Good Advice About

UNDERCLOTHING

What Kind to Wear

It all depends on the individual; but from all information gathered from the various medical experts, ALL-WOOL UNDERWEAR is the safest for the majority of people to wear. Most people delay too long in putting on the Heavyweight Underwear, thinking they will not derive the benefit when the real cold weather sets in. This is a great mistake. More people die of pneumonia than sunstroke, the corollary of which is that there is more danger of dressing too lightly than too heavily. Most men need a barrier between them and the raw, cold atmosphere, which shall be a non-conductor of heat, and woolen goods are an excellent non-conductor. Wool is the natural protection of all animals. After a man has put on heavy weight he should grapple it to his soul with rods of steel, for if he tries to dodge the autumnal changes by shifting his attire to suit the conditions, sooner or later the weather will catch him napping.

WHERE TO BUY YOUR WINTER UNDERWEAR

We want your trade, and we have the assortment of goods. Our prices will be found very reasonable, when the qualities of the goods are considered. We purchase directly from the manufacturer, and we buy only for cash, therefore we are able to sell you at the lowest prices. Read a few of our prices:

50c per Suit—Heavy and Medium Cotton Underwear Shirts and Pants.	$1.50 per Suit—American manufactured, fleece-lined all nicely bound and silk stitched finish—very soft and comfortable, and very popular this season.
75c per Suit—Mixed Cotton and Wool Underwear, good value.	$2.00 per Suit—Our big selling line for the last three years was $2.25 per suit, and this year, notwithstanding the big advance in Wool, we have secured a large stock of this line at a very close figure, and we have decided to sell them at $2.00 per suit, making it, without a doubt, the best line offered in Chatham for the money. All sizes, 34 to 44 inches.
$1.00 per Suit—It is always our aim to have the very best value in every line we show in Underwear, but there are some prices that we buy largely to secure lower prices and offer better grades for the money, and our one dollar per suit is the best that can be procured in Scotch Knit Pure All-Wool.	Fine Grade Goods—We have also a good assortment of higher class goods in Natural Wool, Medium and Heavy Weight Scotch Lamb's Wool, Silk and Wool and Pure Silk Underwear at $2.50 and $3.00.
$1.50 per Suit—This is another popular price, and at that figure we have wonderful value in Soft Knit Pure Wool, Sateen finished Shirts and Drawers, all sizes, 34 to 40 inch chest measures—comfortable and warm and will wear well.

89 KING STREET

WHISKEY AND JEALOUSY

Caused a Bloody Tragedy at Bradford, Pa.—Brakeman Shot His Wife and Killed Himself.

Bradford, Pa., Nov. 23.—Yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, John J. Keating, aged 39, a passenger brakeman on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad, fatally shot his wife, aged 35, and then turning the smoking weapon against his own breast, fired a bullet through his heart. Two bullets were fired at Mrs. Keating. The first entered her left temple, and the second passed through her left breast. After the shooting of the woman, Keating seemed to suddenly realize what he was doing. "My God, my God," he shrieked, "what have I done!" Then he shot himself and fell forward against the body of his wife. Both were soon dead. In a small room near where the shooting occurred a little 9-year-old son of the dead woman by a former husband, lay sick of the scarlet fever. The sounds of the shooting and the frightful death of his mother and stepfather produced a shock to the little patient which may also end his life. The cause of the tragedy is ascribed to whiskey and insane jealousy without cause.

CHATHAM TO NEW YORK.

WILL NOT SURRENDER

So Oom Paul Says of the Boers.

WILDLY EXCITING TIME

OVER THE LANDING OF THE EX-TRANSVAAL PRESIDENT AT MARSEILLES—MIKE DAVITT THERE.

Marseilles, Nov. 23. — The Gelderland was sighted several miles out at seven o'clock in the morning, and Dr. Leyds and Messrs. Fischer and Westers, an interpreter and Dr. Van Hammel immediately proceeded to the Dutch warship in a steam launch, and soon afterward boarded her. A conference between the Boer leaders ensued. The Gelderland remained behind the island of the Chateau d'If, made famous in Dumas' "Monte Christo," until ten o'clock, when she steamed into the outer harbor, firing a salute of twenty-one guns, to which a shore battery replied. Mr. Kruger cannot but be elated at the warmth of his reception by the people of Marseilles to-day. From the moment the white, twelve-masted barge left the side of the Gelderland, with ex-President Kruger sitting in her stern, surrounded by the Boer representatives, the storm of cheering never ceased until he entered his hotel. Even then a vast concourse of people remained in front of the building until Mr. Kruger arrived on the balcony, where he had to remain for some time uncovered, acknowledging the acclamations of his thousands of admirers, who cheered until they were hoarse. The fighting declaration which Mr. Kruger made at the landing stage dispelled at once any impression that he might intend to accept a compromise from the British Government. His announcement was greeted with a roar of cheers, and cried of "Vive Kruger!" "Vive les Boers!" "Vive la Liberte!" He repeated the sentiment from the hotel balcony, where, replying to the storm of acclamations from the solid block of thousands of people, Mr. Kruger said the reception given him would do much to soothe the wounds in his heart. The Boers, said he, would never sacrifice their freedom. They would rather be exterminated to the last man than come to seek festivities, still I accept with all my heart their acclamations, for I know they are dictated to you by the emotions which are inspired in you by our trials and by your sympathy for our cause, which is that of liberty, which awakened you. I am truly proud and happy at having chosen as my point of landing a port in France, to set foot on free soil, and to be received by you as a free man. But my first duty is to thank your Government for all these tokens of interest that again only recently it was pleased to give me. I believe England, had she been better informed, would never have consented to this war, and since the expedition of Jameson, who wished to seize the two republics without the necessity of firing a rifle shot, I have never ceased to demand a tribunal of arbitration, which up to now has always been refused. The war waged on us by the two republics reached its last limits of barbarism. During my life I have had to fight many times the savages of the tribes of Africa. But the barbarians we have to fight now are worse than the others. They even urge the Kaffirs against us. They burn the farms we worked so hard to construct, and they drive out our women and children, whose husbands and brothers they have killed or taken prisoners, leaving them unprotected and roofless, and often without bread to eat. But whatever they may do we will never surrender. We will fight to the end. Our great imperishable confidence reposes in the Eternal, in our God. We know our cause is just, and if the justice of men is wanting to us, He, the Eternal, who is master of all peoples, and to whom belongs the future, will never abandon us. I assure you that if the Transvaal and the Orange Free State must lose their independence, it will be because all the Boer people have been destroyed, with their women and children.

A TRAITOR SPEAKS.
Michael Davitt delivered a short address in behalf of the Irish people, which evoked much enthusiastic applause from those present, during which cries of "Vive Ireland" resounded. The gist of Mr. Davitt's address was interpreted by Mr. Kruger, who is pleased with his reception. Mr. Kruger only replied in the hall of the hotel to the first address delivered by M. Thourel, president of the Marseilles committee, who presented the traveller with a symbolic bronze group entitled "the defence of home."

MORDED THE ENGLISH.
Mr. Kruger received a great ovation from his hearers. Although the former president had retired for a rest, the crowd still remained in front of the hotel and horse cars and carriages could only pass with the utmost difficulty. The crowd called upon a party throwing soaps from the balcony of the hotel to take off their hats as Mr. Kruger passed. But the seemingly plausible explanation was given that they were Englishmen and did not understand French, and foolishly threw small coins into the crowd which they had so frequently done on similar occasions in England. The Frenchmen misunderstood this and imagined the soaps were thrown insultingly at Mr. Kruger. Hence a tumult. The crowd endeavored to invade the hotel, but the police prevented this. But the hotel people were obliged to close their doors, and late this evening an unfriendly mob was still beside the building, which was cordoned by police.

A WILD NIGHT.
The highly reprehensible foolishness of a half dozen persons in throwing small coins into the crowd as Mr. Kruger passed acted like magic in conjuring up an anti-British outburst, which it needed all the promptitude and energy of the police to prevent becoming a serious disturbance. The hotel remained for the rest of the day in a state of siege, while at one time a procession several thousand strong marched in the direction of the British consulate, shouting "Down with the English!" and raising other threatening cries. The result was that a strong body of police was compelled to disperse the demonstrators, although it was not found necessary to make more than a few temporary arrests. Throughout the evening, however, large bands of students and other youths marched up and down in front of Mr. Kruger's hotel and of the hotel which was the scene of the unfortunate incident, cheering in chorus for Mr. Kruger and the Transvaal and denouncing England. The demonstrators were more noisy than dangerous, and the police wisely left them to relieve their feelings by shouting instead of interfering with them, which might have created disorder.

An unfounded rumor was circulated in Europe last night that the Czar was dead.

It makes a man mad

To give up his good money for Rubbers or Rubber Boots and then have them break or crack in a very short time. Our Rubber Goods cost very little more than the cheap kinds, but we warrant every pair to do good service. All sizes and shapes.
