Notes and Comments.

In view of the certainty that Newfoundland will have to face the money market again owing to the blundering financing of Sir Edward Morris, it is interesting to note the reception which is being accorded to Colonial Government Loans.

In the May issue of the Empire Review, we find the following statement by "Trustee" in his monthly article on "Indian and Colonial Investments":—

"Western Australia has again been in the market for a loan; offering another two million sterling of 4 per cent. Inscribed stock at 98½. This stock is a full trustee security and is redeemable between 1942 and 1962. The issue, however, like most other recent gilt-edged issues, met with scant response from the public and can now be obtained at a discount."

This quotation makes it clear that investors are not hankering after even Four per cent. stocks, and that even when offered at a discount of 1½ per cent. they do not take them, but wait and find they can buy them even at a greater discount.

What hope then is there for the floating of any more Three and a half per cent. loans by Newfoundland? It is clear that the next loan will have to be a Four Per Cent. one, and that under the present outlook it will have to be floated at a discount and there will be a big loss in realizing on it!

The question, of course, arises as to the need of floating another loan. This is due to the fact that Morris blundered badly in making the Railway Branch Contracts. His greatest blunder was to change the method of paying for railway building. Before that contract was entered upon, construction work had been paid for in bonds, and the contractor himself had to take the risk of the sale of the bonds. Morris changed this system. He agreed to pay in gold, and to obtain the gold the country had to take the risk of the sale. This has proved much to the advantage of the contractor and highly detrimental financially to the country. The Reid Nfld. Company have been the beneficiaries of the change and the country has lost heavily in consequence of it, and Sir Edward Morris is primarily responsible for it, and his Ministers and party are secondarily responsible.

But bad as the blundering has proved, there is worse in store due to the miscalculations of Sir Edward Morris as to the costs of the Railway Extension Contract of 1910. His loan of 1910 was represented by him as sufficient to pay for the whole scheme. His loan of 1912 afforded positive, conclusive and overwhelming proof that he had blundered. But it proved also that the country had lost. The country was "let in" for a loan that Morris argued in 1910 would not be wanted. The country was let in in 1912 because the Railway loan of that year could only be raised on terms more onerous and stringent than those of 1910.

Money has now become even tighter. Colonial loans are not now so attractive as they were then. The day of the Three and a half per cent. are done. Four per cent. are being floated at a discount and do not go off readily. The financial advisers of the Government have advised Sir Edward Morris of these adverse conditions.

The 1910 loan that was issued at 97½ is now quoted at 92. What will be the reception the country will meet with when it tries to float the loan needed to pay off the Morris Branch Line Scheme? The financial outlook for loan raising is worse now than it was in 1912, and Sir Edward Morris has put the country into this financial slough. (1) by his branch railway contracts of 1910; (2) by promising to pay in gold instead of bonds; (3) by his financial miscalculations; and (4) by borrowing in instalments on a steadily deteriorating market; and yet this financial blunderer has the audacity to warn the country against those he is fond of dubbing "political apprentices." Could any political apprentices make worse blunders than he has done, or be more extravagant than he has been?

A Real Farce Comedy.

At Rossley's there was a very large crowd of people and every one of them laughed heartily at the fun. It is a real comical act, full of funny business, keen enjoyment and clean amusement. "Oh, What's the Use?" will make you forget your little troubles and worries for the time being. There are some of the best pictures seen in a great while, one needs special mention—The Derby of 1912—one of the clearest pictures of the greatest of all races, with King George and Queen Mary in attendance. Mr. Rossley secured this great film while in London; also the burial of an old Balclutha veteran. The Star Orchestra with Prof. Ryall as leader, needs no recommendation. The new company for Rossley's Theatre leaves New York to-day by the S. S. Stephano.

Old-Time Hooding.

Appropos of the Lloyd's prospective voyage to Greenland for hoods, this was an institution in ye olden times with Bowring Bros., when the late Capt. Arthur Jackman in the old Eagle after the sealing voyage went to Greenland hooding and invariably made a profitable voyage. The last time she went was in 1893. Capt. P. Delaney, now of the Reid Nfld. Co., Delaney, now of the Reid Nfld. Co., also went hooding in the Eagle, but it is now many years ago. The Kite went whaling, not hooding, as the News of this morning's date says, evidently through mistake.

The Police Court.

One drunk was discharged, and three had to pay cab hire. Two drunks and disorderlies were fined $5 or 14 days. The case of the St. John's Meat Company vs. a butcher for a breach of contract, was adjourned until this afternoon.

Two Houses Destroyed by Fire.

A message from Magistrate Burt, of Botwood, to Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings to-day stated that a fire on Saturday night last totally destroyed two dwelling houses, the property of Mr. H. J. Crowe. Part of the contents of both were saved. The origin of the fire is unknown.

May Go to Greenland.

If competent men, such as boatmen, gunners and skippers, can be secured the S. S. Lloyd's, in charge of Capt. Alpheus Barbour, may be outfitted for a cruise to the Greenland coast where she will be engaged in sealing for a couple of months. So far the owners have not decided on anything definite but will to-morrow.

Clean Up Day.

To-day is what is known as "Clean Up Day," an idea inaugurated by Councillor Coaker and one which must be of great benefit to the city from a sanitary point of view. A walk through the streets of the city and on the higher levels shows that the leagues again this year decided to have one good clean up of their back houses and gardens, and the streets are strewn with garbage filled receptacles, the work of cleansing having been done thoroughly and comprehensively. All the horses in the Sanitary Department supplemented by many loaned by public spirited citizens are to-day removing the refuse to the dump and the work is being done thoroughly and with despatch.

Came for Hospital.

By the shore train last night a man named Roberts, of Briggs, arrived for the Hospital to undergo an operation. He suffers from cancer. A man named Abbott, of Stephenville, arrived here by the express suffering from an affection of the eye which resulted from an attack of grippe. It is feared he may lose the sight of the orb. Two persons from the Southern Shore—consumptives—entered St. George's Hospital yesterday.

Messrs. N. and S. Kennedy, the energetic young planters of Carbonear, not long ago bought the fine schr. Winnie F. Their many friends will wish the brothers the success their enterprise merits.
