

work may be done regularly and without making it, as hitherto, dependent upon the leisure or convenience of available members of the staff. Too much credit cannot be given to the sacrifice of time and personal inconvenience on the part of some of the Professors who have rendered technical assistance, but there are limits to their capacity and the results are only too evident this year.

The present distribution of work is as follows:-

Dr. J. A. Bancroft: Mineralogy, Geology, Anthropology, and Paleontology.
