Orchestra Performs Wed.

The Fredericton Civic Orchestra will present their first concert of the 1958-1959 series Wednesday evening, December 3, at 8.30 p.m. in the Fredericton High School Auditorium.

The main works to be performed are Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony", and a composition by the conductor, Janis Kalnins, for piano, french horn, and clarinet. Pieces by Strauss, Handel, Bach, and Glinka will be included.

Tickets

Membership tickets admit the holder to two concerts. These may be obtained from Miss Nan Gregg, reference librarian, university library. The price is $1.00 for student membership (two concerts) and $2.50 for regular membership.

R'N'B Robs SRC

Wednesday's scheduled SRC meeting was cancelled since the constitutionally required quorum of members was not in attendance. The poor attendance was attributed to Red 'n' Black rehearsals.

STEVE FAY

Chapel Services Suggested

At a meeting held in Memorial Hall this week, representatives from the Canterbury Club, Newman Club and Students Christian Movement, decided to sponsor jointly a morning worship service every Tuesday and Friday.

Dependent on the approval of university authorities, services will commence on Tuesday, December 2 at 8:30 a.m. in the Arts Building Chapel.

The Dalhousie Debating Society won a split decision over UNB debaters Ron Manzer and Steve Fay in the first intercollegiate debate of the year held at Dalhousie University on Tuesday.

UNB took the affirmative side of the resolution "Resolved that surrender to the USSR is preferable to risking the extermination of humanity in war". Debating for the winning Dalhousie team were Law students Alec Weir and Rick Cashin.

Judges

Judges were Jean Morrison, President of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, Dr. Monseigneur Gravelle, D.C.L., Judge of the Marriage Council of Halifax, and John Dunlop, Q.C., and former Deputy Minister in Halifax.

The debate was taped by the CBC, and attempts are being made to have it broadcast over CFNB.

RON MANZER

FUND DRIVE ANNOUNCED

President Dr. Colin B. Mackay announced Tuesday plans for the launching of a nation-wide appeal for funds, with Chancellor Lord Beaverbrook as honorary chairman and New Brunswick industrialist K. C. Irving as national chairman.

The appeal for $3,200,000 marks the first time the university has sought funds on a national basis.

The drive is designed to supplement the recent increased federal government grant.

Public subscriptions to the campaign will be matched by an equal amount from the New Brunswick Government.

'Midnight' Story Brings Sharp Replies

Midnight, a weekly newspaper published in Montreal, has charged that a non-virgin club is being operated by co-eds at the University of New Brunswick.

The charge appears on page nine of the newspaper's edition for Nov. 24.

The paper, noted for its sensational treatment of sex and crime stories, printed the report in its two-page feature "Cross-Canada Confidential". The copyrighted feature, which appears regularly, purports to give "sensational news — behind the headlines" collected by "special roving reporters".

Large Headline

A large headline draws attention to the story on UNB. It reads:

UNB'S NON-VIRGIN CLUB MEMBERS AT ALL-TIME HIGH

Under the headline and a Moncton dateline appears the only details on the alleged club:

"That non-virgin club operating out of UNB's gal-ranks, never seems to lack for members. They seem to have all the boys interested in forming a co-ed chapter."

Gives Interview

In a telephone interview with The Brunswickan, Joe Azaria, editor of Midnight, admitted that he did not know "off hand" the source of the information, or even which of his reporters wrote the story.

He said Midnight has a staff of seven reporters who tour Canada for "news items", and that any one of these could have written the report.

Here at UNB, students who were interviewed expressed surprise at the story and claimed they had never heard of any such organization.

Not Worth Comment

Joan Proudfoot, president of the Maggie Jean Chestnut House Society, said:

"I honestly don't feel that the report merits comment."

A number of co-eds in the Maggie Jean, which houses the majority of the university's female students, became so angered by the story that they tore a copy of Midnight into shreds.

Women's Dean

Mary Ella Milham, dean of the women's residence, said: "Matters of private morals are, as even Kinsey found out, beyond the possibility of statistical proof. Thus, a cheap sensationalist publication is quite safe in laying a general charge against a non-defined group of girls in an area where circulation needs a boost."

"We may, and do, deplore the statement, but surely we cannot take it seriously."

WUSC Van Visiting UNB

The WUSC Treasure Van is being held in the Ping Pong Room of the Lady Beaverbrook Gymnasium today from 2.30-10 p.m. and tomorrow from 2.30-6 p.m.

The Treasure Van gives the student the opportunity to buy gifts that are the work of skilled craftsmen throughout the world.

Among the international handicrafts offered are Indian brass and silks, Japanese kokeishi dolls, and various Jamaican crafts.

SCM Talk Today

The Reverend Dr. J. A. Forbes will speak this afternoon at 1.30 p.m. in Room 12 of Memorial Hall, taking as his subject the position of "Unitedism".

The address is part of a current SCM-sponsored series of talks on religious viewpoints.

Today's lecture will be followed at one week intervals with talks on the Baptist (Rev. E. McKnight), and Presbyterian (Rev. Dr. T. J. Watson), viewpoints.

A GLANCE AT THE RED 'N' BLACK: One of the bright numbers seen by the opening night crowd was this "I Won't Dance" routine. Performances continue through tomorrow evening.
