

A Family Medicine.

Mrs. D. Williams, Gooderham, P. O., Ont., writes: "I have used Hagar's Yellow Ointment for burns, scalds, sprains and bruises, and it has always given satisfaction. It is a splendid family medicine, it can be put to so many different uses." Price 25 cents.

(Correspondence.)

Champlain Summer School, Cliff Haven, N. Y., August, 1900.

PROGRAMME OF SIXTH WEEK.

PROFITABLE WEEK AT CLIFF HAVEN. THE LECTURE COURSE.

As was expected, the first of August at Cliff Haven has gone by with an attendance which reaches pretty nearly the limits of accommodation. All of the cottages are daily turning away applicants, as about every available room has been secured for the remainder of the session. The New York and the Brooklyn cottages are at present filled to their normal capacity, and the other cottages will have their full quota within the week.

Several excursions to Cliff Haven are being planned, one under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, and the other composed of Montreal friends of the School. Both of them will probably arrive here within the next couple of weeks.

Solemn high mass was sung in the Church of St. Mary of the Lake at Cliff Haven on Sunday morning at half-past ten with Rev. Gabriel Healey, rector of St. Bernard's Church, New York, as celebrant, Rev. Arthur A. Hughes, of Rochester, as deacon, and Rev. Peter Cusick, of New York, as sub-deacon.

The sermon of the day was preached by Rev. Thomas F. Burke, C.S.P., on the Dignity and the Value of the Sacrifice of the Mass. Judged as to its style, its subject matter, and its delivery, this sermon was a masterpiece, clear, simple, yet noble in phrasing, pregnant with the deepest and most elevating thought, and powerful and appealing in delivery. It was quite natural that it should make so strong an impression upon the large congregation.

The study class work in Shakespeare was continued on Monday morning by Mr. Coleman, the historical chronicler of Henry VIII being the drama under consideration. In method, the class is similar to that of last week, but necessarily differs somewhat because of the dissimilarity of the dramas which are being studied. Naturally, the discussions this week took on a historical rather than a dramatic aspect, on account of the construction of the play and the nature of the questions involved in it. Mr. Coleman, as a historian, has long been well known to the students at Cliff Haven, so much so that he is expected from this present class, both in results and in attendance.

The weekly course of morning lectures on Economics was instituted at half-past ten by Charles P. Neill, Ph. D., of the faculty of the Catholic University at Washington. This is Dr. Neill's first appearance before a Summer School audience, and it is quite safe to say, judging from the comments on his lectures it will not be his last. The first impression one receives on hearing him, is made by the exactness and breadth of his scholarship. There is nothing at all that is hazy, narrow or biased in his talks; everything is lucidly and impartially stated. Besides this scholarly attitude, Dr. Neill manifests the power of clear and attractive presentation of his material. Because of the high standard of excellence both in matter and in delivery, this course gave manifold return to those who followed the work throughout the week.

The class in Dante's Purgatorio was continued under the direction of Father F. P. Siegfried, who took up the work at the point at which it was given up by Dr. Longhlin. This class has considerably increased in size, many wishing to pursue the study of this poem under so accomplished and so versatile a scholar as Father Siegfried.

The evening lecture on "The care of the Indians and Indian Schools," by the Hon. John J. Fitzgerald, Member of Congress from Brooklyn, was of special interest to the students for more than one reason. The Indian question has been during the past three or four years one of most vital import, particularly to the Catholics of this country, because it involved bitter religious discussions and profound educational problems. The seat of this conflict has been the Congressional body, and therefore a lecture on this topic from a man who has been intimately connected with the discussion, is of rare interest. Mr. Fitzgerald brought many facts of interest which have not as yet gained currency, and also much thought and reasoning to bear upon this subject that it might be fully comprehended by his audience.

The last lecture course of the week was delivered on Thursday and Friday evenings by Rev. John P. Childwick, well known as the chaplain of the ill-fated Maine at the time of the explosion, and as an able and talented lecturer. Father Childwick took for his theme, "The Work of a Chaplain in the Navy," and "The Growth of the Navy;" and his broad knowledge of these subjects and his oratorical powers made them most delightful to all who attended.

Not a few of the students may be tempted to declare that this, the fifth week of the session of 1900, may take first rank in the history of the intellectual life of the School. From a social view point, also, this is quite as true. Scarcely a night has passed without some sort of an entertainment or other; each cottage seeming to arm at winning the reputation for royal entertainment. Among the more prominent of the affairs have been a musical at the Brooklyn, dances at the Champlain Club, Philadelphia Cottage and Curtis Pine Villa, and Silhouette party at the Rochester.

The sixth week will be known as Alma Mater week, the annual meeting, the lawn party and the grand concert under the auspices of the Association occurring during that time.

The lecturers next week will be Rev. John T. Driscoll, S. T. L., on The Philosophy of Theism, and Miss Martha Weston Schmidt, of Washington, on Art. The study class in Shakespeare will be under the direction of Very Rev. Herbert L. Farrel, V. F., of Westbury, L. I., and that in Dante under Rev. Joseph F. Delaney, D. D., of New York City. Father Lavelle will also continue his class-work in Logic.

Visits to Our Lord.

It is really surprising that Catholics do not make more frequent visits to the Blessed Sacrament than they do. Day after day we pass by the door of our churches and never think of going in to pay our respects to Our Lord and Saviour. "We have no time," "we did not think of it," and the like; we should make time; we should never forget it. There is no one so busy who cannot drop into the church for a minute or two every time he passes by; there is no one so busy that he cannot set apart a paltry five minutes each day to make a call on God. There is not a Catholic in Toronto or any other city who does not squander at least three hours of every day during business hours, there is no Catholic who cannot spare an hour each day for gossip. We Catholics fail to realize what a privilege, what a heritage is ours. Reposing on our altars day and night; ever-watching for little chats with our souls; ever ready to listen to our troubles; ever anxious to lend us His all-powerful assistance in our worries and trials, rests He who gave His life for us. What a happiness to pour out our souls to a sympathetic God! What a joy to be permitted to call upon Our Lord and Our God at any and every movement and be sure of a sweet welcome! What a privilege to be allowed to converse with the creator of all things! We rush in crowds to catch a glimpse of some great personage of the world; we esteem it a great honor to receive an invitation to be present in the same building with him; we are overjoyed to be admitted to an audience with him. How much more so then ought we not feel ourselves privileged and honored to be received with the open arms of mercy and of love which Our Lord and Our God extends toward us from year's end to year's end! It is a practical test of Faith, and each Catholic should ask himself whether he visited God in the Holy Sacrament of the Altar at least once a day; each Catholic should try to explain to his own satisfaction how it is that he does not visit his God often than he does. If carelessness has crept in correct it with its proper remedy—vigilance; if we have never been in the habit of making visits to the Blessed Sacrament now is the time to form it; if we have excused ourselves in the past on the plea of want of time we should go into the question and reckon up how much time it would take, and, over against that, place the time we lose each day. Surely no Catholic can persuade himself that a visit to God is lost time; surely no Catholic will ever say that business is too pressing and prevents him from spending some few minutes in the presence of Him who gives him health and strength to pursue his daily avocation. Man is bound to all justice to thank God for deigning to give him not only life but health to continue from day to day in his work. All we have, all we are, is God's; all we do, all we know is from God. In a moment He might take from us whatever we hold most dear. We scarcely ever think of all this, and yet why is that the case? It is a problem for each Catholic to solve, a problem of conscience, a problem of love. We do not keep ourselves sufficiently in touch with our beautiful faith; we do not seem to realize what a heritage is ours. It is a glorious thing to be a Catholic, the grandest birthday that ever befall was born to, and there is nothing in the Catholic newspaper is the watchman on the tower," says the Weekly Bonaquet, "telling what is transpiring day and night in the kingdom of God. There is a mighty work being accomplished under our eyes, and if we do not pay close attention we are apt to overlook both the work and the workers. The Catholic newspaper is the aid-de-camp to the generals in the army of the Lord. It keeps up communication between the battling columns and warns of the subtle movements of the wily enemy. The Catholic newspaper makes sluggish Catholics think. Catholics are lost because they do not think. The newspaper is a trumpet that sounds loud and shrill in their ear, and there is no escaping the terrible message it conveys. It does not usurp the office of the priest, but reiterates and emphasizes his teachings. It does not take the place of the rulers of the Church, but it gives strength to their commands and sharpens the accents to their warning."

The Catholic Citizen tells in the following brief editorial the manner in which the West is holding in remembrance Father Marquette: "The Middle-West is remembering its heroes; and Marquette, especially, is being well. Besides a number of rivers and counties which are named after him; there is the rising city of Marquette, on the southern shore of Lake Superior, where also the citizens have erected a monument to him in a public place. There is a mammoth Marquette business block in Chicago, where the frescoes tell the story of his voyage and exploration. There is a Jesuit College named after him in Milwaukee, and there is Trantona's famous statue in the Capitol at Washington, which defied the legions of bigotry and the gates of hell in getting there and staying there. And now a Marquette statue is to be placed on Mackinac Island, surely a picturesque place for such a memorial, and opposite St. Ignace, where the great missionary built a church and where his bones are buried."

"The latest available statistics show," says the New World, "that Chicago has thirteen more churches and some 50,000 more Catholics than New York. Which means, of course, that Chicago is easily first among the cities of the United States in its Catholic population. When one consider how the figures stood twenty years ago, as between New York and Chicago, one sees how marvelous has been the progress of the Church in Chicago during those twenty years. Add to this the fact that New York has the great advantage of being the city which receives each year a vast immigration of Catholics from European countries and the cause for wonder at the far more rapid progress made by Chicago is greater still.

After an absence of seven years, he left Cavite to visit Mexico to see his parents, but the sailing vessel had to stop at the Japanese port of Urando for repairs. The arrival of himself and his fellow friars was interpreted as an attempt of the missionaries to prepare Japan for future subjugation by Spain. It served the Emperor Taicosama with a pretext for ordering the execution of the Franciscan friars at Oaxaca and Meaco. The tips of the ears of the missionaries were cut off and they were started on their journey, lasting a month, to the place of execution. When they reached the hill where they were to die and saw the twenty-six crosses prepared for them, and the executioners with their spears and iron bands, and the crowds of Japanese waiting for the execution, the martyrs astonished the pagans by a tremendous shout of joy. Philip could be heard above the rest, as he stretched out his hand toward the cross on which he was to die, and cried, "Hail, precious cross, on which the Redeemer of the world died for me; O blessed sea-faring, O fortunate vessel, whose shipwreck has been for me the cause for such great gain!"

One of the iron bands with which Philip was fastened to his cross became displaced, caught him about the neck, and he was slowly strangling, murmuring, all the while, as well as he could, "Jesus, Jesus!" one of the executioners put an end to his sufferings by driving a spear through his body, thus giving him the martyr's crown ahead of his twenty-five companions.—S. H. Review.

our faith, nothing that can compare with the inestimable gift of our Lord Jesus Christ on our altars. We fail to take advantage of His presence because we have never realized what a value to wounded souls, what a comfort there is to be obtained from a visit to God. One enters with a load of pain and sorrow and comes away after his little talk with God relieved and refreshed.—Catholic Register.

St. Philip of Jesus.

Felipe las Casas was born in 1572. His early life was not edifying. Many were the tears and prayers of his mother for his conversion. Hoping that he would do better if he were removed from his evil companions, his father sent him to Manila, where he had large commercial interests, but his life in the Philippines was no better than it had been in Mexico. He squandered his fortune, almost ruined his health, and found himself in as desperate straits as was the prodigal of the gospel. Then, like another Augustine, he gave up his wicked life, turned to God and resolved to serve Him with his whole heart and soul for the rest of his life, and he did. He became a Franciscan friar, entering their convent in the city of Manila, and by word and example he encouraged all who came in contact with him to be true followers of Jesus Christ.

After an absence of seven years, he left Cavite to visit Mexico to see his parents, but the sailing vessel had to stop at the Japanese port of Urando for repairs. The arrival of himself and his fellow friars was interpreted as an attempt of the missionaries to prepare Japan for future subjugation by Spain. It served the Emperor Taicosama with a pretext for ordering the execution of the Franciscan friars at Oaxaca and Meaco. The tips of the ears of the missionaries were cut off and they were started on their journey, lasting a month, to the place of execution. When they reached the hill where they were to die and saw the twenty-six crosses prepared for them, and the executioners with their spears and iron bands, and the crowds of Japanese waiting for the execution, the martyrs astonished the pagans by a tremendous shout of joy. Philip could be heard above the rest, as he stretched out his hand toward the cross on which he was to die, and cried, "Hail, precious cross, on which the Redeemer of the world died for me; O blessed sea-faring, O fortunate vessel, whose shipwreck has been for me the cause for such great gain!"

One of the iron bands with which Philip was fastened to his cross became displaced, caught him about the neck, and he was slowly strangling, murmuring, all the while, as well as he could, "Jesus, Jesus!" one of the executioners put an end to his sufferings by driving a spear through his body, thus giving him the martyr's crown ahead of his twenty-five companions.—S. H. Review.

"The Catholic newspaper is the watchman on the tower," says the Weekly Bonaquet, "telling what is transpiring day and night in the kingdom of God. There is a mighty work being accomplished under our eyes, and if we do not pay close attention we are apt to overlook both the work and the workers. The Catholic newspaper is the aid-de-camp to the generals in the army of the Lord. It keeps up communication between the battling columns and warns of the subtle movements of the wily enemy. The Catholic newspaper makes sluggish Catholics think. Catholics are lost because they do not think. The newspaper is a trumpet that sounds loud and shrill in their ear, and there is no escaping the terrible message it conveys. It does not usurp the office of the priest, but reiterates and emphasizes his teachings. It does not take the place of the rulers of the Church, but it gives strength to their commands and sharpens the accents to their warning."

The Catholic Citizen tells in the following brief editorial the manner in which the West is holding in remembrance Father Marquette: "The Middle-West is remembering its heroes; and Marquette, especially, is being well. Besides a number of rivers and counties which are named after him; there is the rising city of Marquette, on the southern shore of Lake Superior, where also the citizens have erected a monument to him in a public place. There is a mammoth Marquette business block in Chicago, where the frescoes tell the story of his voyage and exploration. There is a Jesuit College named after him in Milwaukee, and there is Trantona's famous statue in the Capitol at Washington, which defied the legions of bigotry and the gates of hell in getting there and staying there. And now a Marquette statue is to be placed on Mackinac Island, surely a picturesque place for such a memorial, and opposite St. Ignace, where the great missionary built a church and where his bones are buried."

"The latest available statistics show," says the New World, "that Chicago has thirteen more churches and some 50,000 more Catholics than New York. Which means, of course, that Chicago is easily first among the cities of the United States in its Catholic population. When one consider how the figures stood twenty years ago, as between New York and Chicago, one sees how marvelous has been the progress of the Church in Chicago during those twenty years. Add to this the fact that New York has the great advantage of being the city which receives each year a vast immigration of Catholics from European countries and the cause for wonder at the far more rapid progress made by Chicago is greater still.

After an absence of seven years, he left Cavite to visit Mexico to see his parents, but the sailing vessel had to stop at the Japanese port of Urando for repairs. The arrival of himself and his fellow friars was interpreted as an attempt of the missionaries to prepare Japan for future subjugation by Spain. It served the Emperor Taicosama with a pretext for ordering the execution of the Franciscan friars at Oaxaca and Meaco. The tips of the ears of the missionaries were cut off and they were started on their journey, lasting a month, to the place of execution. When they reached the hill where they were to die and saw the twenty-six crosses prepared for them, and the executioners with their spears and iron bands, and the crowds of Japanese waiting for the execution, the martyrs astonished the pagans by a tremendous shout of joy. Philip could be heard above the rest, as he stretched out his hand toward the cross on which he was to die, and cried, "Hail, precious cross, on which the Redeemer of the world died for me; O blessed sea-faring, O fortunate vessel, whose shipwreck has been for me the cause for such great gain!"

One of the iron bands with which Philip was fastened to his cross became displaced, caught him about the neck, and he was slowly strangling, murmuring, all the while, as well as he could, "Jesus, Jesus!" one of the executioners put an end to his sufferings by driving a spear through his body, thus giving him the martyr's crown ahead of his twenty-five companions.—S. H. Review.

When Travelling

Always take with you a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

The change of food and water to which those who travel are subject, often produces a train of ailments, which is as unpleasant and disconcerting as it may be dangerous. A bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in your grip is a guarantee of safety. On the first indication of Cramps, Colic, Diarrhoea, or Dysentery, a few doses will promptly check the further advance of these diseases.

As Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is being widely and shamelessly imitated, your safety lies in seeing that the full name is on every bottle you buy.

These pills are a specific for all diseases arising from disordered nerves, weak heart or watery blood. They cure palpitation, dizziness, smothering, faint and weak spells, shortness of breath, swelling of feet and ankles, nervousness, sleeplessness, anaemia, hysteria, St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis, brain fag, female convulsions, general debility, and lack of vitality. Price 50c. a box.

MISCELLANEOUS.

An old Yorkshire farmer died. The funeral being over, the widow decided to have a tombstone erected and herself. To the local stone mason she explained her wishes: "I don't want nothing out of it, but handsome and simple, like this: WILLIAM WILSON, Died Oct. 4, 1896, Aged 85. 'The good die young.'"

MISCELLANEOUS.

A WELL TRAINED BOY. Mr. Godfather had brought up his son according to the good old model which teaches that children shall be seen and not heard, say "Yes, sir," and "No, sir," and respect their elders. When Johnnie went to college, he arrived with his father that he had resolved to serve Him with his whole heart and soul for the rest of his life, and he did. He became a Franciscan friar, entering their convent in the city of Manila, and by word and example he encouraged all who came in contact with him to be true followers of Jesus Christ.

After an absence of seven years, he left Cavite to visit Mexico to see his parents, but the sailing vessel had to stop at the Japanese port of Urando for repairs. The arrival of himself and his fellow friars was interpreted as an attempt of the missionaries to prepare Japan for future subjugation by Spain. It served the Emperor Taicosama with a pretext for ordering the execution of the Franciscan friars at Oaxaca and Meaco. The tips of the ears of the missionaries were cut off and they were started on their journey, lasting a month, to the place of execution. When they reached the hill where they were to die and saw the twenty-six crosses prepared for them, and the executioners with their spears and iron bands, and the crowds of Japanese waiting for the execution, the martyrs astonished the pagans by a tremendous shout of joy. Philip could be heard above the rest, as he stretched out his hand toward the cross on which he was to die, and cried, "Hail, precious cross, on which the Redeemer of the world died for me; O blessed sea-faring, O fortunate vessel, whose shipwreck has been for me the cause for such great gain!"

One of the iron bands with which Philip was fastened to his cross became displaced, caught him about the neck, and he was slowly strangling, murmuring, all the while, as well as he could, "Jesus, Jesus!" one of the executioners put an end to his sufferings by driving a spear through his body, thus giving him the martyr's crown ahead of his twenty-five companions.—S. H. Review.

"The Catholic newspaper is the watchman on the tower," says the Weekly Bonaquet, "telling what is transpiring day and night in the kingdom of God. There is a mighty work being accomplished under our eyes, and if we do not pay close attention we are apt to overlook both the work and the workers. The Catholic newspaper is the aid-de-camp to the generals in the army of the Lord. It keeps up communication between the battling columns and warns of the subtle movements of the wily enemy. The Catholic newspaper makes sluggish Catholics think. Catholics are lost because they do not think. The newspaper is a trumpet that sounds loud and shrill in their ear, and there is no escaping the terrible message it conveys. It does not usurp the office of the priest, but reiterates and emphasizes his teachings. It does not take the place of the rulers of the Church, but it gives strength to their commands and sharpens the accents to their warning."

The Catholic Citizen tells in the following brief editorial the manner in which the West is holding in remembrance Father Marquette: "The Middle-West is remembering its heroes; and Marquette, especially, is being well. Besides a number of rivers and counties which are named after him; there is the rising city of Marquette, on the southern shore of Lake Superior, where also the citizens have erected a monument to him in a public place. There is a mammoth Marquette business block in Chicago, where the frescoes tell the story of his voyage and exploration. There is a Jesuit College named after him in Milwaukee, and there is Trantona's famous statue in the Capitol at Washington, which defied the legions of bigotry and the gates of hell in getting there and staying there. And now a Marquette statue is to be placed on Mackinac Island, surely a picturesque place for such a memorial, and opposite St. Ignace, where the great missionary built a church and where his bones are buried."

"The latest available statistics show," says the New World, "that Chicago has thirteen more churches and some 50,000 more Catholics than New York. Which means, of course, that Chicago is easily first among the cities of the United States in its Catholic population. When one consider how the figures stood twenty years ago, as between New York and Chicago, one sees how marvelous has been the progress of the Church in Chicago during those twenty years. Add to this the fact that New York has the great advantage of being the city which receives each year a vast immigration of Catholics from European countries and the cause for wonder at the far more rapid progress made by Chicago is greater still.

After an absence of seven years, he left Cavite to visit Mexico to see his parents, but the sailing vessel had to stop at the Japanese port of Urando for repairs. The arrival of himself and his fellow friars was interpreted as an attempt of the missionaries to prepare Japan for future subjugation by Spain. It served the Emperor Taicosama with a pretext for ordering the execution of the Franciscan friars at Oaxaca and Meaco. The tips of the ears of the missionaries were cut off and they were started on their journey, lasting a month, to the place of execution. When they reached the hill where they were to die and saw the twenty-six crosses prepared for them, and the executioners with their spears and iron bands, and the crowds of Japanese waiting for the execution, the martyrs astonished the pagans by a tremendous shout of joy. Philip could be heard above the rest, as he stretched out his hand toward the cross on which he was to die, and cried, "Hail, precious cross, on which the Redeemer of the world died for me; O blessed sea-faring, O fortunate vessel, whose shipwreck has been for me the cause for such great gain!"

One of the iron bands with which Philip was fastened to his cross became displaced, caught him about the neck, and he was slowly strangling, murmuring, all the while, as well as he could, "Jesus, Jesus!" one of the executioners put an end to his sufferings by driving a spear through his body, thus giving him the martyr's crown ahead of his twenty-five companions.—S. H. Review.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS FOR WEAK PEOPLE

Those remnants of print cotton at 8c. are the biggest bargains yet. They are (quite English you know), and guaranteed to wash and be as cheap at 14c. but cheaper at 8c. PROWSE BROS.

Flour.

Some brands of Flour have advanced in price at the mills as much as 90 cents a bbl. within the past two or three weeks, and some millers think that they have not touched the top notch yet.

We were fortunate in securing several hundred barrels early, and we are now offering them for sale at a very reasonable figure for spot cash.

If you want to buy Flour it will pay you to write or call and get our prices before buying elsewhere. Every barrel guaranteed first class or money refunded.

BEER & GOFF, GROCERS.

A. E. ARSENAULT. H. R. MCKENZIE. ARSENAULT & MCKENZIE Barristers, Solicitors, etc. (Late of the firms of Charles Rossell & Co., and F. V. Knox, London, Eng.) OFFICES—Cameron Block, Charlottetown. Aug. 30, 1899—y

JAMES H. REDDIN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW, NOTARY PUBLIC, &c. CAMERON BLOCK, CHARLOTTETOWN.

Special attention given to Collections MONEY TO LOAN.

Dr. J. C. Houston Physician AND Surgeon.

SOURIS, P. E. ISLAND. GRADUATE MCGILL UNIVERSITY, 1898. OFFICE: Next door to Merchant's Bank.—April 4th, 1900. 3mo.

EPPS'S COCOA

GRATEFUL COMFORTING Distinguished everywhere for Delicacy of Flavor, Superior Quality and highly Nutritive Properties. Specially grateful and comforting to the nervous and dyspeptic. Sold in quarter lb. tins, labelled JAMES EPPS & CO., Homeopathic Chemists, London.

BREAKFAST SUPPER EPPS'S COCOA

Oct. 5, 1898—304

Farm for Sale!

On Bear River Line Road. That very desirable farm consisting of fifty acres of land fronting on "The Bear River Line Road" and adjoining the property of Patrick Moriarty and formerly owned by John Pidgeon. For further particulars apply to the subscribers, exceptors of the late William Pidgeon, or to James H. Reddin, Solicitor, Cameron Block, Charlottetown. JOHN F. JOHNSON, F. F. KELLY, Executors. Jan. 31—H

North British and Mercantile INSURANCE COMPANY

ASSETS - SEVENTY MILLION DOLLARS. The strongest Fire Insurance Company in the world. This Company has done business on the Island for forty years, and is well known for prompt and liberal settlement of its losses. P. E. I. Agency, Charlottetown. HYNDMAN & CO. Agents. Queen St., Dec. 21, 1898.

A. A. McEAN, E. B., Q. C., Barrister, Solicitor, Notary, BROWN'S BLOCK. MONEY TO LOAN

CARD.

ANTOINE VINCENT, Architect and Sculptor, Dorchester Street, West, is prepared to execute orders for Monuments and Church-work, in Altars, Statuary, Holy Water Fountains, &c. Work done promptly. August 3, 1898—6m

Those remnants of print cotton at 8c. are the biggest bargains yet. They are (quite English you know), and guaranteed to wash and be as cheap at 14c. but cheaper at 8c. PROWSE BROS.

Flour.

Some brands of Flour have advanced in price at the mills as much as 90 cents a bbl. within the past two or three weeks, and some millers think that they have not touched the top notch yet.

We were fortunate in securing several hundred barrels early, and we are now offering them for sale at a very reasonable figure for spot cash.

If you want to buy Flour it will pay you to write or call and get our prices before buying elsewhere. Every barrel guaranteed first class or money refunded.

BEER & GOFF, GROCERS.

A. E. ARSENAULT. H. R. MCKENZIE. ARSENAULT & MCKENZIE Barristers, Solicitors, etc. (Late of the firms of Charles Rossell & Co., and F. V. Knox, London, Eng.) OFFICES—Cameron Block, Charlottetown. Aug. 30, 1899—y

JAMES H. REDDIN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW, NOTARY PUBLIC, &c. CAMERON BLOCK, CHARLOTTETOWN.

Special attention given to Collections MONEY TO LOAN.

Dr. J. C. Houston Physician AND Surgeon.

SOURIS, P. E. ISLAND. GRADUATE MCGILL UNIVERSITY, 1898. OFFICE: Next door to Merchant's Bank.—April 4th, 1900. 3mo.

EPPS'S COCOA

GRATEFUL COMFORTING Distinguished everywhere for Delicacy of Flavor, Superior Quality and highly Nutritive Properties. Specially grateful and comforting to the nervous and dyspeptic. Sold in quarter lb. tins, labelled JAMES EPPS & CO., Homeopathic Chemists, London.

BREAKFAST SUPPER EPPS'S COCOA

Oct. 5, 1898—304

Farm for Sale!

On Bear River Line Road. That very desirable farm consisting of fifty acres of land fronting on "The Bear River Line Road" and adjoining the property of Patrick Moriarty and formerly owned by John Pidgeon. For further particulars apply to the subscribers, exceptors of the late William Pidgeon, or to James H. Reddin, Solicitor, Cameron Block, Charlottetown. JOHN F. JOHNSON, F. F. KELLY, Executors. Jan. 31—H

North British and Mercantile INSURANCE COMPANY

ASSETS - SEVENTY MILLION DOLLARS. The strongest Fire Insurance Company in the world. This Company has done business on the Island for forty years, and is well known for prompt and liberal settlement of its losses. P. E. I. Agency, Charlottetown. HYNDMAN & CO. Agents. Queen St., Dec. 21, 1898.

A. A. McEAN, E. B., Q. C., Barrister, Solicitor, Notary, BROWN'S BLOCK. MONEY TO LOAN

CARD.

ANTOINE VINCENT, Architect and Sculptor, Dorchester Street, West, is prepared to execute orders for Monuments and Church-work, in Altars, Statuary, Holy Water Fountains, &c. Work done promptly. August 3, 1898—6m

D. A. BRUCE, CUSTOM TAILORING AND MEN'S FURNISHINGS

Morris Block, Direct South of Post Office.

WE WANT TO DO BUSINESS WITH YOU.

We want your trade in Clothing and Men's Furnishings, we are doing our best to advance your patronage. Our store is one of the prettiest and best lighted in Charlottetown, enabling you to carefully examine the goods and helping to make buying easy. Make it a point to give our store a trial. We are sure you will be pleased with your visit and purchase. We have an unusually large and well selected stock. Here are a few lines we are selling quantities of just now.

Men's Underwear.

Men's Fine Cotton Shirts and Drawers usually sold for 20 to 25c per garment. Our reduced price.....15c Men's Double thread Balbriggan Shirts and Drawers regular price 65c. Our price.....45c A heavier weight.....60c Men's Natural Cotton Shirts and Drawers, well finished, feel like silk, well worth $2.50. As we have an extra supply of this line we have reduced the suit.....$2.00 Natural Wool, Medium Weight, although the manufacturers price is advanced, we will sell at old price.....$2.25 For those who cannot wear cotton we have very fine and light weight made from Australian wool, the suit.....$1.00

Men's Colored Shirts.

In this line we have the largest stock of up-to-date patterns found in the city. Stiff bosom, collar and cuffs attached, sizes 14, 14 1/2, 15, 15 1/2, and 16. Reduced from 75c to.....60c Dark and medium dark stripes and checks, open fronts, regular prices $1.25 and $1.35 reduced to.....$1.00 Silk front Shirts with or without collars, Straw Hats at less than cost.

Trade with us and you'll save money.

D. A. BRUCE, Morris Block.

FARMERS, We have all the principal grades of Binder Twine at lowest prices.

Fennell & Chandler.

Choosing a Bicycle!

In choosing a bicycle you must judge by appearances. You must judge by reputation and reliability. If you stop to think you will acknowledge that for years the wheels of reliability have been the Massey-Harris, Cleveland, Welland Vale!

Season after season these bicycles have led in improvements that have won the praise and patronage of the general public, and for 1900 with the five-fold facilities of capital and equipment at the disposal of their makers, places them in a sphere of their own.

Canada Motor & Cycle Co., Ltd. TORONTO, CANADA