

meat and two serves of pudding. The boys have biscuits before going to bed.

It has been thought well to enter fully into the above details, because parents sometimes dislike to make enquiries as to the diet—because it is a recognized fact that boys are liable to give wrong impressions about school fare—and because it is really important that all interested in the boys' health and welfare, should understand that this most important matter receives full and liberal attention.

Boys are not allowed to have any eatables in their possession except biscuits. Mr. Boulden much prefers that boys should not receive hampers; anything sent (excepting biscuits) must be put on the table and eaten at meal-times.

It is suggested that parents who desire to give their boys any extra treats (as on birthdays and special holidays, for instance) should send books, pictures and decorations for the bedroom—money for rides or sleigh drives, and for "Victoria Day" fireworks.

School Terms

The School Year begins on the third Thursday in September, and closes on the Tuesday following St. Alban's Day (St. Alban's Day being June 17th). The vacations are three weeks at Christmas, and one week at Easter. Regular work is begun on the day after the date named for re-assembling, and is continued up to, and including, the day of departure. It is therefore most important that all boys should be sent punctually, on the day named; and only under very extraordinary circumstances should application be made for any boy to return home before the date fixed for the general closing of the school.
