Physicians Cornered!

I SUPPOSE there is not in the whole of a physician's experience, anything in human suffering which calls forth his sympathy, and pity, to such an extent, as to witness the excruciating pains of a poor mortal, suffering from that fearful disease.

RHEUMATISM!

Heretofore there has been a considerable diversity of opinion among medical men, as to the true character of this disease. Some locating it in the fibrous or muscular tissues of the system, and others viewing it as an acute nervous disease: but it is now generally admitted to one disease arising from a poison circulating in the blood, and further it is admitted that Rheumatism can never be thoroughly cured without exterminating such poisonous matters from the blood, by a constitutional internal remedy. We feel confident that none will feel better satisfied, and rejoice more, than the conscientious physician, who has found out that a cure for this stubborn disease has been discovered. The following testimony from a gentleman of standing, and high respectability, and well known to the Canadian public, cannot fail to satisfy all that the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE!

MR. ISAACSON'S ENDORSATION.

MONTREAL, 21st March, 1874.

Messrs. DEVINS & BOLTON,

Dear Sirs,—I, with pleasure, concede to the agent's wish that I give my endorsation to the immediate relief I experienced from a few doses of the Diamond Rheumatic Cure, having been a sufferer from the effects of Rheumatism, I am now, after taking two bottles of this medicine, entirely free from pain. You are at liberty to use this letter, if you deem it advisable to do so.

I am, sirs, yours respectfully,
JOHN HELDER ISAACSON, N. P.

FURTHER PROOF.

I AM ANOTHER MAN!

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 29, 1874.

A. CHIPMAN SMITH,

Dear Sir,—I have suffered for fifteen months with Chronic Rheumatism, and could not find any relief, after trying every medicine that I saw advertised to cure it, until I was told about the Diamond Rheumatic Cure. I have used three bottles of this valuable remedy, and now can say that I am another man to what I was. I would advise anybody suffering with this terrible disease to try it, and see if it does not do the same for them that it did for me.

Yours.
JAMES L. EAGLES, Indiantown.

BARNES' HOTEL, ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 29, 1874.

A. CHIPMAN SMITH,

Dear Sir,—I have great pleasure in stating that I put every confidence in your Diamond Rheumatic Cure. I have suffered for the last two years with Rheumatic Pains, during which time I have had the advice of some of the most prominent medical men in the Province, but experienced no relief, until I tried the Diamond Rheumatic Cure. I have now taken three bottles, and I feel greatly improved, and now am confident of a permanent cure.

Yours truly,
JAMES O'BRIEN.

There is no medicine which so promptly relieves the depressed vital action, restores the general and local circulation, allays the pain, dissipates the congestion, prevents inflammation, and restores the healthy action as the

PALABRAS CARINOSAS.

Good night! I have to say good night
To such a host of peerless things!
Good night unto the fragile hand
All queenly with its weight of rings:
Good night to fond, uplifted eyes,
Good night to chestnut braids of hair,
Good night unto the perfect mouth,
And all the sweetness nestled there,—
The snowy hand detains me, then
I'll have to say Good night again!

But there will come a time, my love,
When, if I read the stars aright,
I shall not linger by this porch
With my adieus. Till then, good night!
You wish the time were now? And I.
You do not blush to wish it so?
You would have blushed yourself to death
To own so much a year ago.—
What, both these snowy hands! ah, then
I'll have to say Good night again!

THE KING OF NO-LAND. (See 4th page.)

NOTES AND NEWS.

UNITED STATES.

Dr. Peter Gonsolus, a stout old Texan of 76 years, has had six wives, always marrying a young girl, and is the father of 54 children, 48 of whom are living and doing well. So he says.

A countryman, gazing at a garden in the vicinity of Boston, in which were several marble statues, exclaimed: "Just see what a waste! Here's no less than six scare-crows in this ten-foot patch, and any one of them would keep the crows from a five-acre lot!"

Some one with little to do has been at the pains of ascertaining how many caged birds there are in the United States. Their number amounts to 900,000, of which 300,000 were imported last year. Additions come only from importation, since the number yearly raised here only about equals the number lost from various causes. Of other cage birds there are about 100,000, and the whole consume seed of various kinds the value of $2,000,000 a year.

"Thousands of children," says a late issue of the Boston Post, "are sent out from the public schools every year with only a smattering of knowledge. They know some German, some algebra, a little chemistry, some philosophy, some astronomy, but not a thimbleful of learning which will ever prove valuable to them. If they had been made good readers and spellers, had been taught the correct use of the English language, and had learned the fundamental principles of arithmetic and geography, they would have had some tools with which to have gone to work in the world. As it is, they are crippled."

GENERAL.

On retiring from business a wise old man said to his son and successor: "Now, my boy, remember that common sense is the best thing you can bring to bear on every affair of life except love-making."

In Glenelg, Inverness shire, Scotland, there has been but one birth in six months, while marriages are rare events, and the registrar notes the painful fact "there is scarcely a house in the district [illegible] the family are not old maids."

Prince Maran of Tahiti is to wed the Princess Aruane at Christmas. The wedding outfit has been ordered in San Francisco. All the oranges of the Island are saved to make orange rum to get drunk on. The orgies of these semi-savages on such occasions are indescribable.

Deacon Sharpface.

If it had never entered the mind of the Rev. W. H. H. Murray to tell some unpleasant truths about deacons, no doubt he would have been, to-day, the adored pastor of Park Street Church, Boston. But a shepherd must shut his eyes to the small defects of his flock. Shall he be the one to count their black marks and notice the spots where their innocent wool is not so white as it ought to be? Go to, let our enemies tell the truth about us—what do we have friends for if not to be friendly? But Mr. Murray opened his mouth and spake. In a lecture he told the truth; and now Henry L. Shepard & Co. have printed it in a book, and all the "Deacons" can see themselves there as large as life. Here is "the Unlovely Deacon"—harsh, unjust, wickedly cunning, sketched from nature, Parson Murray says, and he ought to know:

Deacon Sharpface was a peculiar man; a very peculiar man he was, even at birth. His mother was bilious and his father rheumatic; and he resembled both. To his paternal inheritance he managed to add dyspepsia; and dyspepsia to him meant something. He paid attention to it. He ate with it, and slept with it. It sharpened his countenance, glared ferociously at you through his spectacles, and sounded through his nose when he prayed. He had been a professor forty years, but had been reconverted after he had been a member of the church thirty, and a deacon ten. I had no fault with this. His second conversion was rather needed. Even another would have done him no considerable injury. Spiritually he needed the allopathic treatment,—large doses and frequent administrations.

But, friends, whatever Deacon Sharpface lacked in gentleness, in charity, in the sweet graces of the Spirit, in brotherly kindness, in patience, it mattered little, for he was thoroughly orthodox. That saved him. If he had been a Parkerite, or had worshipped with Brother Alger, he would have been a terrible example of what he ey could do. But his orthodoxy saved him. It covered him with a mantle of charity, and won him the election to the deaconate.

That filled his cup to overflowing. It gave him many advantages, chief among which was this: it gave him a life-long opportunity to defend the old faith. Never did a man improve an opportunity better. Woe to the preacher who preached before Deacon Sharpface, especially if he was a young man? He listened to every sermon, from beginning to end, only to discover heresy. Any unusual form of expression was instantly noted down. If a text was misquoted, he was in ecstacy, and the hard lines of his face absolutely, for once, relaxed as if, somewhere in its cadaverous recess s, there yet remained the corpse of an unburied smile. A sermon was an intellectual refreshment, and prayers he enjoyed pencil in hand. I have said that the deacon was unfortunate—unfortunate in his nature, his education, and his temper; but his greatest misfortune was the time of his birth.
