Filipinos Appear to be Tiring of the War

And are Surrendering to the Americans—President of the Rebel Congress Submits

Manila, November 27.—Bautista, president of the Filipino congress, presented himself to Gen. MacArthur and formally renounced all further connection with the insurrection. He was one of the influential Filipinos who hesitated at the beginning of the war as to which side to cast his lot. He was offered a judgeship of the Supreme Court, but declined. He now announces that he desires to accept the position and says the Filipino congress and cabinet are scattered, never to re-assemble. Some of the members, he adds, have returned to their homes while others are trying for safety. Many of the congressmen have resigned and he believes the Filipino soldiers will lay down their arms everywhere as soon as they learn the truth.

THE OWEN HAS HAD A GOOD SEASON.

"This has been one of the best seasons," said Capt. Owen of the Owen, "we have ever had. Usually we have to look for cargoes, and people were indifferent whether they gave them to us or not, but this summer they pressed them on us. We actually had more than we could attend to." The Owen usually ties up for the winter about the 7th or 8th of December. This year, however, the captain has contracts still ahead of him that will take three weeks to fill. He had to bring three loads of coal from Toledo, three loads more from Detroit and a load of stone from Amherstburg. He has also to take two cargoes of brick to Walkerville. This will occupy him for at least 20 days. Then if the river is still open he is engaged to bring three loads of coal from Toledo to Wallaceburg. The Owen is now in with a load of coal for the Kent mills.

MANY ARE CALLED

To Preach the Gospel who Have not the Means

To Educate Themselves—These the Methodist Church Assistants—Chancellor Burwash Preaches on the Subject in Park Street Church

The 21st of November was the day set aside by the Park St. Methodist church for the educational fund sermon. The collections and subscriptions yesterday will be devoted to the educational fund for assisting poor young men in getting a university education before going out to preach. Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria University preached both morning and evening. In the morning he took as his text, "And the Holy Ghost said, separate me, Barnabas, and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them."

The first missionary act, said the Chancellor, was the separating of Barnabas and Saul for the ministry. Prior to this time the Jewish church thought that all God's good gifts were for the Jews, and it took considerable education to get them out of that way of thinking. Every young man who is set apart for the ministry must first be called of God; secondly, he must have gifts, and, in the third place, he must have fruits. In regard to the first proposition, there were no dissenting voices. All were unanimous that unless a young man was called of God and the partner of the Holy Ghost, and had a knowledge of sins forgiven, he certainly was not fit for the Christian ministry. Woe unto the church that the time ever came that men went into the ministry for the purpose of a position in society, advancement or gain.

In regard to the second proposition, I cannot do better than quote John Wesley's idea of the gifts necessary for a successful preacher. He said that he didn't refer to education or oratorical training or the gift of speech, but the man must have good judgment, plain common sense and the power to attract persons. Every business man was tested by the success that attended his labors, and the preacher had to be tried in exactly the same way. The man who was not a builder-up of the spiritualities of the people, was not a successful worker. In the Roman Catholic Church it was claimed that once a priest was admitted that a preacher might all from grace, in which case it was quite evident that he was no longer fit for the office of the ministry. He might, however, become so lazy that he would preach the old sermons he had ten years ago without a new thought or fresh animation. This man was also most certainly uncalled. For the true worker in the Master's vineyard must be a diligent worker. On Thursday morning a man was shown into my parlor. When I went in to see him, I found him with home-cut garments of a coarse kind. He was also dusty and travel-stained. In conversation I found out that he realized that he was called of God to the ministry and had worked in the Marmora Iron mines, near Belleville, all summer. In order to save sufficient to get through the winter he had walked over sixty miles with his little bundle in which were all his worldly possessions. If I had any doubt at first sight I had none when I heard this man in the prayer meeting. After spending the winter with us he returned again to the iron mines to secure the means for another winter's study. After the second winter he was taken into the church as a preacher, and the many souls converted under his preaching gave ample assurance of his call, and the funds collected to-day are to help others under such circumstances.

EVENING SERVICE. Last evening Chancellor Burwash took as his subject, "God hath reserved for us better things in the face of Jesus Christ." This text is usually taken as referring to the Christian, but the context will bear out that it may be taken as referring to the world. Continuing, the Chancellor pointed out the past missionary work of the Methodist Church, showing the centres of that work. In conclusion he spoke of the future heritages of the world, and more particularly of those of the Dominion of Canada.

SOMETHING IS UP.

Emperor Bill and Joe Chamberlain Quite Chummy.

Some Think it is Over Delagoa Bay While Others Say Persia

London, Nov. 27.—The German Emperor's visit will be returned by the Queen at Potsdam after her holiday on the Italian Riviera next spring. There is no public announcement, but this is already well understood in diplomatic circles. Political gossip is already asking whether Secretary Chamberlain will accompany her to complete negotiations already begun at Windsor, for there has been diplomatic behind the scenes after all. The German Emperor singled out Chamberlain for special attentions at the state banquet, and talked with him so long and so closely that every prominent diplomat present took note of it. The next day Chamberlain visited Hatfield House, and on the day after held a protracted interview with the Emperor. Count von Buelow and Count Hatfield, the German ambassador, the subject of this conference is a high state secret, but the reporter connects it with Delagoa Bay, although there is another surmise that it reaches as far as Persia.

LIKELY A GHOST STORY.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—The Brussels telegram to the Tagblatt, says the Independent Belge, asserts it has trustworthy authority for stating that the Kaiser's interview with Mr. Chamberlain turned on the absolute necessity of terminating the Transvaal war. The Kaiser offered his mediation to achieve this object. Mr. Chamberlain informed the Kaiser of the conditions of peace which Great Britain would propose at the end of the war.
