Mr. Smith began his scientific course at Mount Allison University, where he also took the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He expects during the coming summer to locate in Boston.

Death Was Sudden. Mrs. Bridget Biers, of 24 White street, died suddenly in the hospital yesterday afternoon. She ruptured a varicose vein in her leg, and bled to death. Although Mrs. Biers had been suffering for some time, yet death was rather unexpected. She was taken to the hospital at 3:40 o'clock and died about forty-five minutes later.

An Old Church. The 125th anniversary of St. Andrew's church will be celebrated in latter part of this week and during next week. One of the speakers will be Rev. Dr. Johnston of the American Presbyterian church, Montreal, who will preach here probably next Sunday. Illustrated lectures by the pastor of this week will form a part of the proceedings.

St. John Boat Races College. The St. John Cricket Club defeated Rothesay College at Rothesay, 50 runs to 47, Saturday afternoon. For the college Rev. W. R. Hibbard, captain, made 20 runs. The high scores for the city club were, Fairweather, 28; Bogart, 15; Beckley, 10; Cannell, 15. The Rothesay boys fielded well. The visitors were entertained at tea. A return match will be played here.

At Millidgeville. Millidgeville harbor has withstanding the last day or two assumed something of its regulation summer time appearance. Five of the yachts were riding at anchor yesterday afternoon, among them the Lovinia, the Rena and the Possum.

Some of the others are well advanced toward the water-taking stage, but it will be several weeks before all are out of winter quarters.

Was Buried Saturday. The funeral of Mr. John C. Leonard, late postmaster of Carleton, took place Saturday afternoon from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. John Dixon, 190 Winslow street. The funeral services were conducted in St. Jude's church by Rev. G. F. Scott. Interment was in Cedar Hill cemetery. A large number of friends attended the obsequies, showing their respect for Mr. Leonard, who was a popular and well liked resident of the West Side.

Underground Conduits. Sometime this week the N. B. Telephone Company will begin an extensive operation in the laying of underground conduits, which will consist chiefly in the laying of a conduit from Union street to Douglas avenue by way of Mill and Main streets. The object of this is to avoid the constant damage done to the wires by storms and fires. The estimated cost of the work is $18,000; and it is the intention of the company to have a complete underground system within a few years, at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars. The next link in the system will be the laying of a conduit on Waterloo street.

A Serious Injury. Con. Joseph Crockett of Moncton, who passed through the city on Saturday en route to Boston, where he will attend the conductors' convention has in a bandaged head, the marks of an accident with which he met on Saturday, and which came within an ace of being very serious. The conductor was standing on top of a moving freight car on the Point du Chene train, when he was struck by the projecting portion of a tank, and had his head cut open. He was thrown forcibly to the roof of the car and narrowly escaped being knocked from its roof to the ground.

Every Day Club. In the Every Day Club last evening the speaker was Rev. J. McCaskill. In his address he spoke of the attitude of people towards life, and the need of filling their minds with good wholesome thoughts, and meeting problems that confront them, in an honest, hopeful manner.

He rather deplored the decline of the practice of family worship, and spoke of the differences in the congregations of the present day and those of the past.

The appeal today was not to man's fear of a God of punishment, but rather to a God of love. The appeal to them was made honestly, and for the love and justice of fair play and their attitude towards fellow creatures.

In the absence of the president, Mr. A. M. Bedding, the vice-president,

On Saturday morning a telegram came to Mr. Harry Stubbs, of the Royal Bank, North End branch, who is a nephew of Mrs. Tyler. This was the first intimation to any member of the family regarding the accident. Hence, Mr. Stubbs had the task of breaking the news to his mother of her sister's death. The sudden nature of the announcement made his task a difficult one, and it was the more so because only a few months ago Mrs. Stubbs received word in a similarly sudden manner of the death of another sister in Maine. A letter had been forwarded telling her sister's illness but a telegram announcing her death forestalled the former, and arrived before Mrs. Stubbs was aware that her sister was in anything but good health.

Is a Brother. One brother, in this vicinity, is Mr. A. A. Mabee. Mrs. Stubbs left on Saturday evening for Boston to attend her sister's funeral.

Mrs. Tyler was struck and killed by an auto belonging to Edward Skaham, a wealthy market gardener of Belmont. The chauffeur, Michael Mirano, was taken to Station I in Cambridge, where he will be charged with manslaughter this morning.

Mr. Skaham and his wife had taken their children out for a ride after school and were returning to Belmont from Harvard Square, Mrs. Tyler had been visiting friends on Shepard street, and was walking to Somerville to call on a sister when the heavy touring car struck her as she was crossing the avenue at Sacramento street.

Mirano told the police that he was driving slowly and that he sounded his horn, but that the woman did not seem to hear him, but walked straight into the path of the machine before he could swerve to one side.

Say Machine Was Speeding. The police claim that Mirano was driving rapidly, as they say that after he had seen the accident was inevitable and had put on the brakes, that the woman's body was many feet behind the car when it was finally stopped. Mr. Skaham and Mirano leaped from the machine and hurried to aid the victim, but she had evidently been instantly killed, as there was no life in her body, huddled in the dust of the avenue, when they reached it.

Mr. Tyler was expecting a telephone call from his wife at 5 o'clock at the North Station, the same time that the fatality occurred. While her lifeless body was being taken to Litchfield's by the machine and being examined by Medical Examiner Swan, the husband waited at the station, standing by the telephone exchange, and wondering what had detained his wife. For three quarters of an hour, while the neighborhood of his home, 101 Upland road, North Cambridge, was searched for him, he waited at the station and finally received the news of his wife's death through a friend who knew that the husband was there expecting a message.

Mrs. Tyler was 53 and a native of Kingston, N. B. She was a member of the Broadway Baptist church, and was married in 1887. Her husband is a travelling salesman. There are no children.

WOMAN TERRIBLY GASHED AS RESULT OF DRUNKEN FRACAS

Mrs. Collins' house at 23 White St., was the scene of considerable bloodshed on Saturday evening.

Mr. John Murphy, who lives in the rear of 23 White street, returned home about ten o'clock, and found his wife lying on the floor with a pool of blood around her. He made a speedy visit to the Central Police Station, and Policeman Spence and Sergeant Campbell returned with him.

When they arrived at the house, they found the doors all locked, and could not hear a sound. They got up and climbed in one of the windows and found Mrs. Collins, who is about seventy-five years of age and her son, Charles Albert, aged about thirty, lying on the floor very much under the influence of liquor. Empty liquor bottles of all descriptions were found around them. They went into the kitchen and near a window, found a lot of clothes, completely saturated with blood and finger marks in blood on paper, near which was found a pair of scissors about twelve inches long, which were stained with blood and had hair on the end of them. A pen-knife was also found near by. A pen-knife had been taken to the hospital on a stretcher in the meanwhile.

Too Drunk To Move. Mrs. Collins and her son were too drunk to move and could not be induced to relate anything that had happened and in fact they did not seem to be aware that anything had happened, but remembered seeing a woman there.

As soon as Mrs. Murphy reached the hospital the wound was relieved as much as possible. Last evening she was resting quite easily.

There is a deep cut in the side of her head, which goes in as far as the cranium. It was also noticed that some of her hair had been clipped.

Mrs. Murphy was very much under the influence of liquor when taken to the hospital and in fact, any statement she has made since Saturday night could not be relied upon, on account of the condition the woman was in.

It is not known exactly how the affair took place, but it is possible that the man was trying to cut her hair and through a slip, made the deep gash. Again it may be possible, as she was in such a deplorable condition, that the wound may have been self-inflicted. However, when those who witnessed the scene are in a fit condition, the exact story will no doubt be learned.

Mrs. Murphy is about fifty-five years of age.

LITTLE BYRON TAYLOR DIED YESTERDAY

Little Byron Taylor, as the result of the terrible burns received Saturday morning by setting fire to his clothes while playing with matches, died yesterday morning shortly after one o'clock.

The little boy was three and a half years old, and the grandson of Director Robert Wisely, with whom he has lived, his mother, Mrs. Blanche Taylor, having of late years made her home with her father at 45 Mount Pleasant avenue. While the little fellow was in the bedroom he occupied, about 3 o'clock Saturday morning, Mr. Wisely heard a scream and on rushing in found the boy's clothing in flames. He quickly rolled him in a rug, receiving himself some bad burns on his hands. The fire was smothered in this way, but not before the little body had been terribly burned and blistered.

Dr. W. A. Christie was called immediately and everything possible was done to alleviate the poor little sufferer.

His mother is now in New York and the sad news has been sent to her with a summons for her to come home at once.

The funeral will be tomorrow noon.

Mr. B.L. Sheppard, occupied the chair. There was a large attendance present and during the evening selections were rendered by the orchestra, and a solo was sung by Miss Lou Colwell.

MOTORMAN ATTACKED BY TOUGHS

Mr. Albert McInerney, a street railway motorman, has informed the police that he believes himself to be the object of a sort of vendetta.

When he is returning to his home after leaving the car sheds, between twelve and one o'clock at night, he is persistently attacked, and he has formed the belief that a determined attempt is being made to take his life, or to do him serious bodily harm.

The most recent attack of this kind took place this morning, shortly before one o'clock. It was in the locality which has been the scene of the other assaults of the kind, but was not so alarming a nature. As Mr. McInerney was passing along Dock street, slightly above the T. H. Eastbrooks building, but on the other side of the street, he heard a large stone strike the sidewalk a few feet behind him. It bounced once, and then deflected into the street. Evidently it had come from near North street. Its force was sufficient to have caused serious injury.

This was the first of three attacks near the same spot. On Friday night last, as Mr. McInerney was passing the car bumpers to the north of the Upright depot, a man suddenly emerged and asked him for the price of a bed. The motorman replied that he had not much money with him, but put his hand in his pocket to pull out a coin. As he did so the stranger grasped him roughly by the throat and exclaimed, "I want all you've got." Mr. McInerney promptly struck out and sent the man sprawling with a blow under the ear.

A little further along he met Night Detective Lucas, and Policeman McCollum who went back and searched the cars with a lantern. Several tramps who expected to pull out in the morning were shaken out, but none answered the description of the man who had made the attack. He wore a brown coat, with a grey shirt and no vest. He wore a belt.

A night or two later as Mr. McInerney was passing the same spot with Theodore Bowles, another motorman, a big stake was shoved out from between the cars and missed the men narrowly.

Mr. McInerney thinks he is believed to be a conductor and to carry money which someone is not averse to taking away from him by force.
