Grant and Sir McNeill, M. P., and supported by senator Dobson. Principal Grant and seventy. Principal Grant and Sir Sanford Fleming were among the delegates not in politics. The report of the executive was adopted, Mr. Tarte being the sec-

The report was as follows:

The report was as follows:

Your committee, in reporting upon the operations of the league during the past year, has pleasure in recommending that the league has had its full share in furthering the attainment of that imperial unity which is its principal aim. The past year, the year of the great diamond in bilee, has been filly marked in the history of the league by the sovereign's approbation, Her Majesty the Queen and Empress having been graciously pleased to become patron, thus giving that sanction to its objects which surely pleases the league, as it has always aimed to be beyond the contests and changes incident to party politics. It is most gratifying to note the prominent position assumed by the partent organization in connection with the jubiles proceedings in the splendid entertainments and magnificent hospitality tendered to the premiers, representing all the colonies. The admission of the premiers to her majesty's privy council and the subsequent conferences they held with the colonial secretary of state, seem to be one more step towards the holding of these periodical meetings of representatives from all parts of the empire, stated in the constitution to be one of the principal objects of the league. Another gratifying evidence of the progress towards imperial unity is the appointment of colonial representatives, including Sir Henry Strong, the chief justice of our supreme court, Sir Henry de Villiers, of Cape Colony, and Chief Justice Way of South Australia, to the judicial committee of the privy council.

The delegation to England, appointed by the executive committee, in prusuance of the views expressed at the last annual meeting.

"That the Council of the British Empire

"That the Council of the British Empire
"League desires to commend to the early
"consideration of her majesty's government, the proposal brought before this "council by the deputation of the British "Empire League in Canada, on July 12th
"last, that colonial seamen should be en"rolled in the Royal Naval Reserve."
And the secretary was instructed to prepare a summary of the leading points brought before the council at a previous meeting by the deputation from the league in Canada, to be forwarded with the resolution for the consideration of her majesty's government.

Your committee feels that the Canadian

Your committee feels that the Canadian government should be strongly urged to aid in this matter of the naval reserve.

The committee thinks it well to report that the delegation to England found great anxiety there on the subject of the insolvency laws, and cannot but express its belief that the absence of any insolvency law in the Dominion of Canada is an obstacle to trade relations, and it is of the highest importance that some equitable measure should be passed without delay. The question would assume even greater importance, if such legislation were regarded as a step towards the codification of the whole mercantile law of the empire. Such codification, by the increased confider ce and greater facilities to trade which it would give, would undoubtedly add a great stimulus to inter-imperial commerce.

trade which it would give, would undoubtedly add a great stimulus to inter-imperial commerce.

Another, and one of the special objects of the teague, is to promote closer intercourso between the different portions of the empire by more direct steam and telegraphic communication, preference being given to routes mot traversing foreign territory. In this connection your committee ventures to express the hope that a tast steamship line between the mother country and Canada will soon be in operation. In its opinion a line of first-class vessels of high speed should be secured, even if the expense be great, for, unless vessels of the best character are employed, little will be gained.

Then, again, under the same bead, the question of direct telegraphic communication with Australia is one of great importance. If Canada does not immediately take this up it is probable that another, and neighboring nation, will do so, and thus injure the prospects of a Canadian line, and great stretegic and business adventages would thereby probably be lost to Canada and to the empire.

Your committee is glad to note that one of the members of the league has taken active steps in presenting this matter before the country, and it is earnestly hoped that the project will soon be inaugurated, the more especially as it has been pointed out that if undertaken now the line will not probably cost anything to Canada. Even it some expense should be incurred, the money would be well spent. The rapid opening up to trade of new areas of the world, and the tendency to the snifting of trade centres ought rot to be lost sight of, and as the Pacific seems to be the special object of present interest, steps should be a conce taken to secure the trade, which is sure to be developed on that great ocean.

Your ommittee hopes that it may soon be found practicable to have a reduced postal rate between Canada and the rest of the empire, and trusts that the government may see its way to taking steps in the direction of mutual preferential trade within the em

Col. Denison made an enthusiastic steech, dealing with the imperial food supply on the line of his recent article in the Nineteenth Century. He appealed to the country to take up a scheme of naval defence, comparing our small expenditure per head for defence compared with that of Great Britain.

Sir Charles Tupper moved a resolu tion respecting the imperial food sup-ply, offered from the chairman respecting the defence, and declared Can-ada had always borne her full share enator Dobson, Principal Grant and Hon. Mr. Mulock. The naval reserve resolution was troposed by Sir Charles Hibbert Tup-per and supported by Mr. Fitzpatrick. Col. Denison and the old executive were re-elected, with some additions to the council.

PREPARING FOR WAR.

WASHINGTON, March 8.- In a pirit of patriotism, with eloquent fords ringing in their ears, every mber, of the house of representatives today responded to the president's first call to meet the Spanish situation by casting his vote for a bill placing in President McKinley's hands ifty millions of dollars to be expended at his discretion for the national detense. Party lines were swept away and with a unanimous voice congress voted its confidence in the administration. Many members who were paired with absent colleagues took the responsibility of breaking their pairs, an unprecedented thing in legislative annals, in order that they might go on record in support of this vast appropriation to maintain the dignity and honor of their country. Speaker Reed, who as the presiding officer, seldum votes, and usually only in case views expressed at the last annual meeting, was cordially received by the council of the parent league, and, at a meeting specially called, had an opportunity of presenting the views of the league in Canada, upon those points with which it was particularly charged and which were as follows:

1. Respecting the denunciation of the treaties which interfered with reciprocal trade arrangements between the United Kingdom and the colonies.

2. The proposal of the league in Canada that arrangements should be made by the British admiralty and government for the admission of colonial seamen and fishermen to the Royal Naval Reserve.

3. The danger to the empire, arising from the fact that the necessary food supply of England was, principally, in the hands of two nations, which might at any time become hostile, and requesting the council to take this matter into its consideration.

In regard to the first of these three points, it is grafifying that the treaties in question have been denounced.

At the meeting of the council of the league in England, held on the 2nd of December (the Duke of Devonshire in the chair), the following resolution was carried unanimously: that these endeavors may be conducted to a successful conclusion without war. "These expression were not sent in official form. They would have been communicated through Mr. Hay, the United States ambassador to Great Britain, but for the fact that he is absent on a voyage on the Nile. They were therefore communicated directly to Sir Julian with the request that he present them in person to the pre-

The Queen's sentiments do not appear on record. The desire of the Queen that war should be avoided was emphasized for several reasons. It was pointed out that the commer cial relations of Great Britain with the United States were too extensive to be jeopardized by a war between this country and Spain. The blockade of the port of New York, for instance, it was pointed out, would be of irreparable damage to British shipping, while the cessation of the shipment of food supplies to England would be exeedingly serious.

The reply of the president expresse his pleasure at the utterances of the Queen, with the additional statement that he also hoped that war could be avoided. Public announcement of the real purpose of the ambassador's visit has been avoided, and a denial of the fact that it had relation to the present crisis has been made because it was feared that the friendly utterances might be misconstrued."

HAVANA, March 10.-Captain Converse of the United States cruiser Montgomery, in company with Consul General Lee, called on Captain General Blanco today and was received cordially and courteously.

In a letter to the United States consul general, Dr. Cognosto, the secretary general of Cuba, assures General Lee that there will be no delay in the future in the passage of relief supplies through the custom house. On account of the discovery of jewelry in such supplies the authorities held up many consignments, and some perishable provisions were speiled.

Louis Klopsch, proprietor of the Christian Herald of New York, and one of the three commissioners appointed by President McKinley to supervise the collection of a fund for arrived here yesterday, has explained that so far as he knows there was no intention to smuggle. He believes the jewelry was sent from interior parts of the United States as presents, and the quality and quantity discovered seems to prove this assumption to be has so many interesting things to say

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Bythe Women's Christian Temperance Union of St. John.

The recent and much-lamented death of Miss Frances Willard recalls the names of other workers in the temperance cause who have recently entered into rest. Among these it is especially interesting to note the name of Julia Bainbridge Wightman, whose life record and pioneer temperance work in England is thus given in the Guardian (London), Jan. 26th, 1898:

Two years ago the columns of the Guardian contained an obituary no-tice of Prebendary Wightman, for more than fifty years vicar of St. Alkmund's Shrewsbury. His more remarkable wife has now passed to her rest. Mrs. Wightman came of a family which had furnished many offieers of distinction to the army, and she inherited many of the best characteristics of the British soldier. In curious contrast to the deeply spir-Itual work that mainly filled her life. she used to relate how she first attracted her husband's regard by the way in which she had mounted and subdued a restive pony which every one else found unmanageable. characteristic courage never left her. She was never afraid to stand alone if principle was involved, but, above all, if duty called her she had no thought but to follow it unswerv-Phee, daughter of Anthony McPhee of feat or victory. Coming as a bride to Greenvale, lot 46, were married by, Shrewsbury at the close of 1842, she threw herself into the various duties which were ready to hand in her husband's parish, but it was not long before her thoughts of usefulness took of the C. T. act. Another batch of men for the Klon-dyke left here Sunday night via the Capes. They are Harry McQuald, E. D. Stanley, Harry Warren, Parker was not as it should be, and the re-sult of this feeling was the founding in Shrewsbury of the Salop Home, in the jubilee of which both she and her husband lived to take part. But in a few years a greater work offered itself to her hand, and with this her memory will in after years be chiefly associated. The parish of St. Alkmund at that time contained in one portion of it a rough population. among whom drunkenness almost supreme. The question was how to influence this population, and after considerable hesitation, with the approval of her husband, she threw herself single-handed into the breach. Armed only with the gentleness, of her womanhood, she followed up each case personally and individually, vis-lting the men in their homes, in the evening, and persevering in spite of vehement opposition. And in due course her gentle Christianity tri-umphed, and the tide of a great movement for good set in. She began her definite temperance work in the late fifties, and in 1860 the St. Alkmund's Total Abstinence society numbered more than 1,000 members, men, women and children. In 1862 permanence was given to the movement by the erection of the Working Men's hall. To judge of the importance of Mrs. Wightman's work it must be remembered that it was pioneer work-her methods, universally approved and adopted now, were new and strange forty years ago, and even provoked bitter antagonism. Perhaps, however, its greatest result was indirect. Canon Ellison has left it on record that the idea of the foundation of the Church of England Temperance society was an inspiration due to Mrs. Wightman's work in Shrewsbury, and it may be added that broad lines of action met her entire approval. She was herself a total abstainer, but never was one less bigoted. For the last few years increasing deafness and uncertain health made her appear less often in the last here was herself a form public; but there was hardly a form of philanthropic work in Shrewsbury which she did not continue to help by her interest and her purse, and that up to the very end. It was characteristic of her energy that on the very last day of her life she devoted some time to accounts connected with the Working Men's hall, which she docketed as carefully as ever. And so the end came quietly and gently—that end for which she had been waiting ever sirce her husband's death. She had reached the ripe age of eighty-one, and none of those who loved her could sorrow for her departure, as they thought of the reunion on the other
