

That Tired Feeling

The marked benefit which people overcome by that Tired Feeling derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." J. B. Emerson, a well known merchant of Auburn, Maine, says: "About five years ago I began to suffer with very severe pain in my stomach, gradually growing worse. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, being convinced that I was troubled with Dyspepsia, and was improved at once and am certainly very much better and feel more like working."

Hood's Sarsaparilla always gives me relief and great comfort. It is a God-send to any one suffering as I did.

Proceedings of the Dominion W. C. T. U. Convention.

A Tribute to the Mowat Government's Temperance Record

From Brampton—The Minister of Education Praised for Temperance Text-Books—Mrs. Williams Re-Elected President.

Saturday Afternoon.

This might apply be called the children's session of the convention. The regular routine business and reports of the various first dealt with, and at 4:30 the children's exercises were taken up. The church was well filled. Mrs. Williams presided and gave the little ones who had gathered from the various Sunday schools a pleasant welcome. Mrs. Todd also delivered an address, in which she warned the children of the evils of intemperance and urged on their reaching mature age they would engage in the work. The programme was conducted entirely by the children and comprised recitations and choruses.

Mrs. Cavers, of Galt, presented a very acceptable paper on "Sabbath Observance," in which the work of the department was reviewed. It had been given prominence from platform and pulpit and by distribution of circulars. The enforcement of the Sunday liquor law was unsatisfactory, and it was recommended that the matter be brought before the Methodist conferences. "The Union Signal," the journal of the W. C. T. U., was reported upon by Mrs. Ure, of Montreal, who urged that every Province should be well represented in its columns monthly. Mrs. Ure was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for her services as reporter.

Mrs. Todd, of St. Stephen, N. B., read an able report on "Purity in Literature, Art and Fashion." Though the department did not afford many attractions, yet it was somewhat difficult to get workers. As a general rule, postmasters were unopposed of the law regarding objectionable matter passing through the mails. The union had waited upon the Postoffice Department, Ottawa, and were informed that all that could be done was the prohibition of obscene papers. Impure literature was being circulated pretty freely, and a promise had been given for assistance in its suppression. Some Canadian papers had published disgraceful reports of a recent trial at Washington, but the papers would not print such matter if it was not sought after by certain classes of people.

Several unfavorable comments were made by the ladies upon the loose manner in which obscene literature passed through the mails. Several spoke strongly against bills which were posted around the streets to advertise theatricals. It was a shame that women should be insulted in such a manner.

Mrs. Todd further stated that the New Mexico papers had paid a large sum of money to get reports of the Washington case.

Miss Sanderson presented a report on "Purity," containing many good thoughts. Temperance work at fairs and exhibitions was reviewed at some length by Mrs. Rugg, or Stanstead Plain. In many places the work was very successful and netted handsome profits.

Miss Gilmour favored the convention with a solo, which was greatly appreciated. The department of the Y. W. C. T. U. was, according to the superintendent, Mrs. Jessie Woodbury, of Dartmouth, N. S., enlarging its work, and more and more vindicating its right to exist. Ontario leads with three new unions in twelve months, making a total of fourteen, with an active membership of 600, and 100 on the honorary list. These unions carry on twenty departments of work, and in several places, notably London, Hamilton, Toronto, and St. Catharines have taken grand proportions. Quebec reported steady progress. The Maritime Provinces have eight unions, an increase of two; 180 active and 94 honorary members. The sum total reported by four of the unions was $1,000. Manitoba was making progress, although somewhat slow. British Columbia has experienced a marked advance. The total number of unions for the Dominion was 37.

The reading of the report created some discussion upon the matter of "Social Committee Work," in which a large number of the members participated.

Mrs. Sanderson said that care should be taken in this regard, and she knew of a town where the "Y's" were going to have a parlor social. The president of the "W's" was invited to open the evening with prayer, but on her arrival at the house she heard that the social was going to wind up with a dance.

Mrs. Maxwell, of Paris, presented an account of the evangelistic work, at which there was no reason for complaint.

The question of "Scientific Temperance Instruction" has been steadily growing in favor. Mrs. Noyes, the superintendent, in writing of its progress in the Ontario schools, said: "Our earnest request for improved legislation has been granted. The work has been greatly promoted during the year, by the amended regulations of the Ontario Minister of Education respecting the teaching of physiology and temperance in the public schools of Ontario and the adoption of a new and excellent text-book on the subject. The new regulations place the subject in the compulsory list for the high school entrance and public school leaving examinations, thus insuring the attention of teachers to it." In the Maritime Provinces the study has been made compulsory.

"Peace and Arbitration," was the title of Mrs. McDonnell's (Toronto) report. It was most attractive, and related to a branch of work not before touched upon in the convention. Many editors, it said, were giving the matter their attention. Notwithstanding the military display in connection with the opening of the new armory in Toronto, a structure that will cost the people of Canada $260,000—a sum sufficient to erect an agricultural college in every Province of the Dominion—there was introduced in the Dominion Parliament by Mr. Edgar, seconded by Mr. Dickie, a resolution in favor of universal peace and for the settlement of all international disputes by arbitration. Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and Sir John Thompson both spoke in favor of it. This following the wake of the bill introduced by the Ontario Legislature for the appointment of a board of conciliation and arbitration for the settlement of industrial disputes (Manitoba having already passed a measure) was a notable gain for the year. Liked the liquor traffic, the military system had even been the scourge of womanhood, therefore why should the union not discourage its growth in their midst?

"Unfermented Wine" was ably dealt with by Mrs. Strong, of Prince Edward Island, who said that the Protestant churches were now falling into line and using only unfermented wine for sacramental purposes.

Saturday Evening.

The sixth session of the convention was held in the Dundas Center Church Saturday evening. The edifice was crowded to the doors with the delegates and their friends. The platform was very tastefully decorated with plants and flowers. After devotional exercises by the president, Mrs. Williams, and an anthem by the choir, the following members of the executive took their places on the platform: Mesdames Sanderson, Bullock, Cavers, Edwards, Todd and Miss Tilton, Ottawa, Dominion treasurer.

The president announced that Mrs. J. K. Barney, of Rhode Island, would deliver her lecture entitled "Clean Hands" on Monday evening at Queen's Avenue Methodist Church.

Mrs. Sanderson, president of Quebec Province, was the first speaker. She stated Ontario has been her home for most of her life, but circumstances had compelled her to make her home in Quebec. It was a beautiful country, she said, very cheap, and the Province was rich in mineral wealth, but the Protestants were steadily moving to the west. She thought, though, that a reaction would soon set in and the country would be filled up again. The population of Quebec was about 1,300,000. In ten counties there was an average of only 1,000 Protestants, and in 23 counties there was an average of 1 Protestant to 1,000 Catholics. It was in these counties that most of the W. C. T. U. work was carried on. Outside of the cities a great deal of local opinion is in force, and the French people seemed to favor temperance. A leading politician had stated that if a plebiscite was taken a majority of the French would vote for it. There were ten organized county unions, with a membership of 2,000. They held a series of temperance meetings first in one church and then in another, and they seem to be a great benefit and very popular. In concluding her remarks Mrs. Sanderson stated that Quebec was watching Ontario in her struggle with the great evil, as Ontario had done more work than Quebec would ever be able to do.

Mrs. Bullock represented the Maritime Provinces in the absence of the president. She said that the temperance sentiment was growing rapidly, and the fresh breezes of the Atlantic seemed to freshen it and help it to grow stronger. The department of evangelistic work was being taken up more and more. The lady superintendent was doing grand work among the prisoners in the big cities of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Mothers' meetings were also held monthly, and in some districts weekly, which proved of very interesting and instructive. They also held a "Little Girls' Home" for girls and strays picked up from the streets, and whose parents gladly sign away all claim to them. In connection with this a mothers' meeting for working women was held on Sunday afternoons. Good work was also done in connection with sailors, fishermen and lumbermen, and this branch was not only carried on by sent assistance. Another item of work was "Woman's Exchange," where working women could sell their work with a little commission charged that it was almost a charity. In closing, Mrs. Bullock earnestly asked that the children be educated to temperance.

On account of Mrs. Thornley being engaged with the work of the convention, Mrs. Cavers, the former president of the Ontario Union, spoke on the work of that union. It was the eldest daughter, having been organized seventeen years, and now has a membership of 6,000. This union has had lot of hard work during the last year in canvassing and working for the temperance plebiscite. They were working hard, also, in keeping this matter before the people. The Government is constantly hearing from the temperance unions, and individual members are reminded of their duty towards the subject of temperance in the House. Memorials had been sent to the Legislature for an improvement to the Temperance Act, and to the Dominion Government, to do their duty in regard to the French Wine Treaty. The Government had also received a memorial on the Franchise Bill, to show them that the W. C. T. U. had not dropped that subject. Mrs. Cavers also spoke on the grand rally of prohibitionists where they had been so ably represented by Mrs. May R. Thornley and others. They had also been represented before Sir John Thompson at Ottawa. The Ontario Union was very grateful for the admirable temperance text-books which the public schools were compelled to use. They had been agitating this question for a long time, and at last they had been successful. It was the best book, according to the opinions of most of the teachers, that the schools could use. In closing Mrs. Cavers said: "Let every voter do his duty in going to the polls this month, so that the grand work done by the plebiscite will not be undone by the election."

Mrs. Edwards, of Ottawa, gave her paper on "Woman's Suffrage." Mrs. Edwards stated that it was drafted from the bill which had been presented to the Legislature. Individual members of the House were being educated to the question, and politicians no longer criticized it, but were studying it out and watching results wherever it was in operation. So far the developments had been very favorable. Mr. Mills was to have brought the question before the House, but on speaking to differing members they seemed so unfavorable to it that he had decided to drop it. Mr. Dickie had introduced it on April 6, but this one only had reference to unmarried women and widows. Married women with one son she thought had more at stake in the country than childless millionaires. It was the best wives and mothers who wanted the franchise. Women teachers for the most part were young girls, and so they ought to have a few motherly women on the school board where they could look after the interests of their offspring. The unanimous vote of the women would be cast for the right. The old adage says, "All things are honorable in love and war," but love had been dropped out, and now nations were dropping out the word "war" and supplementing "politics" so that it might read, "All things are fair in politics." If righteousness was the basis of the government, what a glorious future Canada would have. Mrs. Edwards spoke in conclusion of a few objections made by men to woman's franchise. A lawyer had once said: "No one should vote for men to do what they were unable to do themselves." In looking over statistics, out of 1,000 doctors 900 would be unfit; 540 lawyers out of 1,000, and men over 45 years of age would be unfit for active service, and so should not be franchised. Another objection was urged that women's suffrage would cause disunion of the home. No upright man would quarrel with his wife on account of her having a different opinion than he had. The third reason was that women would be willing to give up the kind consideration they get from men. It would not make a woman less loving or less womanlike to help in the governing of her country. A fourth reason was that it would increase the responsibility of women.

Mrs. Tilton, the Dominion treasurer, then made an appeal from the Dominion W. C. T. U. for help in carrying on the grand work for home and native land. The audience responded with a large offering, during which the choir sang a very beautiful anthem. Mrs. Williams personally thanked the choir for the service they had rendered.

Mrs. Todd, of New Brunswick, was the last called upon, but she did not keep the audience long. In the construction of log houses, she said, there were always a few gaps, but called on the organist for the doxology.

Messrs. Percy Carroll, W. Skinner, and Miss Ziegler and Russ sang two quartets during the evening, which were highly appreciated.

At Victoria Hall.

The large hall in the Y. M. C. A. could not afford accommodation for over half the number that sought admittance Friday afternoon to hear Mrs. J. K. Barney, of Rhode Island, who in response to a request from the W. C. T. U., gave an address entitled "From Jerusalem to Jericho." Mrs. Williams, president of the Dominion W. C. T. U., presided at the chair, while on the platform were Mrs. M. S. Thornley, and about twenty delegates to the convention, a number of leading citizens, and the choir of the Y. M. C. A., which assisted in the praise service at the opening.

The lecturer was very briefly introduced by Mrs. Williams, and as she stepped forward she was cordially received. Mrs. Barney is a very able speaker, and was listened to with intense interest from beginning to end. Mrs. Barney uses a clear, strong, excellent flow of language, and now and then relates incidents which are very amusing and sometimes very sad, and more than once she brought tears to the eyes of men and women alike. In her introduction Mrs. Barney read extracts from Luke's Gospel where the road leading between Jerusalem and Jericho is spoken of, and which was familiarly known in early times as "the bloody way." The story of a certain man, who while traveling on that road fell among thieves and was wounded and robbed, was also quoted. Then came a striking word-picture of the priest coming along the road, who passed by on the other side; then came the Levite, who stopped and looked on the wayfarer, but rendered him no assistance. As Mrs. Barney described the action of the Samaritan in coming along, helping the injured man and binding up the wounds, could have been heard in any part of the hall, and tears came to the eyes of many listeners. The lecturer also described the departure from home of a young man, how regularly, but how he is soon drawn into the maelstrom of social evil and stranded, and how after his ruin he is passed by, unheeded by the robbers who have deprived him of his means and good character, but of his strength and mind. These robbers on the highway are compared with the liquor dealers, and the rough road as the one over which all have to travel.

"Yet," said Mrs. Barney, "in bringing you up to the Christianity of the nineteenth century we find that these robbers are the same. That is just where we stand. I want to ask you, happens, how it is that in a century like this is allowed—a century when temperance work is so far advanced? Let us call a halt. Let the women who love their homes and native land cause a halt of this great army which is marching downward and lead on the work of rescue."

Monday Morning.

After routine this morning the executive committee reported that Quebec city had chosen for the 1895 convention. Invitations had been received from Vancouver, Halifax, Montreal and Quebec. The committee also recommended the affiliation of the W. C. T. U. with the National Women's Council of Canada. The discussion on this latter point was left over for a day.

Mrs. Judge Jones delivered a greeting from the president of the Brampton Temperance Club. In the course of her remarks she stated that the president of the club, originally a strong Conservative, intends this year to support the Ontario Government because of the latter's attitude towards prohibition. (Applause.)

The election of officers followed, and during the selection of president, Mrs. Thornley occupied the chair. Mrs. Ella F. Tilton was re-elected president on the first ballot. Mrs. Williams was inducted into office and introduced to the members who gave the Chautauqua salute, and followed that up with a good old-fashioned clapping of hands.

Mrs. Williams replied graciously and thanked the delegates for the honor. Mrs. (Dr.) Todd, St. Stephen, N. B., was elected vice-president-at-large. A couple of ladies occupied the salient seats, where she received the salute and replied. The other officers were also re-elected, including Miss Tilley, Toronto, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. O. Rathford, Toronto, recording secretary; Mrs. Tilton, Ottawa, treasurer. Each officer was received with applause and each thanked the delegates in turn.

"Can a Boy Forget His Mother?" was the name of a duet that was sung by Misses Ruse and Gott in beautiful voice and infection. Mr. Moxon accompanied. Mrs. J. K. Barney, superintendent of penal, charitable and reformatory work in the world's W. C. T. U., was down for the Bible reading. In speaking of the White Ribbon of the order she said: "It's a blessed bond that binds our hearts together in this work for God and home and every land."

"It always seems such a precious hour when with my Bible I can give the message to the dear women," said Mrs. Barney in commencing her Bible reading. "One woman said you will give us something to do in the vestibule. 'Oh, I hope you will give us something practical,' and I thought myself I will give you all you can practice."

The word "Watch" was the foundation of the reading, and Mrs. Barney told of one woman, a president of the W. C. T. U., who held so many offices that she had no time to pray. "Get out of some of them," said Mrs. Barney. "Get out of some of them as soon as you can."

"What! Quit the W. C. T. U.?" "Yes, quit anything," replied Mrs. Barney, "only find time to pray."

"We live in such a time of rush and restlessness that there is so much fear that we will take the place of spiritual power. Take time for prayer. Let something else go—something that won't matter when you get on the other side."

"Don't talk about the monotony of work. Go on with your work, and the inspiration you will get there, I tell you, has got to be. If the women of this country would take into their hearts this message of ours, 'For God and home and every land,' this great temperance question would be within one generation of settlement."

Mrs. Barney spoke of one woman's earnestness in the work after ten years' apathy. "Why," she said, parenthetically, "if this convention was half as earnest as it ought to be to bring the world to Christ the world would call you crazy. We can never be too busy doing God's work (we might be in doing our own work) and keeping his commandments. 'Watch.' He said unto one in the early parts of your lives opportunities to watch with Jesus. 'Watch and be sober,' 'Watch as we endure affliction,' and 'Watch unto prayer.' We are to 'watch and pray for all saints.'"

The church was closed with devotional exercises. The church was well filled during the time Mrs. Barney gave the Bible reading.

CITY CHURCH CIRCLES.

The Salvation Army, it is reported, will soon introduce an innovation. The Hallesque coal-scuttle bonnet is to be displaced by another coiffure in the form of a black straw hat-bonnet, decorated by a neat ribbon of dark-blue color, with red edges.

Large congregations attended St. Andrew's Church Sunday. In the morning the service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. Allister Murray, who took for his subject "The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper," in view of the holy communion to be dispensed to the members next Sunday morning. In the evening the assistant minister, Mr. W. Patterson, B.A., of Montreal, preached a forcible sermon on "Clarity," in the course of which he said he hoped to live to see the day when all churches of the Lord Jesus would be rolled under one name in answer to Christ's prayer that all should be one, as the Father who were one. Preparatory services will be conducted by Mr. Patterson on Wednesday and Friday evenings of this week.

Rev. Dr. Antliff has been asked by many friends to re-deliver his sermon on "Modern Spiritualism" before he leaves the city. The great storm of Sunday evening week prevented many from hearing it. A number of London Methodists, pastors and laymen, leave town to-day and tomorrow for Ridgeway, where the London Conference will be held.

Mr. Newcombe, a clever young student in the Baptist College, Woodstock, has very acceptably filled the pulpit of Adelaide Street Church for the past two Sundays. The pastor, Rev. D. M. Miel, has been suffering from a severe cold and inflammation which affected his eyes, but happily he is now on the mend and hopes to soon resume his usual round of duties.

The very satisfactory annual financial statement of Dundas Street Center Methodist Church was distributed to pew holders yesterday.

The Bishop of Huron told the story of his trip to Egypt, and the Holy Land at All Saints Church, Toronto, on Friday night.

Rev. W. J. Clark, city, lectures in Strathroy to-night.

It is stated that Rev. John Potts, D.D., is the popular candidate for general superintendent of the Canadian Methodist Church, who, it is thought, will accept the principality of Winnipeg College.

Rt. Rev. D. O'Connor, D.D., bishop of London, will lay the corner-stone for the new Catholic school of the Lady of Lake St. Clair, Walkerville. The services began Sunday.

Rev. J. Arthur Tancock, of this city, has assumed his position as assistant to the rector of Grace Church, Brantford.

The official board of the Eastern Methodist Church has passed a commendatory resolution to Rev. Wm. McDonagh, formerly of London, who has been the pastor there for three years.

Rev. Dr. Sutherland, formerly of London, has been given a year's leave of absence by the Central Methodist Church, Toronto, Illinois, to prevent the slightest work on his part for six months.

the principles of the society, its encouragement to thrift and its charitable precepts and example. In that respect it was a public boon. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Messrs. Chas. Doe (chairman), E. J. Johnston (secretary), Doe, Thorpe and Fletcher, of Court Victoria; Walker and Parkinson, of Court Defiance; Element, Kirkpatrick and Fleming, of Court Robin Hood; E. H. Johnston, of Court London City; Nicholas and Reid, of Court Middlesex; Kelly and Long, of Court Orient; and Berry and Jarman, of Court Wolseley. The collection was a liberal one and the proceeds go to aid the Protestant Orphans' Home.

Mrs. Cavers, of Galt, and Mrs. Livingston, of Tilsonburg, gave short speeches Sunday evening in the London West Methodist Church. They were earnest and pleading, urging upon their hearers the necessity of the salvation of the soul in order to accomplish any great work for Christ. The choir furnished excellent music.

At Colborne Street Methodist Sunday school yesterday Mr. W. H. Henderson, who has been one of the most active workers and genial friends in that congregation, bade farewell in an address of kindly memories and sorrowful regret at his departure from the city.

—What might have happened to the richest Province in the Dominion if any easy-going politician had had charge of its strong box? What plunder there was for a gang! We have timber limits worth tens of millions; we could stand a debt of twenty or thirty millions as easily as Quebec. A politician of easy virtue would have lavished these millions on heeled and hangers-on, who, in return, would be enthusiastically voting him a god. Does not this thought throw some light on what we have escaped, and on what we owe to the man who has been in charge of our strong box for 22 years?—(Principal Grant.)

LONDON'S NEW ATHLETIC GROUNDS

Cinder Contract for the Bicycle Track Let—Splendid Park Probable—The Coming Relay Race.

CRICKET.

GREAT GAMES IN ENGLAND. Playing for Derbyshire against Hampshire, Mr. L. G. Wright scored 142, not out; and in the Essex vs. Leicestershire match Pougher was credited with an innings of 169, not out. Mr. W. G. Grace also played a faultless innings of 88 for Gloucestershire against Sussex. Nottingham has been beaten by Surrey by an innings. Lancashire has suffered the same fate at the hands of Yorkshire, and Somerset, minus the greatest of English left-handed batsmen, has gone down with terrible ease before the Middlesex cranks. The most dramatic victory, however, has been that of Warwickshire, which has scored its third successive triumph over first-class opponents. Nothing like it has been seen in English county cricket since the meteoric rise of Somersetshire some two years ago. In passing, one notes with pleasure that "W. G." opens his first-class season (it is not his 30th) with a modest contribution of 88.

THE WHEEL.

THE GREAT RELAY RACE. "Rex," the London Bicycle Club reporter, writes:

"Now that the Queen's Birthday meets for this year are a thing of the past, all the talk and excitement among the bicycle clubs is the great relay race from Sarnia to Montreal on June 15. 'Are you training for the relay?' is a common question every wheelman is asked these days, and if you have to confess that you are not, why you are promptly told that you are not in the swim at all. Nevertheless the London boys are doing their best to hold up their end of the stick.

"Capt. Wade, of the L. B. C., has eight relays of two riders each, in training for the event. The Sarnia Club bring the packet to Strathroy Corner, where Manville and Radway will be in waiting and carry it on to Lolo. There White and C. Tambling take it and go on to the fifth concession, where Beitz and Bennett will be on the stick.

"Hard to Beat. Playwright—Is he acting natural? Manager (enthusiastically)—Natural! Why, when she appeared as the dying mother last night an insurance agent who has her life insured for £4,000, and who was in the audience, actually fainted.

True religion is the perfect democracy. The harder a woman's heart works, the less liable it is to go on strike.

ready to go to Elginfield, and J. Tam and Sherbrooke take it from there to Creek, from which place Wade and I go to St. Marys.

"When White and Tambling meet, Bennett at the fifth concession come on to the 'Guns' in Victoria where Sweeney and Bryant will be waiting to go on to Crumlin. From there Manville and Foot go to Thamesville and Thamesville Holt and Glover will carry on to Ingersoll, thus making two different routes to the east, one via St. Marys the other via Ingersoll, at which place local clubs will take it up and carry on good work. With fine weather and roads a good record is almost assured.

"The farmers along the way are requested to keep their dogs chained up so that they will not bother the cyclists.

RACES IN QUEEN'S PARK. At the last meeting of the racing club of the London Bicycle Club the position of chairman was resigned by Mr. W. M. and Mr. James McCormick was appointed to the place. It was decided to hold a Queen's Park during the summer season, starting on June 19. The first will be for L. B. C. members only, but the others will be open to all. Suitable prizes will be offered.

Radway, the local crack, will enter 25 mile road race at Detroit on June 19, and will meet some of the best American riders. He will return for the Quebec race on June 19.

BASEBALL. Abbie Johnson, of London, is playing again with Buffalo after warming up bench for a few weeks. He is doing well but the team is in hard luck.

A CHALLENGE. The boot and shoe clerks of the city hereby challenge the T. E. Mara baseball club to play a friendly game of ball, same to take place on Erie St. at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.

ATHLETICS.

LONDON'S NEW GROUNDS. Next year the Forest City sporting organizations will no doubt have a park which they will feel proud. Mr. W. J. Reid is at the head of the movement, promises to leave nothing wanting. The plan will be: 1, a bicycle track; 2, a new location for the baseball diamond; 3, new grand stands which will keep the rain out; 4, new and much larger bleachers; 5, all these are in the spacious grounds in London West. The only person left out is the fisherman, but he can handle his legs over the broad water close by. The plans for the grounds are now being prepared, and is expected that everything will be definitely decided upon in a few days. The bicycle track will be one-quarter of a mile long and will be a cinder track at that. The contract for the material has been let to the McLaughlin Company. New entrances and exits will also be arranged.

—I would like to hear from both leaders a distinct repudiation and denunciation any organization that is based on the prescription of any class of our people on religious grounds. We need a union of a good man in Canada, and we dare not ask to any man that he must abandon the religion of his mother before he can be expected to be treated as a citizen. On this third ground, then, I say, we cannot afford to dispense with the services of Sir Oliver Mowat.—(Principal Grant.)

Sudden Death in Strathroy.

(Special per C. P. R.) STRATHROY, Ont., June 4.—Adorn Dell, one of the early settlers of the township of Adelaide, who has been a resident in Strathroy for some time, dropped dead from heart disease at noon to-day. The old gentleman had sold his farm, banked the money and had not withdrawn one cent of the interest.
